Active Program Outlined and Will Be Carried Out by Penn State's Y. M. C. A.

Nearly all the schools and colleges that do extensive Y. M. C. A. work have instituted a committee known as the Y. M. C. A. Advisory Committee to direct the general policies of the work and coordinate the efforts of the students, faculty and churches. Since the work of this committee has been found particularly efficient where it has been instituted it was thought advisable to establish one at Penn State. The organization and duties are fully explained in the code of rules that govern it. They are as follows:

- 1. The Advisory Committee shall consist of the following persons:
  - a. President Y. M. C. A. Leach
  - b. First Vice President Y. M. C. A. Exofficio
  - c. Student Treasurer Y. M. C. A. Exofficio
  - d. Six students shall be elected by the Association Membership from twelve previously nominated by the committee
  - e. Six faculty men shall be elected by the Association Membership, two by the nominating committee
  - f. A lay representative, not a member of the faculty, from each church in the community
- 2. The Advisory Committee shall elect its own chairman from the board of directors when the General Secretary shall submit a report of the year's work and a program of the work and budget for the coming year. Other members may be called by the chairman at his discretion or shall be called by him at the request of any three members.
- 3. After the budget has been approved it shall be the duty of the Advisory Committee:

- 1. To direct the large policies of the Association and the expenditure of the monies within the limitation of the budget.
- 2. To be responsible for the raising of such portions of the budget as shall be forthcoming from the Campus and Town.
- 3. Student members of the Advisory Committee shall serve for one year. Faculty and Church members shall serve for three years. The terms of two men in each of the aforesaid groups shall expire each year.
- 4. For the year 1919-20, the temporary cabinet shall elect the six student members and two members from the Faculty group to serve for three years, two years, and one year respectively. Thereafter two members shall be elected to each group at the annual election to replace those members whose terms shall expire at that time.
- 5. The elected members of the Advisory Committee shall be divided into six committees. The several committees shall have one man each from the Student, Faculty, and Church groups, and shall cooperate actively in the promotion of the six chief departments of the Association program being carried on by the Cabinet Chairman.
- 6. The Church and Faculty members shall appoint a delegate and an alternate from their own groups whose duty and privilege it shall be to sit in the cabinet as a regular voting member.
- 7. The Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Advisory Board shall be a member of the Faculty and shall be the permanent Treasurer of the Association. He shall sign checks jointly with the Student Treasurer.
- 8. Employed secretaries of the association, and pastors of churches represented on the committee, shall be ex-officio, non-voting members of the committee.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DANCE
TO BE HELD THANKSGIVING

The ball-room of the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh will be the scene of an intercollegiate dance on the night of November twenty-seventh. The purpose of this dance is to promote good feeling between the four colleges of the Pittsburgh district, these being Penn State, W. and J., Pitt and Carnegie Tech.

The William Penn will be the headquarters of the football team this year and a feature of the dance will be the entertaining of both the Penn State and Pitt varsity teams after a banquet to be held in the hotel at eight o'clock. Dancing will be from eight to one o'clock with the eight-piece William Penn Orchestra furnishing the music.

An assessment of two dollars and a half will be made for this dance. Tickets may be secured after November first, when a general campaign for the students will be made, or by calling at the Pi Kappa Alpha house at 506 West College avenue during any time after that date.

"AG. HILL" PREPARES
FOR PA. DAY EXHIBIT

Elaborate Preparations Are Being Made to Make Interesting and Educational Demonstrations.

The select crop given by the Agricultural Society for the best exhibit of agricultural products on Pennsylvania Day will be completed for by the five departments of the School of Agriculture. The departments represented are Animal Husbandry, Dairy Husbandry, Agronomy, Horticulture, and Chemical Agriculture, and each departmental exhibit will be under the supervision of the student in charge.

Dairy Department Exhibit

Due to the fact that the dairy department is more handicapped as to lack of space than other departments on the hill and the increased interest and number of students in this course, it was decided to exhibit on Pennsylvania Day. The exhibit is one of those which was used in the motor trucks on Old Beaver field during the S. A. T. C. and it will give them more available space than any indoor room would. It will be placed between the dairy building and the experimental station.

