WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1920

May Day and hundreds of visitors at Penn State, both to participate in the various events and to witness them, bear a particular influence on the character of the student bodies at Penn State in the future. At all these events men will be given the opportunity for competing in true Penn State style and for witnessing in the varsity and fraternity events further examples of the way the Blue and White "plays fair."

In order to become a college classed with the first in every sport she participates in, Penn State must have among her students men who can place her there. This annual May Day celebration is just such an occasion as will bring men here. It is at this time that the high school students obtain their views of Penn State and her students.

Let us see that every student plays fair, that no word may come back of how some man at Penn State failed to live up to the time honored customs. By this it is meant that such actions as the recent ones for the special benefit of the Lafayette pitcher should be tabooed, not only for this occasion, but for all time. Penn State students know that that sort of thing is not true to Penn State life and ideals and that it should not be tolerated here. Let us hope that at this May Day celebration, where the whole college rejoices and joins in play with its visitors, that no student may act in a way to belittle or endanger the great name of his Alma Mater.

Today marks the twelfth anniversary of the residence of President Sparks in State College. For twelve years he has served the college, country, state, and families faithfully by giving to each one the things which are best and right in his estimation. Not only has his own name been placed among the leading educators of the times but he has placed Penn State on a pedestal among the other colleges of the land. He has been on the job through thick and thin, through success and failure and each time has led the college toward the front with the entire student body not only behind him but also beside him. If Penn State can advance as much in the next twelve years as it has in the past it will not only be among the leading but the leading college in the country and the greatest thing we can hope for Penn State is a president and leader of the same ability and attitude as our departing president. The COLLEGIAN wishes President Sparks the success which he has given to the college to be brought back to him sevenfold in the future.

Prior to this year, athletics among the girls of this college have been an almost minus quantity. With the exception of occasional games and basketball contests the women students have received no training in any of the outdoor sports. However, last week great enthusiasm arose over the hockey meet between the girls of the Sophomore and Freshman classes. Four games were necessary to determine the championship, the original plans of three games being changed owing to the second contest ending in a tie score.

In the first game the Sophomores clearly evidenced their superiority over the yearling team, winning by four to one.

 Goals—M. Gajdos 2; O. Chapman, A. Newman, P. McAfee.

The second game took place the following evening, May fifth, when the two lower classes battled to a draw, each side obtaining two goals. The line-up on both sides had been changed somewhat, D. Smith having replaced M. Cray at right wing, being replaced by M. Gajdos, while V. Pory took the place of M. Marsh. The Freshman team remained intact, save for the substitution of Misses Erb and Fox for D. Schuler and H. Williams respectively. A. Newman and O. Chapman each tallied for the second year girls while A. Brown and A. Fell scored for the Freshmen.

In the third contest the Freshman girls broke the Sophomores' lead and opened up the series by winning one to none. The line-up was practically the same as for the first game of the week, for the Sophomores, save for V. Pory having been shifted to Goal and for the Freshman E. Pitouka had replaced D. Browning at right wing. A. Fell scored the first year girls' lone goal.

The deciding contest was fought last Friday, when the Freshman girls by a five to one score. The line-up for this contest had received considerable swamped their second year opponents.

HOOVER CLUB HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

An interesting meeting of the Penn State Hockey Club held last Monday evening in the Liberal Arts Building. Plans were made whereby the great sentiment in support of Hoover for President may be crystallized. Short and convincing talks were given by Professors T. Tanager, S. C. Miller and Roy Dikm and by Miss Elizabeth McWilliams '20, Miss Ruth Elton '21, H. C. Kramer '23, S. N. Solovoy '20 and W. M. Sharp '21. Positions will be circulated among the students and it is earnestly desired that everyone who stands for Hoover place his name on one of these Headquarters will be established in the Music Room and petitions and literature will be available there to all interested Thursday, May thirteenth, from six-thirty to seven-thirty in the evening.

PLANS FOR FARMERS' WEEK NOW UNDER WAY

Under the direction of the School of Agriculture, plans for Farmers' Week, June twenty-second, twenty-third, and twenty-fourth, are now being formulated. This year, the program will consist almost entirely of outdoor events, the evenings being devoted to community chorusing singing together with numerous lectures. An extensive system of signs and labels is being prepared for the various experiments and projects. The final arrangements and complete program will be announced later.

