ENROLLMENT AT SUMMER SCHOOL LARGE

Enrollment Largest in History of Summer Session—State Board of Education and Thirty County Superintendents Visit School—Many Prominent Visitors Give Lectures

Leading all previous seasons in attendance, this year's summer school for teachers, conducted by Dr. T. R. Smith, proved to be the most successful of any held since the session began in 1910. From an attendance of 110 in 1910, the number has grown to such an extent that this summer's session is estimated to affect the teaching of fifty thousand children. The value of the session to the educational welfare of the state was greatly increased this year by the holding of a conference of county superintendents and the visit of the State Board of Education headed by Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer. Besides these prominent visitors many popular lecturers and preachers were engaged for the entertainment and instruction of the students.

1916 Session opened on Wednesday, June 28th in the Auditorium where the students were welcomed by Dr. Arthur Holmes and Director T. R. Smith. In the afternoon of the same day an informal reception was held on the lawn of the President's home. Following the study and entertainment began. Each day there was an hour of instruction in the Auditorium, at 1:30 there was either a lecture or a discussion of topics of general interest and in the evening there was singing and a short business meeting. On Sundays, the students were addressed morning and evening by some prominent preacher, among whom was "Old" Reed remembered by many State students as the former chaplain.

On Thursday, the thirteenth of July, the first midsummer conference of county superintendents of public schools in Pennsylvania was opened in the auditorium. Thirty-three visiting superintendents were welcomed by Director Smith, who introduced President Spurr. The conference was presided over by Dr. Smith, as chairman, and Professor Livingston Seltzer, of Schuylkill county as secretary. Reports of county club work were made and the value of corn, poultry and canning clubs in rural communities was discussed. The conference was concluded on Friday by a discussion of the new school code led by Dr. G. N. Phillips of West Chester Normal. On Saturday the conference ended with a short business meeting. The meetings of the conference were largely attended by the teachers of the summer session and the value of the session of teachers and superintendents is obvious. During the stay of the superintendents in State College a number of equity and Normal school reunions were held.

During July the Session was visited by Mr. Herman L. Collins the editor of the column on the editorial page of the Philadelphia Public Ledger signed "Glad to See You." This column is probably the most widely read of any contribution of its kind in the State. Mr. Collins before his visit wrote in his column: "A hot spell has the same chance" should form a strong nucleus around which to build the 1916 eleven.

MANY HOLES TO FILL IN PENN STATE TEAM

In addition to the four members of his 1915 team, Harlow also has the following second string players from last year's varsity squad: Cabbage, Kraft, Edgerton, Morris, Sanderman, R. Clarke, Swain and Gross. Harlow expects to try out Cabbage, Kraft and Sanderman at guard, Harlow at tackle, Swain at center, Morris at end, and Edgerton, Gross and R. Clarke in the backfield.

NEW MATERIAL PROMISING
In the members of last season's freshman team, Harlow also has a good source of material from which to pick candidates for regular varsity berths. The list includes: Beck, Robb, Jones, Enger, Bortz, and Hoss, fullbacks; Thorp and Gress, quarterback; Lige, Lindquist, Levinson and Conover, ends; Robinson, Smith, O'Donnell and Sutherland, guards; Krushank and Yawner, tackles; and Wilson, center.

Two new men have also reported for the varsity squad. Mills, who changed over from football to football in his course last spring is out fighting for a wing position. The other player is Cameron, a backfield man.

PAUL HOFFMAN Varsity Manager

Although as yet it is too early to venture definite predictions concerning the candidates for the vacant varsity berths, it cannot be gainsaid that several of the men have shown up exceedingly well in practice.

An unusually bitter fight is being waged among the candidates who are out to fill "Whitey" Thomas' shoes at end. Conover, the 180 pound center of last year's freshman team, Rogers, the 1915 second string varsity end, Lee, Levinson, the freshman ends of last season, and Mills, a newcomer, are putting up a battle royal for the left wing position, with the result that the outcome at the present time seems to be pretty nearly a toss up.

This year's linebacker has been shifted from the left to the right side of the line. Just now the veteran end is put up as a makeshift ever brand of foot ball and, providing the shift of position does not interfere with his style of play, should even better his record of former years.

