"Dad" Elliott Speaks

In a series of open-meetings and chapel addresses Mr. A. J. Elliott, last week brought home to a large number of students the elements in character and the principles of religion which should form the foundation of every college man's life. "Dad", who is an old college athlete himself with thorough knowledge of the difficulties and temptations of students, presented in a simple manner the way of real success in life. "The trouble", he said, "with the college man is not in knowing what to do, but in failing to do that which he knows should be done". Mr. Elliott's enthusiasm for his work, the story of his own life and the power which christianity has brought into it, together with that strong, fighting spirit which so characterizes his personality, have made deep and lasting impression in the hearts of many men here.
