PRICE FIVE CENTS

VARSIITY TO MEET DICKINSON FIVE

Interesting Contest to Be Staged on Armory Floor Saturday—Penn State Ready

With the showing of his team in the season's first contest and the game with Dickinson College this Saturday evening in mind, Coach Herman has been putting the Blue and White basketball team through the nicest kind of floor work yet held this season, with the intention of building them into a more "tightly organized and snappier acting unit" than the men showed in their first game. The game will be satisfactory to the coach and while no permanent changes will be made in the line-up, yet several changes in the type of play will be effected. The game with Dickinson is expected to be one where the floor work of the Penn State men will be tested to a marked degree. Dickinson has developed a strong defensive team this year and at the same time formed a combination which will be dangerous on the offensive. This will be the first time in several years that Dickinson has appeared on the Blue and White basketball and a lively contest is anticipated.

Coach Herman is still experimenting with his men. What he desires most is to combine weight and speed on the men who are to be depended on in the varsity and shifts in the lineup will probably be made until he has satisfied himself in this respect. The men in most cases, especially in the back, but what the coach expects to build into an even more unit, one which can combine rapid teamwork, headwork and shooting. The old trouble of finding a center man for the team and also a running man for Killian's still persists. Heigle is undoubtedly the best man for the jump position and intense training in this respect will make of him what the coach expects to have. Killian is undoubtedly the headiest basketball man at Penn State, who could for lines in the first game look exceedingly good. Of the second string men, Finer and Miller show the greatest promise in terms of consideration, as has MacMillan, who started last year's season on the varsity. These men, on the second team, have been playing excellent basketball, but at the same time the varsity has a hard run for the upper hand. Another new man who has shown up well is Zimmerman, who, with training is expected to prove a valuable asset to the team. The coach is confident that these men are veterans on the varsity and at the same time are expected to give an "extra" showing for the season. A total of points gained as yet no foul shots have been named, but that it will be Wolfe or Mullin seems certain.

The Dickinson contest five which will face the Blue and White's Saturday is the best which that institution has produced for several years. With five varsity men back, Coach McAndrew has a strong team to depend on to play his team. Captain Stender may be unable to play in the contest against the Penn State five due to sickness, but nevertheless two first forwards can readily be chosen from the team. Krens or Roger Miller, Brock, the veteran center, whose offensive strength so aided the Dickinson team last season will be a hard man for the Penn State center to contend with. The contest between him and Reigle is expected to be an interesting one. In the guarding positions, Cohen and Ralph Miller, last year's guards, will be found formidable opponents.

The Dickinson contest of the best of condition for their double battle over the week-end. Bucknell will be met on Friday night and then the Carlisle eagles will meet Penn State's five the following night. The admission to this contest will be forty cents and it is hoped that every student who can possibly do so, will come out and support the team.

The scale of prices for the additional contests of the season, including war tax, are as follows: Wash & Jeff, Pitt, Alumni and Lohgig, fifty-five cents each, and Lebanon Valley and George Washington, seventy-five cents each. All varsity men who have been permitted complimentary tickets, must secure them from Manager Martin and pay the tax upon them before the game. No one will be admitted without a ticket.

At the opening of college after the Christmas holidays the candidates for the Freshman five were called out and seventy-five men responded to the call. "Jimmy" Wagner and "Chuck" Hunter, former varsity men, and men who played for two years under the tutelage of Coach Herman, have been engaged to coach the youngsters. A schedule of games is being arranged by Graduate Manager Fleming and it is likely that Indiana Normal, Ballontone Academy and Pitt Freshmen will continue the list. As yet, however, nothing definite has been settled regarding the certainty of meeting any of these teams, but negotiations are being made which it is hoped will result in the completion of a schedule for the first year men.

