CHICAGO ALUMNI GREET STOCK JUDGING TEAM

On the occasion of the International Live Stock Show at Chicago the widely-attended Alumni in that district entered the Faculty Representatives and the student judging team from the college, at a luncheon on December first. It proved an event of great pleasure to all concerned and the local alumni, who as they expressed it, are so far away from the active center at the college, were more than pleased to meet the representatives from their Alma Mater who were attending the show.

However, there is given below a resume of the visit by Mr. Somers H. Smith '11 who is secretary-treasurer of the Penn State Society of Chicago.

"The members of the faculty and students of the Stock Judging Team who attended the International Live Stock Show at Chicago were the guests of the Penn State Society of Chicago at the weekly luncheon Monday, December first, at the Chicago Engineer's Club.

"Dean Watts gave a very interesting outline of conditions at the college and it is characteristic of him to give a lot of valuable information in a limited time. He especially emphasized the work of the Department of Physical Education and Coach Bezek in particular, and expressed the hope that the Chicago Alumni would be able to meet Coach Bezek personally and to hear the news of one whom he classed as 'top'.

"Harry D. Robb, the quarterback on this year's varsity football team, talked on 'Athletics'. Mr. Robb was too modest to take any of the credit for our wonderful record himself, but made no effort to hide his admiration and loyalty to his team manager and coach. From his talk we concluded that Penn State's chances on the gridiron next year are going to be very bright.

"Mr. Robb also called attention to the work of Dean Warnock, who is endeavoring to improve the social conditions at Penn State and who is at present concentrating his efforts on a 'social center' for non-fraternity men.

"E. D. Weaver and E. K. Hilsbman of the Agricultural Extension Service also talked on the needs of the college. The Hilsbman especially emphasized the important part that the alumni must play in the coming campaign for financial support for Penn State.

"Dean Perham welcomed the visitors, and W. M. Camp of the class of '21 gave an interesting account of physical education in the 'old days'. 'Break-up stone' was more than a light occupation then.

The following were present:—
 1899 Dean R. L. Watts, 1891 W. M. Camp, 1907 C. N. Bainbridge, 1909 E. K. Hilsbman, 1911 D. E. Perham, T. D. Fallon, S. H. Smith, 1912 H. S. Adams, 1913 F. M. Schreger, 1914 E. P. Weaver, R. F. Bug, 1915 H. T. Hill, 1916 G. D. Bond, 1918 A. T. Kearney, 1918 I. R. Mollenhauer, J. A. Nelson, 1919 H. D. Robb, C. Zaninger, R. W. Hill, 1920 P. D. Martin, R. J. L. Weinstein.

ROLL CALL ADDS MANY MEMBERS TO RED CROSS

The returns of the Red Cross Roll Call held in November, so far as reported for this district, are as follows:
 Annual memberships: State College, 1977; total, 1775.
 Center Hall Auxiliary, 132; Lemont Auxiliary, 61; Gatesburg-Maringo Auxiliary, 157; total, 298.
 Total annual memberships to date, 1882.
 Junior memberships: State College Graded School, 292; Mrs. Bond's Home School, 49; State College High School, estimated, 290; Juniors-at-large, 67; Juniors, Lemont Auxiliary, 12; total, 611.
 Total membership of all classes, 2495.
 Total magazine subscriptions reported, 23.
 The following organizations have gone 100 per cent Red Cross: The College Girls in Maple Lodge (The Gardner House), Evergreen Cottage (The Masthman House), Stone House (The Holmes House), Edgewood Cottage (The Dietner House), Hillcrest (The former Sackett House), the college boys of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, the children in Mrs. Bond's Home school, the first and seventh grades of the grammar school and the Senior and Junior grades of the High School.

FOOTBALL SCRAP ENDS IN 0-0 DEADLOCK

With the class superiority at stake the two lower classes played a scoreless game of football on the frozen gridiron on New Beaver Field last Friday afternoon in the midst of a driving flurry of snow. Although both teams were composed of men who had been playing all season, either as scrubs to the varsity, or on the first year squad, this was their first real scrimmage on frozen ground, especially with the "Allegheny River" as New Beaver was popularly called, in such condition.

The game itself could not be called a deciding one because of the reversal of a decision by the officials that called a touchdown on the part of the Sophs void after the try for the goal had been given short. The Fresh had kicked off from mid-field. This, added to the fact that the second year men had the pigskin continually in the enemy's territory, although they lacked the punch to drive through the stiff line of the Fresh at the right time and score, proved that the Fresh had kicked off slightly outplayed, but not outfought.

In contrast to the fighting spirit displayed by the warriors was the extremely small number of first year men there to support their defenders, together with the laxity of the cheering given shortly after their superior victory. It is safe to say that not more than one third of the green dink class ornamented the stands and even those displayed little spirit when they rusted on the field. Several times during the game the officials called the game until the spectators were left off the gridiron back to the side lines.

The playing was opened up when the yearlings kicked the leather to the thirty-five yard line, where it was grounded. Then after three line plunges the Sophs recorded their first down; the Fresh forty-yard line where they were by recording five first downs against the Fresh's two.

After this the Sophs uncorked an aerial attack which gained nothing but a score of ten unsuccessful forward passes. The ball was kicked to the Fresh forty-yard line where the yearlings made a determined effort to carry the leather into their opponent's territory. In this effort a bad pass caused a fumble, the ball rolled to the twenty-five yard line and the Sophomores were on the offensive. Here the skill of the young players was displayed and the offensive lost the ball on downs to the Fresh.

