one of his tackles count and in several instances being the one man between his goal line and an opposing Pitt Freshman carrying the ball. The Freshmen however did not play up to their usual standard, in numerous cases being thrown for losses when the Pitt forwards succeeded in breaking through the line.

Holleran had difficulty at the opening of the game in directing the oval in a clear line toward the Freshman goal, and after kicking it out of bounds, managed to send a beautiful kick to Redinger who carried it through the maze of opposing players to the forty yard line. Here the Blue and White yearlings were held for downs, and Holleran, on receiving the punt, by a series of dodges and speedy footwork, ran through the entire Freshman team and started on his way to the goal, only to be called back by the first "break" of the game, because he had stepped out of bounds during his dash with the oval. The ball swerved back and forth in the middle of the field during the remainder of the quarter, neither side being able to make any creditable gains.

Pitt Makes Touchdown
In the first scrimmage of the second period, Captain Schuster, the Blue and White yearling tackle and punter was injured and taken out of the game, being replaced by McMahan, a rangy lad, who proved block to the Pitt backfield. By a series of cross licks and plunges through the right side of the yearling line, the Pitt backfield succeeded in carrying the oval to State's 30-yard line, where Holleran attempted a placement kick. The kick failed, however, and it was Penn State's ball. After being held for downs, Hufford kicked and Holleran received the punt, taking the sphere through the mass of players and breaking through with only the Freshman quarterback between him and the goal. However, Redinger made another of his sure tackles and Holleran was halted on the one-yard line. Here State was penalized half the distance to the goal, and Holleran carried the ball over the only touchdown of the contest. He also successfully kicked the goal. Hufford kicked off to Hendrian who was stopped in his tracks on the 30-yard line. Following a penalty against them, Pitt was held for downs, and punned. Then the Penn State Freshmen started, but they were speedily stopped, for after Hoss had made two fine runs around the ends, the ball was fumbled. Then it was that the Pitt backs found large holes in the Blue and White line and only Hufford's good punting saved his team from suffering another touchdown. Pitt tried another placement kick in the second quarter, but it also failed. The half ended with the ball in Pitt's possession in mid-field. Score: Pitt Freshmen 7; Penn State Freshmen 0.

Pitt Loses Touchdown
The second half opened with Pitt on the receiving end, and Hewitt fumbled immediately upon receipt of the oval, but recovered it in good time to keep a Freshman player from obtaining it. Upon receipt of Holleran's punt, the Penn State Freshmen started again. Hoss tearing around the ends for large gains, but his steam-mates again proving unable to assist him in carrying the ball further into the enemy's territory. Pitt then, on the interchange of the oval, made large gains through the Blue and White line, but got no further than the 28-yard line. Here, Spurr, the yearling center sent a high pass to Hufford, who prepared to kick, and the ball went spinning over the latter's head. However he recovered, but was thrown for a large loss. On the second attempt to punt, the kick was blocked, and a Pitt man recovered and ran over the goal line, only to be called back by another of the "breaks" of the game, in Penn State's favor, his team being off-side on the play. The Penn State Freshmen then started anew and made their only first down of the game. However, they were unable to do more and the quarter ended with the ball in Pitt's possession.

The final period opened with an increased watchfulness on the part of the Penn State ends. Stosinger, substituted for Parks, made several brilliant tackles in this period, and though Pitt backs, for large losses. Pitt, however, continued their goals through the right side of the yearling line and again tried a placement kick. For the third time Holleran's boot failed him, and the kick went away. Towards the end of the game considerable spirit was awakened in both teams, and Holleran again broke through the line for a run and was finally stopped by Redinger on the five-yard line and here the game ended. Score: Pitt Freshmen 7; Penn State Freshmen 0.

High, Detroit, and Hewitt, the former Wilkesburg High star. Pitt's ends were a speedy pair, getting down under Holleran's punts and in almost every case nailing the Penn State receiver in his tracks.

The Penn State yearlings were sorely handicapped after the second quarter when their captain and star punter, Schuster, was hurt. His absence was keenly felt on the yearling line. Hess, the big fullback, played his usual good game, but was prevented from doing exceptional work due to a broken nose sustained early in the week's practice. Redinger, the yearling quarterback, and captain on the field after Schuster was injured, was the mainstay of his team, making every
