PLAN FOR ATHLETIC FEE PROPOSED TO STUDENTS

 athletic contests because of lack of funds. In the beginning of each school year, funds are generally sufficient to enable him to pay his athletic fee without much demurring. Naturally having paid his fee at the beginning of the year, he will have his athletic card which will admit him to all contests and thus his embarrassment is avoided. Again, the fact that he has the card will tend to a greater attendance at all contests. It will make for a greater mingling of student with student, and like nothing else make a greater love and reverence for the Alma Mater. Individually it is a great help.

Will Bring Big Games
 As has been stated, big games can then be staged at home. Under the old system, it has been very difficult to obtain the best teams for games on New Brainer because of the lack of financial resources. The new system will take away these difficulties and with five or six home games on a season's football schedule, two of them will be really big games, with three or four of a smaller type. Penn State teams, while on trips, have had to refrain from obtaining suitable quarters and comforts because of the small guarantee received and the lack of funds to carry them through the trips in a proper manner. Often a hotel cannot be afforded, the men being forced to seek quarters elsewhere. On trips they have often been forced to seek seats in the smoking car, or in case the train was crowded, to stand on the platform. Necessarily they were not always in the best of condition for their contests. While no luxury is desired or advocated for teams on trips, yet a certain amount of comfort is necessary for the men's sake and above all, for the prestige of the college.

Democratic Athletics
 Besides these necessities, the plan will put athletics at this college on a democratic basis because each team will be provided for. Each sport will receive proper support. No sport will be forced to suffer because of lack of equipment. Above all, at Penn State there will be no situation as is current at many colleges, that of special favor in a few sports to the detriment of the others. At Penn State all sports will be placed on an equal basis, because it will be the students who will be the supporters of their own sports and who will be the ones to participate in them.

The large program for athletic fields which was explained previously, would be made possible by virtue of the surplus obtained through the new plan. It is cheaper for the student, it provides adequate funds for the conduct of Penn State of the very best athletic program in all sports, with its surplus, it makes possible the completion of athletic fields and the obtaining of equipment to carry on the work of a great mass athletic system.

At the mass meeting Thursday evening representatives of baseball, track, tennis, lacrosse and football teams will make comment on their sports and what the new plan will mean to the sports. The college band will be present and will give a great "old time" mass meeting will be held. "Hex," Neil Fleming, and numerous others will be there to present the plan and the students will have the opportunity of putting across the largest program of its kind ever attempted in an American college. The distinction which will come to this college after the proposition is accepted and is worked out, cannot be estimated, but Penn State's name and her achievements will be topics for collegiate discussion in all the colleges of this country.

At a meeting held last Sunday afternoon the following men, representatives of the fraternities and units gave their hearty support to the plan: W. H. McNeer, C. W. Heppenstahl, H. A. Howling, L. M. Runkle, R. V. Hoy, C. F. Lockman, J. R. Stover, H. L. Hahn, W. M. Parent, F. J. Stevenson, J. W. Conelhart, C. D. Young, G. F. Allbach, E. M. Williamson, O. R. Fritz, T. R. Snodgrass, A. W. Barz,

A. A. Elections
 A vote on the results of the first balloting for president and secretary of the Athletic Association will be taken at the mass meeting also. The first vote resulted in a choice between H. L. Hahn '21 and R. K. Williams '21, for president and E. M. Alken '21 and F. O. Church '21 for secretary. The final vote will be taken at that time.

COLLEGIAN WINS PRIZE IN NEWSPAPER CONTEST

THE PENN STATE COLLEGIAN was recently awarded first prize in the annual newspaper competition for the Public Ledger prize between the members of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association. This contest is conducted each year, the various papers keeping a file of their issues and before the first Saturday in May these files are sent to Mr. Maxwell, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger who is judge of the contest. The COLLEGIAN won third place in the contest last year, and the rise to first place this year is considered quite a boost for the policy of the paper and its general appearance and makeup under the retired staff.

UNIT BENEFIT PLAY TO BE GIVEN THIS FRIDAY

A five act-show will be given in the open air theatre on Friday, June fourth at seven-forty-five, under the auspices of the Inter-Unit Council. The proceeds of the show will be used to purchase furniture and defray the initial costs of opening a house which will be ready for use in the fall.

This is the first step taken in the establishment of a Penn State intra-unit social center. The Inter-Unit Council is leasing a suitable building in the town this spring to serve as a social center for all the units in common. The house will be open to all meetings, dances and other activities. Tags are now in the hands of all unit and fraternity presidents, to be sold as admittance to the show on Friday night. The tags sell for twenty-eight cents each and may be purchased at the Co-op corner on Thursday evening. A special appeal is being made to the students this week for initial funds to carry on the project.

The following program will be rendered at Friday night's performance: Act one, Collego Band—selections; act two, Prunella Girls—chorus dancing; act three—Freshman Quartet, act four, Mrs. Miller—readings; act five, Miss Ruby White—solo dancing.

FORMER STUDENT TELLS OF MEXICAN SITUATION

Dean E. S. Moore, of the School of Mines, received a letter this week from former Penn State student, William Gretzinger, a member of the class of 1920, who for some time has been connected with a large petroleum company in Mexico.

In his letter to Dean Moore he throws some light on the revolution at Tampico and the consequent actions of the opposing parties. It so occurred that while Gretzinger was walking around the plaza the revolution reached its height at Tampico. The band of rebels rode into the city, even to the doors of the court house and prison and with the additional aid of the federalists there, they captured the leaders and influential men of the opposing party. Their next act was to throw open the prison doors and free all the civil and military prisoners contained therein. One of the older men, confined therein has just completed serving three years of a twenty year sentence.

Conditions thereabout and in Mexico in general, however, he states, may be much better within a short time, when the revolution subsides and authority again returns. The large companies in Mexico, are already facing the arduous odds against them brought about by the present chaos and with their usual energy are beginning larger programs of operation than ever. He further states that during the revolution, he as well as other parties not directly interested were in much less danger through its sway than from accidents in the neighboring jungle.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR

At a recent meeting of the local fire department, officers were elected for next year as follows: Chief, F. E. Roeky '22; Hose Captain, W. C. Clough '22; Chemical Captain, W. O. Campbell '22; Police Captain, C. Fredericksen '21; Salvage Captain, R. S. Grubb '22; Secretary, J. L. Stewart '22; Treasurer, J. H. Warner '21.

LIBRARY BOOKS

All library books are to be returned on or before Saturday June fifth. Inventory of volumes contained and shelving require that the students make prompt return of all books now out. The library department has been very courteous in its assistance to the students in securing desired volumes during the past year and the students are called on to reciprocate in the fullest sense of the word.
