A WORD OF COMMENDATION

The COLLEGIAN wishes to commend the student body for its approval of one of the amendments to the Honor System, proposed recently by the Honor Committee. This amendment reads: "Upon the first conviction of dishonesty, it shall be the duty of the Honor Committee to determine and transmit to the executive of the college the specific punishment to be meted out to the offender, this punishment not to exceed one year of suspension from college."

It will readily be seen that this amendment greatly strengthens the Honor System, in that it places more power and greater leeway in the hands of the Honor Committee. Heretofore, if a man were brought up for trial, no matter whether the offense were great or small, the Honor Committee had but one of two alternatives: either to adjudge the man guilty and suspend him from college, or to acquit him. In several instances, there were cases where the offense was not considered great enough to suspend the man from college for a year, but if the Committee would have had greater leeway, he would probably have been suspended for a semester, or compelled to drop the subject, or some such similar punishment.

It is to be greatly regretted that the first amendment did not pass. We believe that this amendment would have been a great factor in the elimination of cheating in examinations. It apparently had one weak point, which was the cause of its rejection, and this weak point was the possibility of two or more evilly inclined students making a "frame-up" on an innocent man. The logical thing to be done now is to revise this amendment so that this objectionable feature will be eliminated, and then submit it again to the student body for ratification.

MAKE WISE SELECTIONS

In the immediate future, officers of the three underclasses as well as those of the Athletic Association, will be elected, and the COLLEGIAN takes this opportunity to urge each man to vote for the candidate he thinks is best fitted to fill the position.

Probably the most important offices to be filled next year are those of the Present Junior and Sophomore classes, and those of the Athletic Association. Next year will be Penn State's first complete year in peaco time since the term of 1915-1916, and the reconstruction work of the college,—the return to normal conditions,—will still be in progress. Upon the officers of the Senior class will devolve a great deal of responsibility, and especially so in the proper administration of the class affairs throughout its last year in college.

The officers of next year's Junior class will be of almost equal importance, for to them will fall the task of taking the new Freshman class,—the class of 1923,—in hand, and inculcating into them the ideals and spirit of Penn State. The importance of wise selections in the case of the Athletic Association also can scarcely be underestimated, for from present indications, Penn State will have the most successful athletic year in its history, and competent men are needed, therefore, to head the athletic organization. While the officers of next year's Sophomore class will not be quite as important as the other two classes, it is necessary for Penn State's welfare, however, that good men also be elected for these.

ATTEND THE MASS MEETING

Penn State's big "booster mass meeting" will be held in the Auditorium Friday morning, at eleven-ten. As this will be one of the most important and eventful mass meetings ever held at Penn State, and one which will determine the future of the college along a certain line to a great degree, it behooves every man, every woman and every faculty member to be present. Let us be there, and by our presence aid in making a bigger and better Penn State.

ly defective in the past—the forming of athletic teams among the women students will be encouraged and intercollegiate contests with women from other institutions will probably be arranged.

As announced previously, work has been started on the new athletic field to be located on the west farms, and it is hoped to have five holes of the nine hole golf course completed in the very near future, provided weather conditions permit. This new field comprises eighty acres and with a playground of this size, it will be a simple matter to take care of 2,500 students at one time. In the development of this playground there will be constructed twelve football fields, nine baseball diamonds, four soccer fields, two lacrosse fields, two hockey fields, forty tennis courts, ten basketball courts, six volley ball courts, and at least a half-mile track. The women students will also have the privilege of using this new field, such as the tennis courts, basketball courts, etc.

Further Details at Mass Meeting
Further details of the plans of the Department of Physical Education will be made known at the big "booster mass meeting" on Friday morning at eleven-ten in the Auditorium, and at this time the new recreation building especially will be explained to the students and faculty. It is therefore not only the duty but also the privilege of every one to attend this meeting and thereby boost Penn State. Be there!

SUBSCRIPTION DANCE TO BE GIVEN BY JUNIOR GIRLS

A subscription dance will be conducted by the girls of the Junior class at the University Club on May twenty-fourth from two-thirty to five-thirty. The object of the dance is to obtain money for their Eaglesmere Conference fund. The number is limited to seventy-five couples so that one should get their tickets early at one dollar per couple.

of Physical Education which will grant degrees in Physical Education and Health to men and women who become teachers and make it a life work.

