DETAR RETURNS TO WRESTLING SQUAD

Wrestling practice has now been going on for more than a week, and the results while not phenomenal are quite good. A number of letter men are back among them is D. D. Detar '21, ex-'20, who has recently returned to college. Detar was captain-elect of last year's team but did not come back to school. In his sophomore year, he was the sensation of the season, winning his bout in every meet, including a decision over Beaver, of Lehigh. Just before the intercollegiate, he suffered a broken shoulder, but despite this fact entered the meet but was compelled to default after nine minutes of plucky wrestling.

The majority of the material out for this year's team is green but promising, and as is the case in quite a number of sports, there are not enough heavy weights signed up. Coach "Doc" Lewis appeals especially to upperclassmen over 150 pounds who are not out for football to practice wrestling. More candidates in every class are desired. There are seventy-five Sophomores out, where 150 are wanted, instead of 125 Freshmen there ought to be 300. The showing made by the two upperclasses was rather disappointing, and more men should report in the future.

In order that it may be clearly understood that the evening practice will not interfere with the scholastic work, a short explanation should be given. A candidate is expected to come out only three nights a week, and these evenings are left entirely to his own choice. The practice of staying on the floor for three or four hours is discouraged, and it is advised that no one spend more than one hour at one evening's practice.

AG. SCHOOL HOLDS ANNUAL GET-TOGETHER

Last Thursday evening the Agricultural Society held its annual get-together and reception to Freshmen in the Stock Pavilion. About three hundred students were present, a large proportion of these being Freshmen. The meeting was called to order by Benedict, the newly elected president, who introduced Dean Watts as the first speaker. The Dean spoke of Penn State's difficulties in getting sufficient funds to meet the growing demands upon the college and of the influence of Penn State throughout Pennsylvania which he very concisely expressed in the statement that "the campus of Penn State is the state of Pennsylvania." Dean Warlock was then introduced and he spoke very instructively of the necessity of broad training whereby one gains an appreciation of the finer arts and avoids narrowness. The other speakers were Prof. Gaudner and Prof. Mairs whose talks were very interesting.

The speeches were interspersed by several musical numbers by an organization composed of members of the Agricultural School and introduced as the "Corn Tossle Orchestra." Proflets and apples were served and cider flowed in abundance.

At a special meeting of the society officers were elected for the coming year. The election resulted as follows: W. D. Benedict, president; E. C. Crow, vice-president; S. C. Walters, secretary; and Max Flebenack, treasurer. These men expect to spend the week of the society and make it mean more to its members than it has ever meant before. The president hopes to secure some of the best authorities on agriculture in the country to address the meetings. It will also be endeavored to make music a part of every program. Anyone wishing to join may do so by handing in their name and paying the dues to the treasurer.

DAIRY MEN ATTEND EXHIBIT

Professors A. A. Borland, S. L. Eichel and A. L. Beam, of the Dairy Husbandry Department, together with Mr. P. D. Jones, superintendent of the dairy barns, attended the National Dairy Show which was held at Chicago last week.

ENGINEERING NOTES

The machine shop in unit "C" has just received three additional engine lathes, a Milwaukee Vertical Milling Machine, and a Brown and Sharpe Universal Grinding Machine. These will complete the equipment of the shop. The electric power wiring for these machines can be finished this week, after which the shop will be in full operation.

Colonel J. H. Andrews '98, was a visitor at the college for several days last week. Colonel Andrews is a member of the Board of Trustees and takes great interest in the progress of the institution. He has been stationed at an embarkation camp in New Jersey for some time, but expects to be released at an early date. It is probable that he will resume his former position as Distribution Engineer for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

The All Engineers' meeting, held October tenth in the Armory at the invitation of Dean Sackett, was attended by between five and six hundred students and members of the faculty. The purposes of the meeting were, first, to welcome back to school, members of the faculty, of whom fifteen had been engaged in military service from the School of Engineering since; secondly, to welcome the return of over four hundred former students who had also been in military service, and thirdly, to welcome the three hundred and fifty Freshmen.

Dean Sackett spoke in the first few minutes concerning the causes of failure in studies and stated that they were usually not due to a lack of capacity but a lack of application. He urged that the Engineering Societies take up at once the question of the publication of "The Penn State Engineer", a technical annual containing engineering news, to be contributed to by the alumni, students, and members of the faculty.

Professor Elton D. Walker, head of the Department of Civil Engineering, has been recently commissioned a major in the Engineering Reserve Corps of the army.

MINING NOTES

The Mining Department of the School of Mines established the extension work in mining during the summer just past and by this time calls are coming in quite frequently for the establishment of new classes. At present there are classes organized and well under way at Cresson, Pottsville, Pottsville, and Harrisburg, Penna. Mr. W. G. Duncan, who was for many years with the Associated Companies of Pittsburgh, is in charge of this work in the field as Assistant Professor of Mining Extension. Mr. Duncan was in town part of last week in conference with Professor Chubbey and Dean Moore as to the various features of the work.

Doctor D. S. Moore, Dean of School of Mines, spent last week-end in Washington, D. C., making the trip in his automobile.

PENN STATE DEBATORS TO MEET BUCKNELL SOON

The only new development in the debating situation has been the acceptance of the Bucknell challenge for a dual debate. Professor Marshman, acting for the Penn State team, wrote to the Bucknell debaters last week and formally accepted the challenge. The date has not yet been decided upon, but this matter of detail will be arranged as soon as possible. It is expected that challenges from other colleges will be received during the next few weeks and it will then be possible to announce a definite schedule.