Because of the fact that this state is rapidly tending to date, the exhibit will be very interesting and instructive on it will enable the student to show the importance of dairy products. Other problems will be discussed, such as, "Milk Products in the Home," "Standardizing the Dairy in a Business Basis and How Profits Are Calculated," "Different Kinds of Machinery Used in Chemistry Work," and "The Manufacture of Cheese and Butter." The department also realizes that the first of July has passed and there must still exist a exhibit which will try to satisfy the curiosity of the student. Other dairy products will be sold at this time.

The Hort. Exhibit

The exhibit under the direction of the students in the Department of Horticulture, which will be held in room 100, Horticulture Building, will be divided into three parts—fruits, vegetables, and ornamentals. Besides the exhibit of the students' productions, outsiders within a radius of fifty miles have been invited to exhibit their best in any of the three classes.

The Crab Apple Club which is the promoter of this display, will offer quite a few premiums for the best in each class. In the fruit display a silver medal will be offered to the best exhibit of fruit—more than ten kinds—with a bronze medal for second prize. The other classes have a bronze medal for first prize and a ribbon for second. In the vegetable exhibit the silver medal will be offered to the best exhibit of not less than eight kinds. The horticulture exhibit offers also a silver medal for the best general display and this exhibit as well as the vegetable one will also have medals for the highest grade in the other classes and a ribbon for the second highest.

Chemical Agriculture

The exhibit of this department will vary slightly from the strict agricultural line. A showing of manufactured commercial products will be displayed by the manufacturers and some of the subjects will be, chocolate, soap and wood and its products. The exhibition proper of the students will be held in the Chemical Agricultural Laboratory and will consist of a display of commercial products and fertilizers, and the effects of fertilizers on growing crops will be fully illustrated.

A livestock show will be the Animal Husbandry department's contribution toward the activities and the show will be complete in every detail. The exhibition will be held in the stock pavilion where the show animals and carcasses dressed for market will be displayed.

played. Just as the other department's exhibits, this one will be divided into the various groups such as horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry.

The display of the houses will be located by the Clyde and Packeron buildings while a complete representation of the different breeds and types of houses will be the feature of this division.

Three steel beds, one of the Heford, one of the Angus and one of the Galloway, will form a part of the exhibit. The Short-horn breed will be represented by the college herd bull and two females and the polled short-horn breed by a steer calf. Among these cattle will be the first prize winners of the fat stock classes at the New York State Fair and the Eastern State Exposition.

The swine exhibit will show both local and pure-bred breeds and those chosen are of two types, the Land and the Bacon type. Of the Land type, the Duroc, Berkshire, and Chester Whites have some of the best specimens. The Bacon type will illustrate the Bacon type.

The food value of the banded fowl will be shown by the poultry exhibit and the exhibit of White Bantams, cold fried chicken for lunch, and roasted or broiled chicken for dinner. Outside the exhibit of White Bantams, White Leghorns, White Wyandottes and quite a few other varieties there will be shown some dressed fowls ready for the market. Along with the display of these birds, a display of sheep is displayed there will be exhibited quite a few pieces of dressed mutton.

CHAPLAIN STANDING TO BE POSTED ON NOVEMBER 22ND

The chapel standing of all students will be posted on November twenty-second at which time all upperclassmen shall not have missed daily chapel more than twice and Sunday chapel more than once in two times. The Freshmen shall not have missed Monday and Friday chapel more than four times and Sunday chapel more than two times.

AUDITORIUM PACKED AT BIG MASS MEETING

Enthusiastic Students Cheer Team on to Penn at Greatest Gathering of the Year.

The football mass-meeting held Wednesday night before the team left for the University of Pennsylvania was one of the most enthusiastic and one of the best attended meetings ever held at this college. It was the best send-off the six team has received this season and one that will long be remembered by the team.