In the fight for Captain Wood's old job, Krushank, the burly tackle of last season's freshman team, has been shown up unusually well. The former freshman star has been performing in a fast, heady style that places him well up among the leaders in the fight for the tackle post. Smith, who has been showing lots of pep in his fight for a regular varsity berth, Crushank at right tackle is rapidly rounding into form and if he maintains his usual aggressive style of play should be reasonably sure of his position during the coming season.

GUARDS FIGHTING HARD
The two guard positions have been demanding an unusually large amount of attention on the part of Coach Harlow this fall. Of the men who are out to fill the places of McDowell and Miller, Kraft, Cabbage and O'Donnell have all been doing good work. Smith, Krushank and Robinson have been putting up some mighty hard leeks, however, so that the final outcome as at present more or less a matter of conjecture.

At the pivot position in the line Swain appears to have an edge on Wilson, last year's freshman center. That changed Swain over from an end at the beginning of the season, but as understood for Painter in case the latter should be unable to play this year.

It is practically certain that "Stan" Ewing, barring accidents, will again direct the team from the quarterback position this fall. "Stan" put on weight during the summer, and at present is probably in better shape than at any time during the 1915 campaign.

by Berryman and Yeager have also precipitated a bitter conflict. The loss of Berryman, who was prominently mentioned in the early part of the year, has been felt keenly and Harlow is having considerable difficulty in developing a suitable man to take his place. Among the most promising of the candidates for the fullback positions are Beck, Jones, Edgerton, Hess and Robb. Robb in particular has been doing some excellent work. His open field running has been especially noticeable and, if he can develop the speed and defensive ability necessary to overcome his lack of weight, he should prove a valuable addition to Harlow's first string backs.

Captain "Jeff" Clark will round out the State backfield again this year in the fullback position. Clark is being counted upon to bear the brunt of the punting responsibility this season and to that end the Penn State captain is BUCHMAN AGAIN HEADS Y. M. C. A.

Returns To State After Two Years' Stay In The Far East

The Y. M. C. A. officers are completing their plans for an extensive campaign during the coming year and everything now awaits the return of Mr. F. N. D. Buchman who is to be in entire charge of the Y. M. C. A. activities. The director of the meetings will be held next Sunday evening and will continue regularly through the year.

Mr. Buchman the new Secretary in charge, although he really cannot be called new since he is merely returning after a few years travel, is now in New Hampshire and will arrive here within a few days to take up his work. He is well known to all the upper-class men since it has been only a few years from the time when he was with us here.

Two years ago, Mr. Buchman left State College and some time later traveled doing missionary work in China, Japan and eastern countries. He is a strong advocate of the social service side of a Christian life and aims always at this phase of the work.

Our old friend Pete Weigel has been attending summer school at Cornell for the past few months and intends continuing work there with the ultimate hope of attaining a B. S. degree. Miles Horst well known to us, is now in South Africa working hard to get the best of the summer in intimate contact with Mr. Peck and Mr. Shavel, or similar well spending some time each day in practice kicking.

LACK OF PUNTERS FELT
One of Harlow's worries this year is the difficulty he has experienced in finding a reliable punter to act as understudy for "Jeff" Clark in case the big fullback should be injured or forced to withdraw from the game. Higgins, Hess and Beck have all been given individual instruction in booting the pigskin but this far none of the men has begun to approach the form shown by Berryman and Manown last year. Captain Clark although not in mid-season form as yet is nevertheless improving daily and should be going right the time of the important contests in October and November.

MASON AND HADESTY CHOSEN TO LEAD TRACK ACTIVITIES

At the close of the 1916 track season last June the elections for captain and manager, and the varsity manager, were held. W. R. Mason, 17, the varsity quartermaster, was chosen captain and J. W. Hadeisty, 17, manager. G. A. Doyle, 17, was elected manager of the freshman track team. Captain Mason has been a consistent winner for the Blue and White during the past three years. W. S. Dever, 18, C. C. Hill, 18, and J. C. McAllister, 18, obtained the assistant manager berths after a stiff competition.
