

PENN STATE IS AGAIN BROUGHT TO THE FORE

Landscape Gardeners Are Busy With Surveys of New Capitol Park Extension At Harrisburg—Also Working on New Mitchell Residence Here

A work that will bring no little prestige to Penn State is that being carried on by the landscape gardeners. It consists of the drawing up of plans and surveys for the proposed improvement to the park surrounding the state capitol building at Harrisburg, the outdoor work for which was done on the grounds last spring. The project is taken as one of the student projects for the six seniors in the "L. G." course, and if their work is accepted as satisfactory it will mean a prominent feature in the capitol grounds.

DR. MOORE BACK FROM CANADA

Head of Geology Department Makes Trip to Hudson Bay During Summer—Has Exciting Experiences

Dr. Elwood S. Moore, head of the geology department, returned to the college last Thursday from a geological research trip to the Hudson Bay country, where from deposits have recently been discovered. Dr. Moore began his trip the latter part of last June and the first week of July found him caught in an ice jam in James Bay. Before the party succeeded in getting out of the ice flow it was necessary to anchor the vessel on the shore of a nearby island and put a new propeller on their small steamer vessel.

HEALTH SERVICE IS NOW READY

Free Treatment Is Given To Students—Advice From Dr. Forsythe

With the opening of the new college year, the College Health Service of which Dr. Forsythe is the head is prepared to attend to the ills and ailments of the students as was done last year. The service extends from attention including three days of bed rest to the necessary of a number of weeks of rest. Miss Helen O. Elder has succeeded Miss Forsythe as the nurse on the Health Service staff.

MANY PROMISING FIRST YEAR MEN SHOW UP WELL.

DEATH CLAIMS 4 STATE MEN

Two Undergraduates and One Alumnus Meet Violent Deaths During Summer—One Died Last Friday

No less than four Penn State men met death during the past summer, three of whom were undergraduates. Violent deaths while bathing were the cause for the loss of one senior and one sophomore, and an automobile accident caused the death of a prominent alumnus, a member of the 1915 class. Inflammatory rheumatism caused the most recent death only last Friday, the victim being a member of the sophomore class.

SUSQUEHANNA PROVES NO MATCH FOR STATE TEAM IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

DEAN WATTS MADE DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Dean Watts, of the School of Agriculture, was signally honored by the University of Syracuse at the annual commencement exercises of that institution last July. He received the degree of Doctor of Science in recognition of his contribution to the progress of agricultural science and education.

BILL MARTIN QUALIFIES AS BASEBALL HERO

If reports from the west prove true, Bill Martin, pitcher of Penn State's track team, has broken into the class of popular baseball heroes with the success and loudness of a splash in the water. He is a member of the Touchet baseball team, recently won championship honors for the home team by beating the best team in the west at the most psychological of all psychological moments.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

First one down! It was too easy a job. But the score should have been bigger. There is much to do before the team is in a perfect state of readiness. Captain Clark was right there when it came to recovering fumbles. Unnecessary delays and a large number of injuries made the game rather uninteresting.

HERE AND THERE IN THE COLLEGE WORLD

Over 250 men have worked for football practice at the Military Academy at West Point. Included in this number are Captain McEwan, center, and Olin, halfback, both of All-American teams. Among the other experienced men are Ford, Gerhardt and Vigan. Animal husbandry professors will ride in a horse auto race at the Central Iowa fair at Ames this week. The race is to be run in three heats, one on each day of the fair and the drivers have guaranteed to win which will finish the heats on the day which they started.

MUSIC COURSE POPULAR AT SUMMER SESSION

The music school, during the summer session proved to be the most successful ever experienced at Penn State in both numbers and activities. Dean Robinson, who had charge of the summer work, states that the total enrollment in his department was 277, the largest in the history of the school. Plans are now under way to even exceed this record next summer.

PRESIDENT SPARKS TO RECEIVE THE FACULTY

The annual reception to the members of the faculty by President Sparks and Mrs. Edwin Sparks and Miss Sparks will be held at the president's residence on Friday evening, Oct. 13, from 8 until 10 o'clock. This is always the first, big social event of the school year and its chief purpose is to have the new and old members of the college faculty meet and become better acquainted.

MEETINGS FOR FRIENDS

Announcement has been made that meetings for friends in this vicinity will be held every Tuesday the forenoon of the Auditorium at 7:30 in the evening.

THE MITCHELL HOME TOO

Another project of more than ordinary importance that is being taken up as a student problem by this class, is the laying out of plans and supervising the construction of the new home of Dr. Walton Mitchell, president of the board of trustees of the college, which is now being erected on the edge of the campus. The work here calls for plans that will cover a plot of between two and three acres and which is to be a fine example of the Old English style of architecture and the style of the gardening about will be made to conform so far as possible with it.

COUNTY CLUBS WILL SOON BEGIN ACTIVITIES

A summer of inactivity does not seem to have affected the spirit and "pop" of the majority of the Penn State county clubs. Most of the clubs have elected their officers before the close of last year, so that they can start the new term without loss of time. Although the semester is less than a week old, quite a few clubs have met, or will meet in the near future, which is a sure indication that club activity this year will be even greater than last year.

FRESHMEN URGED TO GET INTO ACTIVITIES

President Sparks gave his annual welcoming talk to the Freshman class Thursday afternoon in the auditorium. His principal topics were "Cheerfulness of Mind" and "Efficiency." In one part of his talk Dr. Sparks said that it costs the state $200 yearly for each student's tuition. For this, if for no other reason, each student should do something for Penn State. Not every one can be expected to be a great football or baseball player but there are plenty others who can do something for the student publications and the different societies and clubs.
