

CONDITIONS REGARDING SUMMER WORK ARRANGED

Director Smith Announces Rules To Govern Students Who Intend Entering Summer Session

As announced some time ago, the college has made arrangements whereby students, who have been engaged in military or other forms of service, and have consequently missed some of their regularly scheduled studies, may be admitted to the 1919 Summer Session for Teachers' and may obtain credit toward graduation for work satisfactorily completed. The following regulations which will govern admittance to this summer term have been announced by Director Smith:

- 1. Credit toward graduation may be given for a Summer Session subject for which there is an equivalent in the regular college course which the student is pursuing.
2. When a Summer Session subject covers a fractional part of the corresponding college subject, the Summer Session subject, in certain cases, may be continued at the close of the Summer Session until the work of the regular college subject is completed, provided a continuation of the course is desired by not less than five students.
3. Certain college subjects which are not a part of the Summer Session curriculum may be arranged in case ten or more students apply for such subjects before June 1, 1919. Application for extra subjects should be made to the Director of Summer Session, 105 Old Main.
4. A Summer Session subject may be used as an elective when electives are possible in the student's course, subject to the approval of the student's dean or adviser.
5. Courses regularly offered in the Summer Session for Teachers' may be taken without the payment of fees other than the usual registration and health service fees for all other courses and for work taken in continuation of Summer Session courses, a tuition fee of three dollars per credit will be charged in addition to the regular registration and health service fees.
6. No student will be permitted to register for a Summer Session subject in which he has previously been registered during the regular college year, and in which he has done unsatisfactory work.
7. The regulation concerning the amount of recitation or practical work which may be scheduled for the six weeks of the Summer Session will apply to matriculated students enrolled in the Summer Session.
8. Students desiring to pursue Summer Session work are expected to register for such work with Director Smith before leaving college at the end of the present semester.
For those of the student body wishing to enter the 1919 Summer Session, registration days will be held on June second, third, fourth and fifth, at the Summer Session Office, Room 105, Old Main. Fees will be payable July first.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

It is quite probable that during the coming summer short courses in practical agriculture will be offered at this college for the benefit of returning soldiers who have a desire to take up agricultural work. According to the Bureau of Education in Washington, forty thousand former service men who are desirous of becoming farm owners have communicated with the Department of the Interior with regard to securing land. For the benefit of such men it is proposed to give six weeks instruction in farm practice in connection with the regular summer session.

The Home Economics Extension Department of Agronomy recently visited the experimental plots in Washington County. The experiments being conducted there are proving very successful.

The home Economics Extension Department, in co-operation with the State Health Service, has been holding Child Health weeks at various places throughout the state, generally in connection with local schools. Proper foods have been prescribed for under-eight and under-ten children. Examinations have been made of such meals as children of different ages require. This work is a part of a campaign being conducted by the United States Child Welfare Service for the betterment of the health of the children of the country.

R. D. Wakely '17 has been installed as county agent of Wayne County. He was accompanied to his new location by F. H. Weaver who helped him get his new work under way.

R. H. Bell, the Leaning County agent is being transferred to take charge of Horticultural Extension work in the place of Professor A. P. Mason who recently resigned.

H. R. Pickett '16 and I. S. Oberle '17 have resigned their positions as county agents in Lawrence and Franklin counties respectively.

Mr. A. T. Kearney '16, formerly county agent of Clearfield county has been transferred to this college to do extension work dealing especially with rural organization.

News from Other Colleges

PRINCETON—Commencement at Princeton this year promises to be one of the best in the history of the university. At least twenty-five hundred alumni representative twenty-six classes will attend in the first session in three years. The exercises will last for four days beginning June thirteenth and extensive preparations are being made for the accommodation of this large number.

LEHIGH—A total of $175,000 has been pledged in a campaign at Lehigh for a memorial house. This will be built on the campus and will be a memorial to the men who were killed in action. It is expected that $500,000 will be collected by alumni day. That amount will be raised by large subscriptions and after that a campaign for smaller subscriptions will begin.

CORNELL—Both the military and infantry units of the Reserve Army Training Corps have received their equipment from the government. The supplies which were received include automatic rifles, uniforms, caps, ammunition tents, complete field equipment, bayonets and machine guns. These will be issued as soon as possible to the cadets.

PITTSBURGH—In order to perpetuate the memory of the Pitt soldiers who died in the war, memorial services were held on the campus recently at which time trees were planted in honor of the dead. Charles G. Adam of the State Legislature was the principal speaker.

MILITARY PLANS MADE FOR COMMENCEMENT

The military department of the college has divided the work of the three battalions in order to prepare them for the Commencement Week program. The first battalion, composed of Sophomores, is receiving rifle practice daily but the work for commencement has not been definitely outlined. It is quite probable that the second year men will engage in a sham battle with one of the other battalions. The First-year battalions are being drilled daily in Dutes' Manual, the re-arrangement to which is being played by the band. It has been decided that Company II of the second battalion, will go over the layonet course on Holmes' Field for the entertainment of the Commencement Week visitors. The military parade will be held at ten o'clock Saturday morning June seventh, on New Denver field when the cadet regiments will be reviewed by an army officer.
