RECENT SUMMER SESSION SURPASSES OTHER YEARS

of farmers were State Secretary of Agriculture, Fred Rasmussen and Clifford Pichot, Head of the State Forestry Department. A special feature of Farmers' Week was the "Young Farmers' Section." Hundreds of tomorrow's producers were present, and great interest was manifested by them, especially in the stock judging contests, in which cups were offered to the prize winning county stock judging teams. Although attended by an undue amount of poor weather, Farmers' Week was an unqualified success and undoubtedly did a great deal to promote the cultural interests of the Commonwealth.

Special Features Characterize Sessions. The formal opening of the Summer Session took place Monday, July twenty-fourth, and shortly after the confusion of registration was over, conditions settled down to normal and work went rapidly in the various departments. Besides the regular courses there were several features which interest shown in the Model Kindergarten and Guide School. These were established in the Liberal Arts Building and were conducted during the entire six weeks, those enrolled being the children of State College citizens. Another interesting innovation was the maintenance of a French Practice House or Maison Francaise. One of the cottages on the campus was set aside for the use of a number of students who limited their conversation to the French language, and ate at a special table in McAllister Hall conversing entirely in the sister tongue. The course and house were under the charge of Mrs. Jeanne Ripon Butler, a B. S. from State '09, who is French by birth and a graduate of the Ecole Normale Superior of Laval, France. The students under her supervision lived in a French atmosphere as far as possible and gained valuable lessons in the study of that language.

Many Boy Scouts Camp Here. Following out a practice established several years ago, a portion of the campus back of the Natural Science group was devoted to Boy Scout Camps. Three such camps, each lasting one week, were held here, the Boy Scouts coming from all parts of the state. The ideal location of the college, its pure air and its surroundings made these camps enjoyable to the youthful Americans. Library School Attracts Many Students. In conjunction with the courses teachers a six weeks' Library School was conducted. A large number of present and prospective librarians were enrolled, and valuable training was given in all branches of library organization and management. The work was under the direct supervision of the State Librarian and the head of the State Library Extension Bureau.

Rural Pastors Study Farming. Monday, July twelfth, marked the opening of the two weeks' School for Rural Pastors. Some fifty clergymen from all parts of the state attended the course, studying agriculture as a means to aid both themselves and the communities in which they live. The director of the work in this department was Doctor Dolvix Harlan, Secretary of the American Baptist Home Missionary Society.

Educators Spend Two Weeks in Study. Commencing July nineteenth, about fifty County School Superintendents from as many sections of the state were in attendance at a special school conducted in their interests. At the same time a large number of Vocational Teachers also took short courses to benefit them along various lines of their chosen occupation.

Social Side Not Neglected. Of lectures and entertainments, the Summer Students enjoyed a great number, all of them of unusual excellence. Many of the speakers who visited the college during the term of work, brought messages of great interest and inspiration. They included Chancellor S. B. McCormick, of the University of Pittsburgh, Rabbi Jacob Tarshish, of Yonkers, New York, who spoke on "The Twentieth Century Jew," E. F. Buehler, of the Bureau of Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., Doctor L. H. Griggs, the noted lecturer and author, who addressed the teachers in a series of talks; Doctor W. G. Chambers, Dean of the School of Education at the University of Pittsburgh, Doctor G. W. Knight, who holds the same office at the Ohio State University, and Doctor Thomas D. Finegan, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. In addition, Doctor Edwin Drls Sparks, President Emeritus of the college, occasionally spoke to the students in the Summer Session, of which he was the founder. Next which, under his presidency has grown to the proportions which it now holds. Great interest was maintained, both by the students and the town citizens in the Union Church Services, held in the open Air Theatre weekly, and which were usually addressed by visiting preachers and lecturers.

In the way of entertainments, a number of plays, motion picture performances, Armory dances and other forms of amusement were offered for the enjoyment of the students. Early in the season the Frank McIntire Shakespeare Players, of New York City, appeared very creditably several times. Shortly afterward, under the supervision and direction of Miss Ethel Sparks the "Golden Dragon" a beautiful pageant, which was presented early last spring before the regular student body, was repeated, the characters and choruses composed this time of Summer School students and teachers. Near the close of the session, the usual appearance of the Summer School Chorus, directed by C. C. Robinson, attracted a large audience to the Auditorium. The chorus offered this year was Longfellow's "Hiawatha's Farewell" set by music by Coleridge Taylor. Just before the session closed, the students in the Department of Public Speaking presented a number of short plays which were very ably performed and well received.