Organization, facilities, and equipment necessary for execution of this plan. Staff: The staff should be built on the same principle as the staff of other departments, with corresponding faculty rank. For immediate purposes it should consist of the following:

- (1) Director and Head of the Department.
- (2) Director of Intramural Sports.
- (3) Women Director.
- (4) Instructor in Football and Boxing.
- (5) Instructor in Basketball and Intramural Sports.
- (6) Instructor in Wrestling and Intramural Sports.
- (7) Instructor in Gymnastics and Calisthenics.
- (8) Instructor in Track and Trainer.
- (9) Instructor in Baseball and Intramural Sports.

It is possible that one man may be able to handle a combination of more than one subject. It is all important that these men should be employed by the scholastic year rather than for the season in which a sport or activity flourishes. In other words, they should be put on the same basis as all other faculty members connected with the college.

Equipment: The Gymnasium—An Athletic building of this nature is absolutely necessary for Penn State. From November fifteenth to April fifteenth the activities on the campus must turn indoors during the inclement weather. This means that five months of the nine of the scholastic year must be spent within. In other words, a building of this nature would practically be the center of activities and social intercourse for the college during the winter months.

This play house should take care of the entire student body, both men and women, the faculty and to some extent the town people, who have no

VARSITY LACROSSE HAS BEEN ABANDONED

Lacrosse, which appeared to be one of Penn State's revived sports at the beginning of the season, has been abandoned by the varsity for the remainder of this year.

At a meeting held recently by the men connected with the lacrosse management, the following men were awarded the "ISI": W. L. Dieker, '19, manager; H. M. Lehman '19, captain; S. C. Lynn '19, J. C. Fluke '19, C. K. Mast '19, and W. L. Eaton '20.

The following managerial elections have been held for next year. Manager, A. S. Barnhart, '20; assistant managers, H. S. Davis '21, P. H. Trout '21, and G. S. McClelland '21.

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS PLAY BY SENIOR GIRLS

The Senior girls scored a big hit in the Auditorium Saturday night when they presented "The Romanians" by Edward Rostand. The play's time was in the colonial period and the girls played the parts in a very plausible manner. A large crowd turned out to see this presentation and no one was disappointed by the showing which the girls made. By means of this play the class fund was enlarged between seventy-five and one hundred dollars. The girls wish to express their appreciation for the work which the fellows did in transferring the scenery and the like and also to the Theatians who helped to make the play a success.

CAPTAINS OF Y. M. C. A. AND Y. W. C. A. TEAMS TO CELEBRATE

The captains of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. teams, which recently made a drive for membership to these organizations, will hold a party in the Y. M. C. A. hut Friday night to celebrate the great work which they did. All captains are urged to come out and enjoy the good time.

MINING NOTES

Mr. G. H. Dolke '08, President of the Mine Safety Appliance Company, of Pittsburgh, and W. H. Atfield '09, manager of several associated coal mining companies, both graduates of the School of Mines, spent last Thursday afternoon and Friday morning in State College renewing old acquaintances. They addressed the Mining Society at a special meeting Thursday evening and also the Juniors and Seniors Friday morning.

Mr. H. Y. Plagg, of the Brier-Hill Steel Company, Youngstown, Ohio, a graduate of the Penn State School of Mines Class of 1915, addressed the metallurgical classes on April Twenty-ninth on the subject of "The Trend of Modern Coking Practice."

The School of Mines recently received a set of apparatus for determining the oil content of shales. The oil shale industry, in which oil is produced in addition to that which can be obtained by drilling and pumping, is of considerable importance in Scotland, and is assuming some little importance in Colorado and Utah. The Mining Experiment Station is preparing to see if Pennsylvania may not have shales which will likewise be productive of oil. The equipment for this purpose will be erected and put in operation in the furnace room of the old Mining Building in the near future.

ENGINEERING NEWS

Mr. J. M. Diery '17 M. E., visited the college last week. Mr. Diery has just been discharged from the meteorological service, having served in the immediate front line.

Mr. Lee Turner, ex-member of the class of 1916 in C. E., writes that he is studying in the University of Lyons, France, along with a considerable number of other American boys who are still in the service. He hopes to return to Penn State next September.

Mr. Wickenden, of the Western Electric Company, was here to interview the Seniors of the Department of Electrical Engineering last week. He also addressed the Seniors for engineering contracts.
