

AND FRESHIES WIN IN INTERCLASS LACROSSE

Two of the interclass lacrosse games were played last Saturday. The Sophomores trounced the Seniors with a 1 to 0 score, while the Freshmen defeated the Juniors by a 3 to 2 score. The Sophomores displayed a great deal of their last year's pep, although the Seniors played some good lacrosse as was shown by the closeness of the score. There is evidence of good material to be found in the Sophomores playing with promise well for the varsity team in the spring. The Freshmen showed a great deal of aggressiveness and put up a good game against the seasoned Juniors. There is promise of good material in the Freshmen squad which augurs well for future Varsity teams. There is a bright chance, judging from Saturday's playing, for the Freshmen to come out in the lead in the class schedule.

Alumni to Launch Booster Campaign quo and dependable income to the College" and the conclusions arrived at are those set forth in a recent report of the chairman of the committee. "A survey of the conditions which surround the acquisition of money for the maintenance and development of the Pennsylvania State College shows that the only possible source of income to the College is the State—at least for many years to come. Also that, while the final power in the distribution of State aid is with the legislative and administrative officers of the Commonwealth, there are factors in every county of the State which have a powerful influence on official action. This, then, defines the field of action of our campaign.

"The committee finds, though, a startling lack of knowledge and much misconception on the part of the people of the State—both public officials and private citizens—as to just what Penn State is, its relation to the Commonwealth and the service it renders. And this ignorance regarding the Pennsylvania State College is not confined to those outside its own circle. A great many of our own alumni do not know many of the strongest features of the strength of their Alma Mater. This is not a sharp criticism of the alumni, but rather a statement of a fact for which they are not entirely responsible. We are not entirely responsible for this diamant weakness which our country must attack before anything else is attempted.

"We can hardly expect much consistent support of an institution the exact status of which is not well appreciated and believed in by those who should be its patrons.

"The Booster Campaign is therefore, for the present, simply a publicity campaign. It aims only to educate. It is positively not involved in politics in any fashion."

In a little news sheet bearing the title "Booster Bulletin No. 1," which was recently sent to all alumni, the general nature and history of the publicity campaign is brought out as follows:

WHAT IS "THE BOOSTER CAMPAIGN?"

It really had its birth about six years ago.

In 1910 a small body of alumni, who had from year to year kept the Alumni Association in existence, concluded that the time had come to place that organization on a more active basis. This decision was prompted not by a theory, but by an actual need. The College was increasing rapidly in number and the alumni themselves were seeking ways to express their interest in their Alma Mater and their fellow students. The old form of a nominal Alumni Association was outgrown. Something new, with a directing head "on the job" all the year round and a permanent office for headquarters, was necessary.

This decision was promptly acted upon. A permanent secretary was employed, an office established at the College, and the work of a real alumni organization began.

These last six years have been marked by a great change in Penn State's alumni spirit. It is the alumni who are now who has not read the "Quarterly" and the "News," who has not been interested in his freshman and the Commencement Alumni Day festivities or who has not had a place in one of the Alumni Clubs which have been springing up from coast to coast.

THE BOOSTER IDEA CRYSTALLIZES. This close association of the alumni with one another and with the College in a common cause naturally developed many ideas for the benefit of the College. A great variety of projects came in for consideration. Many of these were sought to realize many of these hopes, but as time went on it became more and more clear that lack of all this miscellaneous assortment of projects there was One Great Fundamental Need of the College which was gradually enlisting the interest of all alumni, and in comparison with which all other interests were secondary.

This need was evident when the alumni visited the campus and saw the vast numbers of students and the cramped quarters in which they were being accommodated. It was further impressed when they learned that in four years over one thousand applications for admission had been rejected for lack of ample facilities. The loss of valuable members of the faculty and the inability to develop necessary courses of study were additional conditions which were observed to be undermining the essential structure of the College.

The One Great Fundamental Need of the College was quickly seen to be its lack of systematic financial support. To help remedy this imperative need became the predominant desire of the alumni, and with this purpose the moment now popularly called "The Booster Campaign," had its inception.

THE BOOSTER CAMPAIGN ORGANIZED. The project was presented to the alumni assembled in the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in June, 1915. To put the idea into organized form, the President of the Association undertook to appoint a committee to take full charge of the matter, develop a plan and put into operation as a venture separate and distinct from the routine work of the organization.