Aside from the social functions on the campus, numerous dances were held in the various fraternity houses about State College, and the residents of many of the rooming and boarding establishments partook of picnics, parties, and other amusements.

Industrial Engineers Study Here. The closing of the regular Summer Session did not mark the cessation of college activities. Many students remained here two weeks longer to complete and augment the work given during the six weeks' courses. Also, from August tenth to twenty-first, some forty business men attended the fifth annual summer course in Industrial Engineering offered by that department. These men included executives, industrial engineers, and others engaged in industrial occupations. No summary of the Summer Session would be complete without mention of Doctor Edwin R. Smith, who as its director was so largely responsible for its great success. Doctor Smith showed great ability in conducting the many activities making up the Summer School and it is to a great extent through his efforts that the 1920 Summer School for Teachers will be looked back upon as one of the best in its history.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT MAKES TEN NEW ADDITIONS.

In the Department of English, many additions and changes have been made since spring. More new members have been added to this section of the teaching staff and others come to fill the vacancies caused by resignations. This Department is offering many new courses this semester in Rhetoric, English and American Literature and in Public Speaking, which necessitated an increase in the faculty.

The following are the new additions in this Department: Dr. Allan L. Carter, formerly of Ohio University, a graduate of Clark University, an A. M. from Northwestern University, and a Ph. D. from the University of Pennsylvania, is Assistant Professor in English. Dr. W. M. Battenhouse, formerly of Dickinson College, is a graduate of Baldwin College, and a Ph. D. of Denver University and will be Assistant Professor of English. Miss Ruth Ellen Jackson, who holds an A. B. and A. M. from Ohio Wesleyan University where she formerly taught, is Assistant Professor of Public Speaking. William L. Werner, who has been teaching in the High School at Lebanon and for the last two years has been doing graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University. Douglas Mend, formerly an instructor in Lafayette College, is a graduate of Dickinson College and an M. A. of Columbia University. Arthur P. Deuring returns to Penn State after an absence of three years, as an instructor in English. Miss Olga M. Mayo, who has been teaching in the High School in Harrisburg, is a graduate of Dickinson College and a Graduate Student of Chicago University. Chauncey O. Riddour, a graduate of Ohio University, will be instructor in English. Mason Long, a graduate of Lebanon Valley College, who has taught at Mercersburg Academy and in Vermont, comes to State College as an instructor in English. J. Gordon Almond, Penn State '20, is instructor in English.

The Fastest Growing Store in State College

It has always been our policy to try to give the best possible SERVICE. It may have been probable that during the tremendous rush in our store that errors may have crept in. You may rest assured that those errors were unintentional. They could not be avoided, due to the fact that our stock is so large and of such a varied nature as well as the fact that we were not entirely prepared. The alterations, making our room larger, were not completed until Sept. 11 and therefore we did not have enough time to arrange our stock as it should have been.

We are always glad to make any adjustments or correct any errors made by any of our clerks.

We appreciate suggestions to improve our SERVICE.

Its Wonderful Point

The superb writing quality of the Tempoint Pen is due to the manner in which the generous iridium tip is affixed to the gold point—by having the gold fused about it—not annealed. Then the gold pen itself is hammered into steel-like hardness and durability.

The pen cannot weaken or become "sprung." The hammering process also eliminates porosity, so that the pen is not affected by harmful ink-acids.

WAHL TEMPOINT
The Perfect Pointed Pen
(Heretofore known as the Boston Safety Pen)

The famous Wahl Comb Feed insures a perfect ink-flow under all writing conditions. A wonderful air-tight chamber prevents pen from leaking or sweating in the pocket. Every point of superiority is embodied in the Tempoint Pen.

Made in both Screw Joint and Self Filling models. Many attractive styles, $2.50 up. Come see the Tempoint Pen and its equally fine writing mate, the Eversharp Pencil—always sharp, never sharpened.