Y. M. C. A. SPEAKER TO ADDRESS ENGINEERS

World-Wide Problems Facing Technical Students to Be Explained by Industrial Authority

"Human Engineering," an aspect of the world-wide problems facing the practicing engineers and students will be the chief message which Fred H. Rindge, Jr., Secretary of the Industrial Department of the Y. M. C. A., will bring to Penn State engineering students next Sunday and Monday. The fact that the human element in the industrial world has made itself so conspicuous the last few years, and that numerous technical problems are the direct result of the human factor, is a fact that has not been, makes this topic of special interest. The principles and methods which Mr. Rindge has advocated during the last decade have become a world-wide standard by operation and Penn State engineers are fortunate in having the opportunity for that hand information regarding the human factor in the industrial world. The fact that the human factor is the key to the success of the industrial world is a fact that has not been, makes this topic of special interest. The principles and methods which Mr. Rindge has advocated during the last decade have become a world-wide standard by operation and Penn State engineers are fortunate in having the opportunity for that hand information regarding the human factor in the industrial world.

FRED H. RINDGE, JR.

Mr. Rindge will address the engineering students and others this Sunday evening at six o'clock in the auditorium. On Monday through special arrangements, he will meet most of the upper-classing of the School of Engineering.

DEBATING SCHEDULE COMPRIZES FOUR MEETS

The probable debating schedule which was previously announced has now been definitely decided upon and meets with Colgate, Ohio Wesleyan in Bucknell and Dickinson are included. The first meet will be held with the Colgate debaters on January twenty-ninth or thirty-first at Hamilton, New York, while those representing Ohio Wesleyan will travel to State College about the twenty-ninth of that month. The last two meets will be held on the twenty-seventh of February, one at home with Bucknell, and the other away at Carlisle with Dickinson.

The only feature of the schedule which remains uncertain is the girls' debate with Bucknell. The deciding factor of this is the personnel, and if the sufficient number of girls report for the second debate will be held some time in March.

Those who will represent the Blue and White in this schedule will most likely be chosen this week or the week following and in the meantime the debating classes will continue as usual on Monday and Wednesday nights and Saturday afternoon.

ARCHITECTURAL ENGINEERING STUDENTS RECEIVE HONORS

Several Architectural Engineering students of this college were honored last week by receiving "Honorable Mention" for architectural drawings submitted in an annual competition held by the Bronx Arts Institute of Eastern of New York City. Students from various architectural schools in the country compete for these honors, which are very limited in number. The men receiving mention from this institution are: Comly E. Maule, H. D. Gamble, Harry J. Sweeney, R. A. Schwartz, W. J. Gibb and J. W. Mink. The subject for this competition was the design of an entrance to a city club.

DEAN OF MINING SCHOOL ATTENDS GEOLOGY MEETING

Dean E. S. Moore and Professor C. W. Robinson, of the Department of Geology attended the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America held in Boston December twenty-ninth to thirty-first.

UNIT OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Dr. Sparks and Dean Warnock Address Gathering of the Non-Fraternity Men.

The second meeting of the non-fraternity men was held Friday night in the Auditorium. The meeting was not as well attended as the first one, but those present at the gathering notwithstanding the unfavorable weather conditions, effectively demonstrated that the students were enthusiastic in their support of the movement for the betterment of Penn State. The band was out and played several selections before the opening of the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting was to elect permanent district officers. Before introducing the other speakers of the evening, George C. Bowers, Jr., the chairman of the meeting, introduced the speakers. He stated that if things did not seem to go as smoothly as might be expected, he would not be surprised. He stated that he was now going through the "after-act" and that he would not be surprised if things did not seem to go as smoothly as might be expected.

At this juncture President Sparks arrived at the meeting and was greeted with enthusiasm by the assembly. He stated that some people are always afraid to do a thing, but he is not afraid of anything that is to be had for nothing. A few unfortunates students are afraid that the Union will turn out to be a mere social club, but he stated that this movement is pure gold and is designed for the benefit of the entire student body. On a small scale it has been conducted at the University of Chicago for the last twenty years. If it can succeed there, surely it can be a success at this institution. He went on to say that some of the members have the idea that the Union is for the protection of the non-fraternity men against the fraternities. This is not so, the Union is against nothing, it is for the benefit of the men who do not belong to fraternities, but it is not anything and is only pro-Penn State. "Press" urged that there be no (Continued on last page)

TRACK MEN REPORT FOR INDOOR WORK

In view of the fact that the cold weather would keep the track cancellations from the winter months, Coach Bill Martin has so arranged things that these men may work out daily and keep in trim for the spring events. It is the only way to keep the men in trim for the spring events. It is the only way to keep the men in trim for the spring events.

