According to the latest information received by Dean Sackett, purpose of being inducted into the ser-student organization the first class of 125 men will be sent April 1st. The first quota is as large as can be accommodated in the shops at the same time that the regular college classes are being cared for. However, the second integral to the draft law was passed in the shops at the same time that the regular will be about four hundred and is scheduled to arrive about classics. However, the second in the stallment will be about four hundred and is scheduled to arrive about eligible May 1st, by which time the college year will have closed.

The limit of four hundred which is assigned to Penn State is apparently determined by the housing facilities available, as the memorandum submitted by the college authorities stated that instruction could be provided for from five to six hundred men.

HANKOW COLLEGE HEAD

The War Department insists that the men shall be housed on the campus and they will probably be confined most of the time to the college grounds. The idea of this ruling is to keep the mer under strict military discipline at all times except when they are pursuing their class room work. Due to this desision, it has been necessary for many of the other institutions that will engage in similar work, to erect wooden barracks or to lease large buildings in order to provide the necessary housing facilities Penn State is fortunate in this respect as practically the whole number can be comfortably housed in Old Main It has also been suggested two hundred more can be taken care of

To Train For Aviation Work

Practically all the men who will be here during the summer will be trained for the Aviation service As a result of this training, they will be able to make repairs to damaged planes, engines, repair trucks, search lights, and other apparatus employed in this service in the field, thus reducing the amount of apparatus heretofore abandoned for lack of prompt repair. The men of the first quota will be trained as blacksmiths, machinists, wood specialists, automobile drivers and repair men electricians, electrical machinery repair men, magneto specialists, and telephone men. It is probable that some changes will be-made in the subjects to be offered to the succeeding classes, but nothing is known as vet regarding this phase of the matter.

The Penn State wrestling team met and defeated the strong Naval Academy grapplers on Saturday afternoon at the United States Naval Academy, Annapola Maryland, by the close score of 16 to 14. Penn State took the first four weights on decisions, two of which went into extra periods, while the Navy won two Captain Long's Men In Good Shape falls and a decision. It was one of the hardest meets in which the two teams have ever competed and every bout was a thriller from start to finish. The Naval Academy followers were con-vinced at the beginning of the meet that it would be all their way, but the score indicates how the State matmen fought to bring home the victory. This makes the second straight victory for the Blue and White, the other being the defeat of Cornell last week by a onesided score. Detai came through with his record untarnished when he easily won a deeision over Wyatt There was not a minute in this bout in which the Navy representative was able to outshine he opponent, and Detar led the fighting all the way Wyatt, who is wrestling for the Naval Academy at the present time, however, is not the man who wore the Academy colors in opposing Ostermayer last year.
