STUDENTS HOLD CHAPEL SERVICE

Special Student Service Held In Auditorium in Interests of Canton Christian College

A special student service was conducted at the regular chapel exercises held in the Auditorium last Sunday morning. Addresses were made by Mr. W. S. Hoffman, a Penn State alumnus in the class of 1911, and by a Chinese student from the Canton Christian College and Harold Clark, president of the senior class. The service was given over largely to the interests of the Canton Christian College, which is supported in part by students of the Pennsylvania State College through their representative, "Daddy" Groff.

Mr. Hoffman, who in his college days at Penn State was known as "Blind" Hoffman, is a prominent artist on the art staff of Groff, made the opening address of the morning. For the last three years Mr. Hoffman has been a member of the faculty of the Syrian Protestant College at Beirut, Syria, as an instructor in architectural engineering. In his talk he told of the great work being done by the Syrian institution along the lines of public education, and threw some interesting sidelights on the character of the Turkish parents, who, although earning but thirty cents a week, nevertheless manage to educate four or five children. Mr. Hoffman brought out the fact that one of these children so educated now held a doctor of philosophy's degree and was a professor in one of the largest American universities.

Mr. Groff, who studied under Groff, is enrolled in the forestry course here. In describing the work of the Canton Christian College, he gave a vivid account of the work being done by Penn State's representative among the Chinese farmers. He also gave the information that the college is becoming more self-supporting year by year, although in many of the students from time to time find themselves obliged to go to "Daddy" Groff for support. He speaks almost perfect English and is an exceptionally interesting address.

After Mr. Hoffman and Groff had given their talks, Harold Clark explained the need of new buildings at the Canton Christian College. In a few words he gave a clear-cut description of the system of giving for the support of the work at the Chinese institution, together with an explanation of the envelope system for Sunday offerings. He also gave a brief account of the support given by the student body here to the negro work in the South.

RAY SMITH ORGANIZES THREE NEW ALUMNI CLUBS
Last week, Ray Smith, general secretary of the Alumni Association of the college, made a tour to the state and organized three new alumni clubs, one at Reading, one at York and one at Williamsport. Each one of the clubs will have about forty to fifty members. The club at Reading will be known as the York County Alumni Club of the Pennsylvania State College, with headquarters at Reading. The club at York will be known as the York club and the one at Williamsport will be known as the Lycoming County club.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

Captain Clark led his team in scoring with three touchdowns. Robb's run was one of the best seen on Beaver Field for some time. State's line again proved a stumbling block to the opposing backs. Harlow's men played straight football for the benefit of the Penn scouts who were present. Speaking of scouting, "Bud" Whitney took a little journey to Philadelphia over the weekend. Beck was handicapped by his sore nose, but even at that he put up a great game. Wherry seemed to be the one shining light of the Westminster team. The band certainly does help to start the enthusiasm going. They were on hand early. One of Smith's kick-offs went directly between the goal posts and over the cross bar. Some kick! Thorpe ran one punt back almost to the place from which it had been kicked. Cabbage is developing into a mighty fine guard. He seems to have found his correct position at last. At one stage of the game, the varsity looked like last year's Freshman eleven. Kraft and Parrish were the only outsiders.

Yale, Harvard and Princeton all opened their season with whitewash victories. The Bucknell game this Saturday promises to be harder fought than the first two games were. Krushank at left tackle, was a tower of strength in the line both on the defense and offense. He broke through and nailed the runner several times. From the playing of the second string men, it would seem that Coach Harlow has a wealth of capable substitutes in case he should need them. Westminster certainly deserves credit for the plucky game they put up against a team that completely outweighed them.

An interesting comparison is possible from the first downs made by State. In the Harvard game last year, State gained 21 first downs, or just one more than they made against Westminster last Saturday. And yet we lost!