In former years the men came out for the sport for a short time in the winter and then returned to the track for the rest of the year. This year they will be in better shape for the spring events.

Although it is rather early in the year to predict or even to say anything concerning the team which will represent Penn State on the outdoor track, the outlook is the brightest in a long time. Not only have several prominent old men returned, but the men seem to take a greater interest than in former years and enthusiasm for a championship team runs high. It is impossible to give an estimate of the ability of the men or of the chances of the team, but it is returned in as much as a large number have not reported but among the old men who have not reported in the past and have come out for practice are: Kral, 410-pound man; Shiloh, cross-country man and holder of the Penn State record in the mile; and York, cross-country star. Inasmuch as Hill has left college, Bugbee and Parent will probably be looked upon as contestants for the honors. In the dashes Demming, Becker, Jones, Taylor, Jones and Stewart, who are known from their work last year, have reported and are showing the usual form. Orr, Sooms, Romig and Kahley are members of the one-century club while Egan and Dambly, weight men are also out. Several football men have also announced their intention of reporting and among these may be mentioned Beck, Cuhage and "Casey" Jones.

STUDENTS VOTE ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Propositions Six and Three Receive Highest Vote—Faculty Favors One and Four

In accordance with the nation-wide vote of college and university students and faculties being taken on the six propositions in reference to the League of Nations, Penn State students and faculty cast their opinion on the date set for the vote on Monday and Tuesday. The results of the vote are as follows: Proposition Six, 370; Proposition Three, 370; Proposition One, 370; Proposition Four, 370; Proposition Two, 370; Proposition Five, 370.

"SAM" DEAN WRITES OF CONDITIONS IN CHINA

Penn State Alumnus, Class of 1912, in Letter to Dr. Sparks, Tells About the Penn State Work in Peking—China's Educational Development Has Been Rapid—Students Intensely Patriotic

The following letter was recently received by Dr. Sparks from S. M. Dean '12, who is at present located at Peking, China, where he is teaching in the Department of Industrial Education of the Peking Higher Normal College. This communication will undoubtedly be read with great interest by all Penn State faculty members, alumni, students, and friends, because of the wonderful conditions in the country which he is now in. It is a letter which will give you a glimpse of the work of this Penn State alumnus in the Orient.

I am going to tell you something of what Bob Galley and the other men out here in the Princeton work call the Penn State work in Peking. I don't dare to write before for one does not like to tell what he is doing till he sees that they have at least partly been accomplished.

NOVICE BOXING MEET THIS WEEK

Contest Formally Opens Local Season—Candidates Preparing for Penn Meet

Boxing enthusiasts at Penn State are due for an exceptional treat in the form of a novice meet to be held in the armory at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening. The contestants, numbering seventy in all and ranging in weight from eight pounds to heavyweight, will be the same as those who have been in the line at them. These men have never before boxed with regular contestants at any meet, and are given this opportunity to gain experience in the ring before making any boxers who have had previous experience. No admission will be charged and everyone who is interested and who enjoys a boxing contest is invited to be present, that the contestants be encouraged in their efforts.

With but three weeks intervening between the date of the meet with the University of Pennsylvania team, much strenuous work lies before the both coach and candidates. The varsity has as yet not been selected, but it will undoubtedly be chosen through the general meeting of the Penn meet, a survival of the fittest and the approval of the coach. Numerous men have shown marked improvement within the past week and competition for the coveted position of champion is keen. A contestant in the heavyweight class has shown up especially well as has Steln in the light heavyweight class. Aiken, one of last year's stars in the Penn meet at Philadelphia is showing up well in the one-hundred-and-sixty-pound class, as have Cooper and Brown in the middleweight class. Captain McFadden, who has been in the Penn meet at the University of Pennsylvania, is showing up well in the one-hundred-and-twenty-five-pound class. McFadden is showing up well in the one-hundred-and-twenty-five-pound class. McFadden is showing up well in the one-hundred-and-twenty-five-pound class.

