

From the Summer Session Note-book

The Open Air Theatre was designed by the Landscaping Gardening students and first used in 1910. The profits from all paid entertainments held in it are used for its improvement. It is hoped to lower the western part of the seating space to the level of the eastern half, but the two large trees form a problem. They furnish the only shade for day assemblies. It is feared that the leveling of the surface may be fatal to the trees.

It is gratifying to note how faithfully the houses are keeping the rule about confining social affairs to Friday or Saturday nights. At a neighboring university, the social life so far encroached upon the time of study that the authorities were compelled to forbid the former during the remainder of the session. The state supports the Penn State Summer Session primarily for professional study and mental improvement.

At a picnic of the rural preachers at the college a few years ago, no umpire could be found for a baseball game between two impromptu sides. It was decided to umpire by theological conscience, every man to say when he was out. After one side had made six runs with no one out, the other side declared that the theological conscience was weak when it came to baseball. The campus workers who utilize the Assembly hour to pursue their work seem to be increasing in numbers. Nevertheless, there are always a sufficient number of the serious-minded to make a good audience in the Auditorium.

DELTA PI GIRLS HAVE JOLLY TIME

The Delta Pi House girls and their friends held a most enjoyable holiday party Monday night to the country residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kramer near Shingleton Gap. It was a most unique affair inasmuch as it was the occasion of a double birthday anniversary. Mr. William Kramer and Miss Ruth Soutt were the host and hostess.

When the party arrived, everything was in readiness to carry out the interesting program previously arranged. The first numbers were of a dramatic and musical nature. Miss Myrtle Wamcher, a talented young lady, gave a most pleasing dramatic reading on "The Vamp". Her interpretations were unusually good. Miss Jane O'Brien rendered very beautifully the well known song "You Know What I Mean".

The outdoor games and athletic events were held in the moonlight. Miss Marion Mauser won the 100-yard dash for girls in exceedingly fast time. Miss Isabel Elliot won the 50-yard dash for fat women. After numerous games were played, the program was concluded with the serving of refreshments. Several mandolin selections accompanied by the singing of the group were features on the way home. The Delta Pi girls are now looking forward to a watermelon party in the near future.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

Mrs. Frederick W. Abbott, of Philadelphia, is to be the guest of the summer session over the week-end. The music department is planning to give her a hearty welcome.

Mrs. Abbott will speak in the Open Air Theatre next Monday evening, on the subject of "The Aims and Extension Work of the National Federation of Music Clubs in Relation to State and Rural Communities in Particular." The meeting will open with community singing and it is hoped that there will be a large turnout.

Mrs. Abbott is bringing a message from the Federated Music Clubs and every Pennsylvania teacher will be interested in hearing her. The Woman's Club of State College will hold a reception for Mrs. Abbott in the Woman's Building on Monday afternoon.

Summer Session students are asked to learn the following song so that they will be able to sing it at the meeting on Monday evening.

The Sing Song
Tune—"The Chocolate Soldier"
Sing, sing, loving the singing, the whole day long,
Sing, sing, voices are ringing with heartfelt song
Sing, sing, whatever betide you,
Sing for the joy of the song that's inside you,
Sing for the song's the thing,
Sing, sing, loving the singing,
Just sing, sing, sing!