AG. INSTRUCTOR GETS NEW APPOINTMENT

Mr. W. H. Darst, Professor of Farm Crops, left Penn State for the North Carolina Agricultural College last week in order to take up his new duties as a member of that faculty. Professor Darst graduated from the Ohio State University in 1910 and since that time has been a member of the Penn State faculty.

I. N. A. Convention Is Great Success

The third semi-annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States, of which the PENN STATE COLLEGIAN is a member, was held last Friday evening at New Brunswick, N. J., the Rutgers "Argonaut" as host. A most successful meeting was held, some thirty or more delegates representing fifteen college papers being present.

Many new suggestions for the operation of their various papers were received by the editors present. Each editor spoke at some length regarding the conduct of his paper and the policies pursued. In many cases it was found that the college paper had exerted a mighty influence on the student body, several having adopted the honor system because of this fact and in numerous cases the various college endorsement fund campaigns, through their editor's medium. The business conference, which was held at the same time, was likewise well attended and attempts were made to reach some method of standardization of the various methods of advertising he made more secure.

Near the close of the conference the annual election of officers was held. Mr. C. Leslie Olson of the Stevens "Stature" receiving the choice for president. Mr. James P. Hargraves of the Swarthmore "Phoenix" choice for vice-president. Mr. H. L. Louschner of the PENN STATE COLLEGIAN, the office of secretary, and Mr. George H. Hooper of the Haverford "News" the office of treasurer of the organization.

Following the election of officers the decision was reached as to the location of the next I. N. A. conference which takes place next fall. Stevens, Delaware, P. & M. and Penn State were offered and the conference decided on Penn State as the logical place.

The following day the delegates left for New York, where they attended the closing session of the convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Eastern States. Following this session they were the guests of the Columbia "Spartan" and the school of journalism at a luncheon. Later in the afternoon the representatives made a tour of the newspaper plant of the New York World, a trip which lasted several hours and which afforded the men numerous opportunities for witnessing the methods employed in operating the large dailies of the country.

LACROSSE TEAM TO BEGIN SEASON AWAY

With a schedule of three hard games before them and prospects of several more in sight the lacrosse men are being tutored each night by Doc Lewis on Holmes Field, in order that they may make a creditable showing in this minor sport and make it rank among the highest in the college. Between twenty and thirty men are practicing each night and both the attack and defense are being perfected to a great degree. The main obstacle seems to be the large number of men who are on the injured list and are unable to practice.

The season will open next week when the team will make its southern trip and play games with Navy and Maryland State. Both teams have been playing the game for a long length of time than has the Blue and White and have played several games this season, thus putting the lacrosse team at a disadvantage. Although only a small number of men are being retained on the squad, these men are nevertheless working hard for position and the matter of picking a team and developing them in such a short time is a difficult matter. Thirteen men will be picked from these men and with a few extras will make the trip. In the attack Mills '21, Gibbs '22, Coup '22, Aknew '22 are almost sure of their positions while Eaton '20, Walters '21, Campbell '21 and Shaw '22 are fighting for the other positions. The defense team is practically selected with Parley '21, Brown '22, Wert '20, Louschner '21 and Gladding '21 practically sure of a place and Waring and Lloyd both '21 working hard for the other places. Vickers '21 and Frederickson '20 are the candidates for the position of goal tender. Manager Lathinuit has arranged one home game with Syracuse for May twenty-eighth. This is the first intercollegiate lacrosse game which has been played here for several years and will undoubtedly attract a large number of spectators.

Intercollegiate lacrosse games have been suspended this year due to the lack of equipment.

FIRST CLEAN-UP DAY MEETS WITH SUCCESS

Clean-up Day, held last Saturday afternoon accomplished its purpose so well that in all probability it will be the latest contribution to the already large number of college customs. The entire program as arranged for by the committee in charge was carried thru to the letter, and after the last bit of work had been completed, the parts of the campus visited by the legions of first year men presented a wholly different aspect than before.

The event started on Saturday afternoon with the line-up of the various Freshman companies on the Armory field. From this place the Freshmen were marched to New Beaver Field and divided into groups with a Sophomore in charge to direct the work. A general clean-up of the woods surrounding the field followed and such articles as dead leaves, brush, paper and other refuse were gathered into piles and burned. A high wind sweeping over the scene of operations hampered the effectiveness of the work considerably and much difficulty was experienced in confining the burning piles of refuse to a particular spot. Work was also started on the tennis courts at the north end of New Beaver Field so that these may be put into condition for players of the game and thus relieve the congestion now present at the Armory courts.