LARGE CROWD AT FIRST MEETING OF "AG" SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Agricultural Society held in the Stock Judging pavilion last Friday night should certainly have been an encouragement to the new officers, for over 100 students were on hand when President Niesley called the meeting to order. The other officers are Martin, '17, vice president, Owens, '17, treasurer, and Jeffrey, '17, secretary. The chief business to come up was concerning the annual agricultural fair, to be held on Pennsylvania day and the two following days. In previous years, a manager, secretary and treasurer of the fair have always been elected, but it was decided that in order to save time this year they should be appointed by the cabinet of the society. Some other routine business was transacted and then the formal meeting was adjourned in order to listen to the various speakers. Professor Gardner, of the department of agronomy was the first speaker. He discussed the advisability of joining the society of subscribing to the Penn State Farmer, and of taking an active interest in the work. Professor Hietzer, the new head of the department of horticulture, was then called upon to say a few words to the freshmen. The influence of college friendships was the theme on which he spoke, pointing out that this phase of college was as important as the study of text books. The president next introduced Professor Kamusson, the new head of the department of dairy husbandry. Professor DeTurk, of the Agricultural Chemistry department, and Professor Weaver of the Agricultural Extension service, outlined the work of their respective departments, while Professor Severson explained the animal husbandry work. The last speaker was introduced, not as "dean" but as "Bill" Wood, the new advisor to the two year men. "Bill" made a plea for strong minds, clean lives, and fair play and he was given a great ovation at the conclusion of his talk.

STATE TEAM SHOWS MUCH IMPROVEMENT

(Continued from Page 1.) plays could be run off, however the half ended. WESTMINSTER BRACES The second half was marked by a noticeable brace in the Westminster team. They played a better game all around due perhaps to the many changes in the State team and it was during this quarter that the visitors made two determined resistances on their goal line before State was allowed to score. Westminster also invaded State territory several times putting State on the defensive for a few moments.

Much of this aggression was due to the many successful forward passes which were attempted. Through the last two periods, Westminster worked continually at the passing game and proved their ability at it. The work of Wherry, Wierman and Vance was noticeable in this direction. The original State team was somewhat shattered during the final quarter, but Clark's guns thru tackle won much ground. The most apparent plays of the day were the long runs staged by Robb, Jones, Thorpe and in fact most all of the back field men. Robb's run especially was a fine exhibition of open field running and dodging. Smith got away with some excellent kick-offs, and kicking the ball entirely past the opponent's goal line. Westminster kicked to State at the opening of the half and after rushing the ball down the field by a series of line plunges and end runs. Cabbage attempted a field goal from the 20 yard line and failed. After Westminster had failed to make first down the ball was APD STATE TEAM. Westminster's 20-yard line and Clark scored a touchdown on a criss-cross through the Westminster line. Cabbage kicked the goal score, 65-0.

ROBB GETS LOOSE Shortly after the next kick off Westminster punted to Robb. Vance was hurt but resumed play. Robb went around left end for 50 yards and a touchdown. It was a fine exhibition of dodging. Cabbage kicked the goal score, 62-0. After the next kick off Westminster successfully completed a forward pass which netted 30 yards. Several other forwards failed and they punted to Thorpe. Jones went around right end for 50 yards but was brought back because of a penalty on one of the State men. Hess, Jones and Gross made successive line plunges putting the ball within scoring distance. Lindquist was hurt. Hess went over after two plays but Smith missed the goal. Score, 48-0. The quarter ended after State kicked over the opponent's goal line. It was during the last quarter that the visitors made the best fight of the game. Not long after the opening of the period, State scored her final touchdown after a long open field run by Thorpe and line plunges by Jones and Hess. Hess carried the ball over. Dze kicked the goal. Score, 55-0. During the last quarter, Westminster worked two good passes, Wherry to Wddy and Wherry to Wierman which together netted 16 yards. State regained possession of the ball and after it had been pushed up and down the field several times the game ended with State in possession. Final score, State 55, Westminster 0.