The Auditorium was packed to the doors and many even stood outside, where they could participate in the cheering even if they could not hear the speakers. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Stanley '20, who introduced McGinnis '20, the president of the Student Council, as the first speaker. He brought up the matter of sending the band to the Penn game, saying that it would cost $1125 to send them to Philadelphia. He suggested that the cost be divided among the four classes on a per capita basis. The representatives of the various classes then made the necessary motions which were quickly passed, amid much cheering and hand-clapping.

The band then played a jazz number that was greatly appreciated by the gathering. This was followed by the singing of "Victory" after which Stanley introduced Ned Frazier '19. Mr. Frazier announced that the Pennsylvania Railroad had agreed to run a special train to Philadelphia and return if the sale of one hundred and twenty-five tickets was guaranteed. This train was to leave Friday at one-thirty p. m., arriving at Broad Street about eight o'clock. It was to leave Philadelphia again on Sunday at midnight and arrive here in time for the third home standstill morning. He said that the band would require forty-five tickets and that if the students would take slightly more the train would be assured. He spoke of the advantages of having a special train, with sleeping accommodations, et cetera for the return trip.

The train was a message for the presidents of the National Association of Philadelphia and vicinity were supporting the football game and that the students in return should patronize the dance to be held in the Holkewell stadium on the evening of the game. He said that the annual had bought two thirds of the tickets that were sold here and that the student body should support the dance. The tickets only cost $2.20 if purchased here, while in Philadelphia they amount to $4.00.

Stanley next made an announcement regarding the cross-country meet with Penn in Philadelphia the morning of the game. He said that the race would be run over the Cobles Creek course, starting at 6:30 and Walnut streets, and that all men who go to the football game in Philadelphia the morning of the game and cheer the Penn State runners on to victory. "Larry" Shields, the captain of the cross-country team, was then asked to speak a few words in behalf of the team.

This talk was followed by a selection by the band, the college melody, and then another lot of cheering, after which the team was expected to arrive. It was delayed a few minutes but the interval was taken up with cheering. When it was rumored that the team was approaching, the assembly fairly went wild. A cheering chorus ensued that lasted for several minutes. Hats were waved in the air and the white enthusiasm prevailed. The appearance of the team led by Capt. Higgins, at this moment, only served to increase the amount of cheering that rent the air. It was a wonderful demonstration of Penn State spirit and a sight that will long live in the memory of those present.

When the cheering had subsided somewhat, Coach Bezelock went to the platform to address the meeting, but was greeted with such cheers that he had to wait several minutes before he could make himself heard. He opened his remarks by reciting the troubles of the coaches at the colleges this year, especially Penn, Penn and Cornell. The old man has been in the army and some have risen to be captains and even majors. This experience has made them a little restless and uneasy so that they do not like to settle down and make orders. But Penn State is a different case from this spirit and all are working together for the good of the school. In fact he has too many men, having three full teams from which to choose the final eleven men who will represent this institution on the gridiron.

He said that in picking out the team he chose men who could do a little better than their best. When a player tells him that he is doing his best he says to him "It's no good. Absolutely no good! I want something better than your best!"

But whether he wins or loses, what Hugo Pezdek is striving for is a team composed of MEN, who have character, good, clean, hard fighters. It will take time to get a winning team upon this basis but he said "I see a day coming, when Penn State will be second to none."

Next he spoke of the impending game and of our chances. He said that Penn had a strong team, and that we must not be too optimistic. The University of Pennsylvania has a larger number of old men back, who were on the 1918 team that defeated us in that year, and has a coach who has had five years in which to install his system at that institution. But nevertheless our team is coming down there for a hard, clean fight ed by "Dick" Harlow, the assistant coach, who told of the need of rooting out all knockers and of the need of working together and supporting the coach.

Captain Higgins then announced that the team would leave the Truck House at seven-fifteen p. m., Thursday night and for all men to be out and see them off. The Alma Mater was then sung and the meeting concluded.