Musicians of Note to Come to Penn State

The remaining number will be the first of the series to be given, a recital by Christine Miller, contralto, on Friday evening, December 8. The date for the appearance of the Kneisel quartet is Friday evening, February 23. In securing these stellar musical attractions for State College, the department is not only placing the College on a higher plane in the musical world, but is following out its plan of last year in opening a new era in this line for the patrons of this vicinity. Dean Robinson has been working hard to make the appearance of these high class attractions a success, assisted by Mrs. Clara Bowen Shepard, who is managing the appearance of the solo numbers. Mrs. Shepard is well known here, having managed the appearance of the Kneisel quartet, Marie Soddart, Cordeella Lee and Mary Wilderman here last season.

In order to bring the Kneisel's here for a return engagement and to arrange for the appearance of Christine Miller and the symphony orchestra, it will be necessary to issue a large guarantee. In order to do this, the faculty members, student body and townspeople will be asked to support the undertaking as liberally as possible. It is said that the appearance of last season's numbers lent material influence towards creating a permanent musical atmosphere in Penn State. It is expected that patrons from Bellefonte and surrounding places will attend these concerts in large numbers, as was the case last season.

Mrs. Shepard declares that there must be a veritable increase in point of interest this year in order to include one of the symphony orchestras "impromptu" recitals will be a feature after each concert, that all may enjoy the pleasure of greeting the artists.

PRICES LOW

The scale of prices for the series will be consistently low, considering the magnitude of the attractions. Mrs. Shepard will make personal calls upon faculty members, students and the general public within the next few days to secure their support in the form of subscriptions for tickets. One thousand seats will be set aside for students at $1.50 for the course of three numbers.

The price of the faculty and general public is set at $4 for the course. The price of single concerts to the students will be $1.50 and to the faculty and general public, $2.00. The sale of reserved seats will open at Gilliland's and Krunkling's drug stores on December 1.

Mrs. Shepard has been in town for the past week or so, and reports that she has already received great encouragement for the success of the undertaking. She says that if continuous inquiry can be taken as an indication, there is truly a growing interest in the cultivation of good music in State College. She can be found at the borough Y. W. C. A. and will gladly give any information desired relative to the series.

The college and the department of music will receive a generous percentage of the profits from the undertaking. No little support is needed for the assured appearance of any one of the scheduled concerts, particularly the proposed symphony orchestra.

Lafayette Will Give State A Hard Tussle end runners and forward pass experts that is hard to beat. Gullett, the giant left guard, who towers six feet, three and one-half inches above terra firma, is one of the hardest fighters on the Lafayette line. He has been a tower of strength to the Red Line for four seasons, and is especially effective in breaking up backfield plays and forward passes.

The playing of Martin at fullback was a feature of the Penn-Lafayette game. This is his first year on the varsity team and he is making good with vengeance. His line bucking and punting are especially noteworthy features. It is said a very good man on the secondary defensive play.

Thaxton, Gano and Woodruff will supply the end material, and all are said to be speedy and effective in getting down under punts and picking out plays. Mummet will be shifted from guard to tackle where his experience will strengthen the team to a great extent. The balance of the team is made up mostly of seasoned material. The outcome of this game will be watched with special interest by the Lafayette fans. It is said a line on the relative strength of the two teams, both having played against State. The "dope" went wrong last year, for Lafayette was defeated by State by a large score, and Leigh to be a very close one. Lafayette then turned around and walloped Leigh when it was generally expected that the Red team was considerably the weaker. Lafayette went through its entire season last year without any over exertion, laying in wait for the Leigh crew. The Lafayette scores to date are: Fordham 0, Lafayette 0, Swarthmore 10, Lafayette 0, Ursinus 0, Lafayette 0; Princeton 29, Lafayette 6; Lehigh 14, Lafayette 14; Penn 19, Lafayette 0; Lafayette 32, Albright 0.

