Basketball Trip.
The basketball team leaves tonight for a trip which will include games with Swarthmore, Georgetown and the Navy. Swarthmore who will be played on Thursday is in the eastern section of the league of which Penn State is a member. They were defeated last year by our team and do not appear to be as strong this year. Both Pennsylvania and Lafayette have scored victories over them. The defeat at the hands of Penn by the score of 18-10 was their first defeat for years in Philadelphia.

Georgetown always has a good team but the severe test the trip will come with the Navy. They easily defeated Pittsburgh by a one sided score and have victories this year over nearly every strong team in the east except Cornell who won by one point. At the conclusion of this trip there will remain but two games of the regularly scheduled contests. Should Pitt be defeated then one or more games will be necessary to decide the league championship.

Third Organ Recital.

Dr. Woodruff entertained a fair crowd in the auditorium last Sunday afternoon and rendered seven delightful selections. His "Prelude and Fugue in G" by Johann Bach is the most popular of Bach's pieces, although not the most difficult. The "March of the Magi" by Dubois was perhaps the most enjoyed. Besides the main theme there were two lesser themes, one a sustained high note, representing the guiding star and the other the plodding of the camels through the sand.

Miss Orta Rodriguez, a special Liberal Arts student rendered "Ava Maria" by Millard, much to the enjoyment of the audience.

The entire concert was one to be appreciated by lovers of good music.

Some New Men.

The Collegian announced some time ago its intention of increasing its efficiency, capacity and ability to pick up news by adding six new sophomores to its staff as reporters. The competition was not too keen, but after careful consideration, we have selected Aloe, Broadbent, Doyle, Elliffe, Kenney, and Kroll as the six candidates best fitted for the work. Their position is one entirely of probation. In case any of their classmates who are editors drop out for any reason; their names will be given first consideration, and in case it is advisable to increase the staff editorially, they stand first in line.

College Grange Day.

Friday, February 19th, will be College Grange day. Mr. John A. McSparran, the newly elected master of the State grange, will be present and will lecture in the Old Chapel at 1:30 p. m., the hour of the weekly lecture to Agricultural students. The upper classmen will occupy the seats assigned them; all other seats in the Chapel will be available to other students and visitors. The meeting will be continued during the afternoon, at which time a program will be rendered consisting of speeches by prominent grangers, music, etc. In the evening Mr. McSparran will address the Agricultural Society.

Mr. McSparran while here will explain the grange movement and will show what the organization is doing in the state at the present time. His wide knowledge of public questions relating to the farmer, his experience in various agricultural organizations and his official position peculiarly fits him to speak illuminatingly on any subject relating to agriculture.

An invitation has been extended to all Granges in Center county to join with the college students in the exercises of this day and it is hoped that student grangers and all others who are interested will take advantage of this opportunity.

The Hospital Benefit

When one steps into the Auditorium on Friday evening, March 12, he will find himself transported to the famous land of the Arabian Nights. From the very first whiff of the incense of the East, burning in great braziers, to the startling climax, when the deadly scimiter ends the lives of the unhappy lovers, the play leads the imagination through the splendors of the Orient to that part of Mohammedan life so hard for the peoples of the Western world to conceive the treatment of the women of the Orient. Around the belief that woman is only a chattel the plot of "The Hand of the Prophet" is woven. It is an all-absorbing theme and the outcome is of thrilling moment. Into this glimpse of Arabian life are intertwined some of the picturesque dances of the country and the songs of the people. The production of this play marks a big advance in the strides Penn-State is making toward uplifting the type of entertainment that an institution of its kind should present to its patrons.

Tickets will be on sale March 1 at a location to be announced later.

Real Work for Baseball Candidates Squad Cut Last Week.

Last week's work for baseball candidates consisted of light fielding, batting practice, and a general warming up.

However, this week marks the beginning of hard work for the squad, and from this time on Coach Harley and Capt. Vogt will keep the men busy with real practice. Towards the end of last week the squad was cut to the following men. Vogt, Liebert, Wardwell, Hesselbacher, S. Robison, Weber, Bly he, Crawford, Josefson, Bachman, Kominars, Baughman, Elliffe, Moore, Johnson, Sullivan, J. Craig, Mingle, Rand Miller, McConnell, Kaunas, Davis, Kern, Wheeler, Patton, Clarkson, Reimel, Hallman, Levick, Scollins, Black, Carner, and Tobin.

The Civic Club

The Civic club held its regular bi-weekly meeting last Thursday night. N. M. Rahn '15, and C. M. Crowell '16, took care of the current events and Dr. Clark spoke on "Negro Disfranchisement". There was a meeting of the advisory committee following the regular meeting.
