MANY VISITORS HERE FOR FARMER'S WEEK

businesses on a piece basis. Dr. Spillman was formerly connected with the Bureau of Farm Management of the United States Department of Agriculture and his broad view of the agricultural situation in this country enabled him to give the farmers in which there was much food for thought.

Mr. Hubert W. Collingwood, editor of the Rural New Yorker, who was scheduled to speak on Monday evening was unable to be here on account of sickness. His place was filled by Mr. A. J. Anderson, editor of the Pennsylvania Farmer, who spoke on the relation of the agricultural press and the agricultural college to the up-building of farming in America.

Last night a musical program lasting from seven to seven-thirty o'clock was presented and addresses were made by Mr. D. S. Bayard, editor of the National Stockman and Farmer, Miss Chime, Miss MacDonald of the Home Economics Extension Association, and Dean Watts. Following this meeting a reception to the visitors was held in the Armory.

The program for tonight includes an address by Mr. H. S. Keston on "The Church and Rural Reconstruction," and other by Mr. E. S. Reynolds on "The Future of the Livestock Business" and a third by State Secretary of Agriculture Russmussen on "The Outlook for Pennsylvania Agriculture."

Tomorrow evening a play entitled "Farmer Hollenbaugh's School," written by Miss Ethel Sparks is to be presented under the supervision of the Department of Public Speaking and under the personal direction of Mrs. Emerson Miller. In order that all the farmers may have seats for the play no one else will be admitted before seven fifteen. All seats which are not occupied by that time may be taken by students.

The work of measuring the Sophomore battalion for the uniforms which are to be issued by the government was started on Monday afternoon. The uniforms which the Freshmen and Sophomores will receive come as part of the contract which the college signed with the government when the necessary money for the R. O. T. C. was obtained and represent the effort on the part of the government to stimulate interest in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. As soon as the Sophomores are measured the two Freshmen battalions will be measured and the uniforms will probably be received in the near future.

The Junior and Senior members of the R. O. T. C. will also receive uniforms. Whether these will be of the same quality and material as those which the lower classes will receive is not known as yet, but the men of the Junior and Senior classes will be allowed a certain amount and it is possible that they may purchase any kind of a uniform they desire.

The men of the Junior class who are members of the R. O. T. C. are now meeting five hours a week and are taking up tactical problems and work with the Infantry Drill Regulations. As soon as the weather improves the men will do practical map and topography work in the vicinity around State College.

LARGE PRIZE WILL BE GIVEN FOR LABOR ESSAY

The National Industrial Conference Board offers a prize of $1,000 for the best essay written on a subject pertaining to industrial economics. A committee of awards has been chosen and consists of men of national reputation. A number of practical subjects pertaining to labor have been arranged, which are posted on some of the college bulletin boards, and any one of these may be chosen.

Contestants are not limited to papers of any length, and the judges will pay especial attention to English and style in exposition. Each competitor should sign his true name and address in a sealed envelope superscribed with his assumed name. Under no circumstances must the real authorship be disclosed to the judges. Manuscripts must be mailed on or before July 1, 1919 to the National Industrial Conference Board, 15 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts. They should be marked "For Prize Essay Contest in Industrial Economics."

RE-EXAM SCHEDULES HAVE BEEN POSTED

A list of examinations for the removal of conditions, has been posted on the various college bulletin boards. These examinations will be held every Saturday afternoon during the month of March.

All conflicts must be reported to the Assistant Registrar before this coming Saturday. No fee is charged for the first examination for the removal of condition, but a permit must be obtained from the Registrar's office and presented to the instructor in charge at the time of the examination. These permits may be obtained at the Registrar's office any time during office hours, but not on Saturday afternoons.

EX-ARMY OFFICERS TO HOLD DANCE ON MARCH FIFTEENTH

Last Thursday evening there was held a meeting of all students of this college who were formerly officers of the United States Army. It was decided at this meeting to hold an ex-officers' dance in the near future, a committee was appointed to work out the details of the affair. Another meeting will be held this evening at six-thirty in Engineering D and it is desired that all those interested will be present to hear what progress has been made by the committee. According to present plans the dance will be held on March fifteenth.

1922 STUDENT DIES IN COLLEGE HOSPITAL

Richard B. Hayden, a member of the Freshman class, died Monday in the college hospital of acute meningitis - tuberculosis. He was enrolled in the School of Engineering, and was taking mechanical engineering. He was about nineteen years old. The body was shipped to his home at Chambersburg for interment.

NATION-WIDE ESSAY CONTEST OPEN TO STUDENTS

Penn State men and women who like to write essays and desire to gain a knowledge of missions and missionaries will be given an opportunity to do both if they enter the contest which is being conducted by the Student Department of International Committee of Young Men's Christian Association. A three hundred dollar prize is being offered for the best 1,000 word original statement on the following subject: "The Significance of the Foreign Missionary Enterprise in Making the New World." The first and second prizes are two and one hundred dollars respectively.

The contest is nation wide and is open to all college and university students in America. Articles must be signed with a non de plume accompanied by name and address in a sealed envelope. They must be typewritten on one side of eight and one-half by eleven inch sheets and must be received at the Student Department, 317 Madison Avenue, New York City, by April fifteenth.

ELECTRO-CHEMIS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Electro-Chemical Engineering Society Friday evening at 6:30 in the laboratory of Engineering D. An election of officers will be held.

GRANGE MEETING

The regular meeting of the Penn State Grange was held last Friday evening in the Hort Building. After a short business meeting, a class of fifteen candidates was given the first and second degrees. The third and fourth will be given to the same class on Friday, March 7 at 8 o'clock.