The meet with the Navy is now an assumed fact, although a date has as yet not been set. Negotiations are also pending for a meet with the University of Pittsburgh, although nothing definite has been decided upon.

OFFICERS ELECTED AT FORESTRY SOCIETY MEETING

At its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the Forestry building, the Forestry Society elected the officials for the coming year. The officers elected are as follows: President, John Hancock '21; Vice-President, C. A. Morlock '22; Secretary, J. B. Kirkpatrick '21; Treasurer, L. M. Lindenmuth '22; Editor, J. B. Kirkpatrick '21; and Editor, J. B. Kirkpatrick '21.

TOOLS FROM "NOAH'S ARK"

It was a wonderful array of tools that I presented me with and asked me to teach the youth of China. I think that friend Noah must have sold them to the Japanese, in his last trip around the world. I have never seen them before. They were placed that pulled toward you, says that you lay down on your back and get sawdust in your eyes to use, and a lot of funny pieces of iron and wood have never been seen before. But I had fifty boxes, a building and permission to go ahead and fill them full of Penn State knowledge.

The first school wasn't very big, it had twelve kids picked from the street and taught by a carpenter, a graduate of the Y. M. C. A. school and myself. It was big enough to put me over, but it was a financial hole and I had to make it worth while to combine with an orphanage which the Y. M. C. A. was interested in and which we helped to turn into an industrial organization that is now making toys, tin and other things and has over a hundred boys and girls in it.

As peculiar as that may seem, I finally got into real industrial work, and my knowledge of wheels that turn, (Continued on page two)

PHI KAPPA PHI WILL BRING NOTED SPEAKERS

Dr. H. T. Collings, Former Professor, and Hamlin Garland to Speak Here

Once more the Phi Kappa Phi honorary fraternity is acting as the instrument in bringing to Penn State field meet in bringing decided advantages to Penn State. It is negotiating with prominent speakers for a series of lectures to be given in the near future. The first one will be delivered on the twenty-fourth of the present month by Dr. H. T. Collings on "Reconstruction Problems in Belgium." Dr. Collings enjoys a wide circle of friends at Penn State, having for some time been head of the Department of German here. It will be remembered that during the war he represented the United States Department of Commerce in Belgium and that he is especially studying Economics at Columbia University, preparatory to going to South America to represent the government on a commercial mission. His lectures here will be one of many he is delivering throughout the United States on the same subject.

The second lecture will be delivered on the seventh of February by Hamlin Garland on "Personal Reminiscences of the English and American Authors." Mr. Garland is internationally known as an author of note. His work dealing with the great Middle West of this country is especially popular. Further announcements of the lectures will be held in the Auditorium and will be entirely free will be made in coming issues of the COLLEGIAN.

ELABORATE PROGRAM TO FEATURE CONCERT

Musical Clubs Plan Interesting Entertainment—New Songs to Be Tried Out

Preparations for the concert to be given in the Auditorium Friday evening, January sixteenth by the combined Glee and Mandolin Clubs and the Varsity and Freshman Male Quartets have been completed and a concert success is anticipated. The concert will feature the best of all college music lovers has been arranged. These organizations have been working on this concert ever since the last concert given at the Pennsylvania State University. The selections to be rendered are popular ones and one of the features of the evening will be the rendition of two new songs, in addition to a humorous monologue from Mark Twain by B. W. Knapp '21. The Glee Club has been working for some time on these new songs and expresses a fervent hope that they will "take hold" among the students. They are both written by Penn State men, and are the type which Penn State enthusiasts demand. Following the rendition of these songs by the club, the song leaders will lead the audience in the attempt to test them out.