In the second quarter Ritner hurled the oval through the air into the wait-

MILITARY NOTES

The regular government inspection of the cadet regiment took place last Tuesday. The inclement weather prevented a thorough inspection of the battalion but the facilities and grounds were given careful scrutiny. On a whole the inspecting officer was well pleased with Penn State's military department.

The armory is being reconstructed to receive the new 1923 Springfield rifles, 200 in all, which are expected any time. The requisition has been approved and shipping orders made, so it is only a question of days until their arrival.

The college, according to government regulations, is to have eight non-commissioned officers in the military department. Thomas Bracken, Jr., first sergeant, from the United States army camp at Holabird, Maryland, is detailed here and his arrival is expected in a few days. This will make the third such officer at the college.

There is a plan on foot at present although nothing has been definitely decided, of placing a military reference library in the regular Carnegie library of the college. This library, if such can be successfully compiled, would contain the various governmental military documents, as well as a complete set of references on military affairs.

DISTINGUISHING MARK FOR FRESHMAN UNIFORMS

By action of Student Council, all Freshmen appearing in military uniform must wear a buff-tack black braid on the cap, extending around the front in such a manner that it will be plainly visible. In this way it will be possible to distinguish Freshmen from Sophomores and two-year men, when all are in uniform.

SOPHOMORE SMOKER WEDNESDAY NIGHT

As its representative on the Forensic Council, D. K. Eaton was chosen by the Sophomore class at its meeting held last Thursday night. Plans were also laid for a smoker to be held in the Armory from 8:30 to 10 on the night of Wednesday December tenth.

Since they had already won their numerals last year, four of the managers of class athletics elected recently resigned in favor of men who had as yet not won their numerals. J. Stecke manager of track, was the first to offer his resignation, at the same time stating his desire to see men elected who had non-athletic interest in the several sports. Gunther, Jenkins and Grubbs managers of basketball, boxing and soccer, followed in giving way to other men.

As an expression of the regret of the class at losing W. J. Chandler, who died during the Pennsylvania Day season, it was unanimously agreed to forward a letter of condolence to the parents of the deceased.

President Ritts said a few words on attendance at class scraps and support of the class teams, following which, came a report of the financial standing of the class and the adoption of the class budget as presented by the inter-class treasurer. Several new members were added to the class roll at this time. Owing to some misunderstanding, the elections held recently have been declared void by President Ritts, the matter to be taken up at an early meeting.

COMBINED CONCERT TO BE HELD AFTER HOLIDAYS

The free concert which was to have been given by the Glee and Mandolin Clubs on Friday evening of this week has been postponed until after the holiday vacation. This change in date has been made because the days preceding the holidays are overcrowded with events while the period immediately after the recess is usually open. It will also give the clubs more time to work up the program so that at the time of presentation they may give forth their best efforts. The concert will probably be held on Friday evening, January sixteenth, and the program which will be rendered at that time will be published in a forthcoming issue of the COLLEGIAN.

PHILADELPHIA CLUB PICTURE

All men and women students from Philadelphia and vicinity are urgently requested to be on Old Main steps at 12:15 Friday, after the bass class in the morning.

MEETING HELD BY FRESHMAN CLASS

The first of the Freshman class (trial) presidents was given an opportunity last Thursday night to exercise his abilities as class leader, E. L. Fink being the presiding officer.

There were twenty-one members of the class nominated for the office of class soccer manager, L. C. Loughurst being elected. During the counting of the ballots "Buck" Williams '21 spoke on the non-fraternity meeting held last Monday night in the Auditorium, and outlined the plan of the proposed Penn State "Union". He urged the class to attend that meeting in strength and find out the part it was to play in the new organization. Better attendance at class meetings, scrap meets, and college activities generally, was requested, in addition to a few words on greeting other Freshmen on the campus and observance of all college customs.

SENIORS ELECT MEN TO FORENSIC COUNCIL

At a meeting of the class held last Thursday night, the Seniors elected three representatives to the Forensic Council, the men being W. D. Benedick, member ex-officio; J. L. Weinstein and L. W. Frazier. It was also decided to hold a Senior Dance in the Old Fellows Hall some time after the Christmas holidays. A committee consisting of C. E. Wertz, chairman; H. R. Nein, and M. D. McKinstry has charge of the affair.

The problem of preserving the grass on the campus was discussed, and the cooperation of the Senior class was requested in avoiding the making of paths or "short-cuts", especially in front of Old Main. It was pointed out that this is the hardest time of the year for preserving the beauty of the campus, and all three upper classes are urged to keep to the regular walks.

A. S. Barnhart, class basketball manager, outlined the prospects for the coming season. Practice will start immediately after the examinations for the first semester, and there are possibilities of a schedule of one-day trips to only nearby towns. President Mackintosh reported on the sale of the Law-Vie, stating that there were still a few left and that the class had realized nearly $300 profit. H. R. Courson, chairman of the finance committee, had a few words to say on the financial condition of the class.

A note of sympathy will be sent to the parents of R. D. Gates, expressing the regret of the class at losing one of its most popular members. While flowers were sent at the time of the funeral, the added courtesy of the letter was unanimously endorsed.

OUR business in this store is to do something more than just sell clothes; anybody can do that; we do sell a lot of them.

But the real business of this store is to be of service to men in the matter of clothes; to see that our customer gets the right quality, the right style and fit, and gets it at the right price.

It's an important service and we make a business of it; Hart, Schaffner & Marx suits and overcoats are our way of doing it.