ENGINEERING NEWS

Major Hugo Diemer delivered the engineering lecture on Wednesday, February 19th, taking for his subject "Some Experiences in the Manufacture of Munitions." He described the operations at the U. S. Metallic Cartridge Plant, Lowell, Mass., and his work at the Bellows Falls Plant where he was located at the time of his discharge from the service. Major Diemer described the methods of inspection and accounting which he introduced and told of the increase of production at Lowell, Mass., from 600,000 small arms cartridges per day to over 3,000,000.

Professor D. D. Walker will deliver the next lecture before the Senior engineers on Wednesday, March 5th, at 10, 200 Engineering D. He will discuss some of his engineering experience while Captain of Company A, 15th Engineers, in France.

W. R. Young, a graduate from the Department of Mechanical Engineering last April, has entered the Engineering Extension Division. Mr. Young has been in the service since graduation.

R. W. Rowland, D. E. '17, has just returned from France where he has been in the aviation service. He entered that branch of the army immediately after graduation and has been in France most of the time since. He saw active service and escaped without injury. He visited the college over the week end.

Edward Walter, D. E. '17, visited at the college Washington's Birthday. Mr. Walter has been in the infantry on the other side and is still suffering from the effects of mustard gas.

Information comes that J. C. Runk, M. E. '18, is now in hospital services in France. He has been ill with influenza and furloughed to England for some time but is now back doing bacteriological work in a base hospital near Nantes.

ALUMNI NOTES

The following notes on the Alumni were handed to the COLLEGIAN by one of the visiting Alumni.

P. M. Shoemaker '03 is now plant engineer with the Pennsylvania Trolly Company, and is located at Allentown, Pa.

"Bob" Huber '03, an old State baseball star, is now at Chambersburg, Pa., with the real estate department of the Cumberland Valley Railroad.

W. W. Hettelbaugh '02 is now engaged in cement manufacturing at Catskill, N. Y.

Walter Brandt '06, of the firm of McCoy-Brandt Manufacturing Company, was present in State College for the Washington Birthday celebration.

WASHINGTON STATE CONSIDERS MEMORIAL

On looking over the issue of the "Evergreen" published by the State College of Washington, we find that a memorial building, similar to that suggested by the COLLEGIAN for Penn State a few weeks ago, is being planned for that college. Following are some excerpts from the news and editorial columns of that paper referring to this project.

"A plan to build a new gymnasium and armory for a memorial for Washington State College boys who died in the service was approved by the Associated Students at the meeting held last Wednesday. Heartly approval of the plan was expressed and a committee was appointed to investigate the feasibility of the project."

Following are some of the remarks made by Hugh Burdette when launching the idea:

"We want to erect a memorial for the boys of W. S. C. who have made the supreme sacrifice."

"If you have been watching the trend of affairs throughout the nation, you know that everywhere efforts are being made to make the monuments to the sacrifice of American boys something worth while."

"People are regretting a mistake made at the close of the Civil war. Memorials, statues of stone and iron, ugly things were erected at the close of the Civil war. They represented great deeds—but, frankly, are of little value."

"What are we going to do? We can not build anything worthy of the men with money, but we want to do the best thing that we can do."

"For this reason, I suggest the building of a gymnasium and armory combined, as a permanent, far reaching memorial of their splendid service."

"Certainly, an aid to the physical up-building of coming generations is the best gift that we can possibly give. It is practical and beautiful, and would be a fitting memorial."

HORT. INSTRUCTOR RESIGNS

Albert F. Yeager, instructor in Horticulture, has resigned in order to accept a position at the North Dakota Agricultural College. He will be connected with the horticultural experiment station of that college and will specialize in breeding hardy fruits and vegetables. His resignation will take effect on March 15.

THESEIANS' CHOOSE THIS YEAR'S PLAY

does not wish her secrets to be known, and she takes considerable risk to accomplish this object.

In order to square herself with the Major, the woman follows him over a good part of London, and at last finds him in a dining room in a fashionable hotel.

In the meantime, however, the son who is "fourteen" years old, has been trite, showing him the bright lights of the city, and incidentally having a gay time. As luck would have it, they are occupying the dining room next to that which the Major and his party, including the wife of the Magistrate, are just entering.

Thus a situation is brought into the play which has great possibility of amusement for the audience. The two adjoining rooms are shown on the stage at the same time, heightening the interest greatly.

Although several cuts have been already made, as yet no definite cast has been chosen. The management is trying to obtain a professional coach from Philadelphia to assist in working up the production, and the choosing of the different characters will be left to him.

Manager Kirk is also arranging a trip for the Club, but final arrangements for the itinerary have not been announced. The play will be presented in State College at the usual time, just before the Easter recess, and, at Commencement. The Easter presentation will probably be on the last Monday evening before the vacation.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONFERENCE ENDS

Dr. Kumm spoke for a short time and he was followed by Mr. Robert Wilder who gave an address of real interest on conditions in India.

At nine o'clock Sunday morning several meetings were held at which those interested might hear of conditions in various foreign countries and especially in the mission fields. Dr. John Gowdy spoke at the eleven o'clock chapel service, and in the afternoon, Mr. A. W. Manuel, International Y. M. C. A. Secretary for Brazil, spoke of the work being done in South America and in this country among Latin American students. The conference was closed on Sunday evening with a powerful address by Dr. Kumm, the African missionary and explorer and an appeal for more Student Volunteers by Mr. Miller of Princeton University.

At the Saturday morning business meeting resolutions were passed thanking the townspeople of State College for the hospitality they have extended to the visiting delegates.

PROMINENT MINISTER TO BE CHAPEL SPEAKER

The college preacher for next Sunday is to be Rev. Charles R. Zahnler Ph. D. of Pittsburgh. Rev. Zahnler is executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches of Christ and is the official representative of the cooperating Protestant Churches of Allegheny County in all community and social service work being carried on in that part of the state.