The probable line up of the Lafayette team for Friday's game will be:

Name	Weight	Height	Team
Thaxton, I. C.	375	5 ft. 11 in.	2
Gano, I. C.	367	5 ft. 11 in.	1
Mummet, I. C.	377	5 ft. 10 in.	4
Gullett, I. C.	383	6 ft. 3 1/2 in.	1
Gollally, C.	373	5 ft. 10 in.	1
Ernst, R. J.	370	6 ft. 0 in.	1
Winnam, R. J.	358	6 ft. 11 in.	1
Woodruff, R. J.	358	6 ft. 0 in.	2
Taylor, G. B.	370	5 ft. 11 in.	1
Diamond, I. B.	356	5 ft. 8 in.	1
Ellis, R. H.	352	5 ft. 7 in.	1
Martin, J. B.	352	5 ft. 7 in.	1

Penn State's line up for this game will be about the same as that which started the game against Lehigh with the possible exception that Leigh may play an end.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

The way State's line broke through and nailed the Lehigh backs for losses was the bright spot of the game.

Krusik and Conover were down with a tackle. They each made a tackle.

Swain and Higgins put up a great game on the wings. They were not out-lanked once during the game.

Captain Clark's lay-off didn't affect his punting any. He averaged over forty yards.

The loss of Robb after the second quarter handicapped State.

Edgerton made good with a vengeance. The ball went high over the cross bar and directly between the posts.

The returns were handled much better than those from the Penn game, which resulted in more legitimate "dope."

The freshman had another easy time of it and won without much difficulty.

Freshmen Walk Over Mansfield in Easy Victory

kicked for Mansfield, who, apparently taking a flying start, made three first downs and then expired for the remainder of the game as far as aggressive play was concerned. As soon as the eager Freshmen had gained possession, they rumped gleefully down the field and shoved McKelvey across the white wash for the initial score. Wolfe booted the kick. Immediately after the next kick off Anderson pulled down a forward intended for a Mansfield end and after a few successful line plunges Dunbar warmed his way around the right end for 20 yards and a touchdown while Rauch raised the piskin over the cross-bar. The quarter ended shortly after with the Freshmen 11 points in the lead.

In the second quarter the same story was enacted. Anderson and Dunbar advanced the ball to within striking distance by a series of end runs and line plunges and then McKelvey covered the necessary ground and plunged over the line, Rauch missed his try for a goal.

After the first year men had delivered to Mansfield, they lost the ball on downs. Then Way and Dunbar each carried the ends for 10 yards. Ochsenreiter, who had substituted for McKelvey, carried the ball on the succeeding play and forced his way for two yards the possible exception that Leigh may play an end.

The second half opened with Mansfield kicking to the Freshmen. The 20 team immediately opened the attack and after a few minutes of play they had crossed the goal line. Rauch kicked the goal. Score, Freshmen 31, Mansfield 0. Following the next kick off Mansfield punted but soon intercepted a forward pass and again had the ball for a few minutes. Harris made a good run around end and a few plays later he crossed the line. The Freshmen kicked off again and Mansfield gained a first down just as the quarter ended. In the last quarter the teams played about the same game that had been put up in the earlier periods and the Freshmen were able to secure two more touchdowns and their accompanying goals. These last scores made the total, Freshmen 54, Mansfield 0.

Substitutions—State: Anderson for Wolfe, Ochsenreiter for McKelvey, Brown for Smorinsky, Griffiths for Dunbar, Behr for Anderson, Miller for Way, Sloppy for Frischling, Bart for Black, Wolf for Griffiths, Harris for Way, Hilbach for Miller, Smith for Rauch, Anderson for Wolf, Smorinsky for Brown, McKelvey for Harris, Jones for Black.

Mansfield: Reckes for Vetter, Everitt for Reckes, Vetter for Everitt, Bowser for Gazelle, Empire, R. Clarke, State, Referee, Painter, State, Timekeeper, Cats, Colby, Time of Quarters, 12 minutes.

MURAD THE Turkish Cigarette
That Murads are Better than many 25 cent cigarettes is NOT a mere claim. Murads ARE better—because better, higher-priced tobacco goes into Murads. Much of the tobacco used in many 25 CENT cigarettes could never get into the Murad brand. These facts are perfectly well known among cigarette manufacturers. We Challenge Contradiction. Don't pay 25 Cents for a cigarette whose price is the only expensive thing about it. A half dozen puff will show how much better Murads are.
