

"Seers" and "Fools" Disport at Basketball.

Last Thursday night for one brief hour the "Seers" and "Fools" or in other words the chosen few of the "Collegian" and "Froth" staffs forsook their various and diversified vocations to revel in the intricacies of a regular basketball game.

It is history that the "Froth" staff won, but had there been no first half to this particular game there would be a different story to tell. When the first half had ended and the smoke had cleared away, the scoreboard told the sad story that the "Jesters" had amassed a grand total of 20 points, while the "Sages" had no more than they began with. A consultation of the "Collegian" stars was then held, and its immediate results were very evident for in the second period they straightway proceeded to gather in 10 points while their more frivolous friends could garner but six. The final score was "Froth" 26, "Collegian" 10.

The Band Concert.

Before the usual very large, enthusiastic and appreciative audience, the Cadet band last Sunday night gave its first concert of the present term. The band has always been a favorite of the students and Sunday evening's concert was ample justification of the fact. The popular selection "Adele" was received with the most favor but all the numbers showed the result of careful training.

As an invocation the quartette sang several numbers and Austin read "The White Swan". The latter was at his best and gave his reading with an interpretative power that stamped him as one of the best men in his line that we have ever had at Penn State.

Across the Way

More than fifty girls have entered classes that have been lately organized for the study of various problems. The three books that will be used are "Immigration Problems", "India's Awakening" and "The Child in the Midst". It is interesting to know that "India's Awakening" was written by Sherwood Never has anything been done for the Penn State girls to arouse so much appreciation and enjoyment as the giving of a victrola to the Cottage. Those who are responsible for the gift are unknown, but it is known that they are friends of the Penn State girls. A visit to the Cottage some time will convince them of the thanks that it is impossible to express.

The Organ Recital.

Miss Margherite Wilson, '15, will render the organ recital next Sunday, with Miss Katherine Davis as soloist. The program follows:

March of the War Priests, from Mendelssohn's "Athalia;" Serenade, Jensen; Prelude in F Minor, Buck; To a Wild Rose, MacDowell; O Rest in the Lord, vocal solo, Miss Katherine Davis; Cantilene Nuptiale, Dubois; Resolite, Horatio Parker.

Everything New Best Work

We make three deliveries a week

In Order to Afford a Greater Diversity of Selection to our patrons we decided upon the addition of several new manufacturer's lines of good clothes.

After careful survey and investigation of the foremost clothes makers of America we decided upon as being the firm best fitted to tailor clothes according to our ideas of the proper way clothes should be tailored. Whose clothes stood out, by clever designing, making as distinctively individual in style and good taste.

Rosenberg Bros. & Co., makers of Fashion Clothes, Tailors at Fashion Park, Rochester

A firm with whom we would link our knowledge in the production of as near perfect clothes as it is possible to produce.

These clothes in Spring styles from these makers will soon be shown at both our stores in addition to the clothes made for us by the following firms:

Hart Schaffner & Marx, Chicago;
Garson Meyers & Co., and Levy Bros.,
Rochester; Pellham, Philadelphia

A combination of good clothes makers, whose best ideas and our own embodied in selection of things, we feel most desirable to our patrons for Spring and Summer wear 1915.