The admission to the concert will be free to all students of the college, faculty members and residents of the town. The concert will begin promptly at eight o'clock. The program is as follows:

1. Anabel Lee (Edgar Allan Poe)..... Vandewater Glee Club
2. Ultimate March..... Allen Georgia Land..... Lewis Mandolin Club
3. Selected

DR. ZOOK TO LEAVE AT END OF FIRST SEMESTER

Better opportunities and a higher position have called another of Penn State's faculty members, who will leave this institution at the end of the semester. Dr. George F. Zook, Professor of Medieval and Modern History, has received an appointment through the Secretary of the Interior as Specialist of Higher Education at Washington, D. C. After he assumes his new duties at the Capitol, Dr. Zook will spend a few weeks at home before leaving for his new position.

While on her way to class Tuesday morning, Miss Pearl Baneroff '21 slipped on the icy pavement near the Liberal Arts Building, lost her balance and sustained a broken ankle as a result of her fall. The accident occurred between classes and she was immediately given aid and taken to the college hospital where she is now receiving treatment.

CRAWFORD ADAMS CONCERT SATURDAY

Fourth Number of Y. M. C. A. Course to Be Presented in the Auditorium

The fourth number in the Y. M. C. A. Entertainment Course will be presented on Saturday evening in the Auditorium at eight o'clock. Owing to the coal shortage, the third number was postponed, but all are advised to keep their tickets since this attraction will appear at a later date. The Entertainment for Saturday is one that comes highly recommended by all who have seen it. It is a musical feature known throughout the location world as the Crawford Adams Concert Series, and the work done by this group of artists at other places has proven to be without doubt the most popular of the season.

The personnel of the company is as follows: Crawford Adams, violinist and soul of the company; Gladys Gibson, pianist, and Nan Smit, solo pianist and accompanist. Mr. Adams does more than play the violin, he makes it talk, weep and laugh in such a manner that his audience is almost without reservation that Crawford Adams is the most versatile and entertaining in America at the present time. He has the ability to play popular music on the violin in such a way that at times when he has been asked to appear for ten minutes, the audience has been so captivated that he played for three-quarters of an hour and his hearers clamored for more. In spite of his ability to play popular music, he has not neglected his musical program with the Knobs Quartet and other companies of the same caliber. It was Crawford Adams, who some years ago, introduced the rather spectacular feature of the orchestra playing in the orchestra pit. This feature has since that time been so captivated that he played for three-quarters of an hour and his hearers clamored for more. DES MOINES DELEGATES TELL OF EXPERIENCES

In place of the usual vespers service a special meeting was held in the Auditorium on Sunday evening for the purpose of giving the students an opportunity to hear the reports of the delegates to the Eleventh International Student Volunteer Convention which was recently held at Des Moines, Iowa. Due to the publicity which was given to this meeting and the evident desire on the part of both students and non-students to hear the high-toned messages brought in from the convention about 100 persons were on hand.

After a few introductory remarks by the chairman, I. P. McKittrick '21, Miss Minnie Rapp '21, was called upon to explain the origin and purpose of the Student Volunteer Movement and she responded with a very clear and forceful address. The second speaker was Miss Edna Sell '21, who spoke of the need for trained missionaries in all fields and of the great opportunity for college men and women to consecrate their lives to this mission, and all through the session, Arthur James '21, and Wilma J. Kitchen '21, were the other speakers, the former taking as his subject the "Solution of the Problem," while Mr. Kitchen spoke on "The Appeal of the Convention." All of these speakers reflected the burning conviction and the athletic enthusiasm of the great personalities who led the Convention—men like John H. Mott, Sherwood Eddy and Robert Speer.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

What promises an extremely interesting and entertaining evening will be given next Wednesday evening in the Auditorium by Dr. Lincoln Whit, of New York City. The subject will be "Out of the Land of the Living." Dr. Whit comes to Penn State under the auspices of the New East Relief Committee. He is a Congregational evangelist and was recently sent to Palestine and Armenia to make illustrations of conditions in those lands. That this film is worth while may be judged from the fact that part of it was made from an airplane.

This motion picture will be shown in connection with Dr. Whit's lecture. The play services in the village will be omitted for that evening, and a union meeting of townsmen, students and faculty will be held in order to hear Dr. Whit and witness the film.

NOTICE TO FRESHMEN All Freshmen who are trying out for the positions of reporters on the editorial staff of the COLLEGIAN report Friday, 7 p. m. sharp, room 535 Old Main.
