PENN BOXERS, PITT TOSSERS AND HARVARD MATMEN DEFEATED BY BLUE AND WHITE--TRACK MEN STAR

NEW ENGLAND CHAMPIONS OFFER STIFF OPPOSITION BUT LOSE IN EVERY CLASS

Before a crowd that completely filled every available inch of seating and standing room in the Armory, the Penn State wrestling team thoroughly defeated the Harvard program last Saturday afternoon by the score of 33 to 0, winning every bout of the contest. The victory for the Blue and White was by no means an easy one, despite the large score. The Crimson delegation consisted of some very good wrestlers, who put up a mighty stiff battle in almost every case before they were defeated. In many of the weights, however, they seemed to lack the endurance power that come from strict intensive training. The shortest-bout of the afternoon was that in the 125 pound class, when Captain Deane of the Nittany squad threw Stearns, of Harvard, in fifty-nine seconds, with an arm and neck hold. The visitors showed more strength in the heavier weights than they did in the light weights, and in both the 175 and heavy-weight classes the Blue and White had to put forth great efforts to achieve victory. Six of the seven bouts resulted in falls for the Penn State men, while Oehrie, in the 145-pound class had to be content with a decision after a hard battle.

The activities of the afternoon were begun with the bout in the 115 pound class between Walker of Harvard, and Watson, of Penn State. Although Walker was considerably taller than Watson, he could not keep his legs out of reach of Watson's hands, and was taken to the mat in a short time. The Blue and White grappler had a leg scissor and arm hold on his opponent, but soon let go, only to resume the hold after a short time. Walker was extremely wiry and gave Watson considerable trouble, but finally had to give in before his shorter opponent, who finished the bout with reverse chancery and croch hold, in seven minutes and forty-nine seconds. The second bout of the afternoon was the longest, taking fourteen minutes and nineteen seconds to complete. The opposing grapplers in this weight were Freedman of Harvard, and Evans of Penn State. The men looked pretty evenly matched for strength while up on their feet, and the five minute whistle had blown, before they hit the mat. In the first three minutes of the period were filled with excitement. When the pair first went down, Evans was at the disadvantage. In a short time, however, he succeeded in getting to his feet once more and when the two went down for the second time, Evans was on the top. He was aggressive in his advantage, and almost achieved a fall in the third minute. There was a misunderstanding as to how the bout was to be scored, and in settlement, the match was declared a draw, and after a minute period was decided upon. In the first three minute period, Evans was on top, the whole time, but could not throw Freedman. In the final extra period, Evans started underneath, but quickly got the advantage and threw Freedman in one minute and nineteen seconds, with a head and body hold.

The 125 pound bout was the shortest by far of the meet. In this class, Captain Deane threw Stearns, of Harvard, who is the intercollegiate champion of New England in this weight, with an arm and neck hold in the short time of fifty-nine seconds. The next bout was not so short, running through the entire nine minute period, and resulting in a decision for Oehrie of Penn State over Barker, of the Crimson team. While Oehrie was at no time in danger of being thrown, Barker proved to be a difficult man to

ALEX GRAY, FORMER GRID CAPTAIN, DIES

Prominent Alumnus Passes Away Following Operation—Was Active in Varsity Club Affairs

Alexander B. Gray, former Penn State football star and a prominent worker in the Varsity Club's project for the erection of a new track house, died at his home in Washington, Pennsylvania, early last Thursday morning as the result of spinal meningitis following an operation performed earlier in the week. The funeral was held last Sunday afternoon with two hundred persons connected with this institution in attendance. Coach Harlow and George Brown, end on last year's football team. Alex Gray was one of the greatest football men ever turned out by this institution, being a guard on the football team for four years or from 1917 until 1920, being captain of the Blue and White squad during his last year. After graduation from here in 1911 he continued to take the same large amount of interest in his Alma Mater, and was one of the most recently of raising a large part of the subscriptions to the New Track House fund, of which he was appointed chairman at the last meeting of the organization. He was a native of Washington county and after serving in the great war was elected to the position of sheriff, a post which he held at the time of his death.

"DANIEL DRUCE" TO BE STAGED TONIGHT

Devereux Players Will Present Melodramatic Farce Under Auspices of Student Organization

"Daniel Druce," a well known melodramatic farce by W. S. Gilbert, will be presented this evening at the Auditorium by the Devereux Players, a club of company of people who make a specialty of playing before critical college town audiences. They are to play here under the auspices of the Penn State Players, the efforts of this student organization being responsible for the appearance of the troupe. Clifford Devereux is far from being a stranger at Penn State. His company has presented a number of Shakespearean plays before the summer season audiences and it will also be remembered that the players appeared here in May of last year when they produced George Bernard Shaw's delightful comedy, "Arms and the Man," before a large proportionate audience of students and townspeople. In drama production, Mr. Devereux believes in an objective and suggestive background and while he studies the psychological effect of light and color in his production, he achieves the simple and avoids the distracting detail of realism. The cast of "Daniel Druce" will be practically the same as that which acted here before. Mr. Devereux is an actor of high character and possessing ability in varied lines. His work last year is sufficient proof to those who saw him that he is an impressive player. Another person who did much to make last year's play a success was Miss Zilpha Gray, the co-star. This young lady played her qualities time and again and she was the object of much favorable comment concerning the work of the players. The company comprises a slight percentage of those whom are capable of performing double roles. It was by reason of the success of "Arms and the Man" that the Devereux players were again engaged to play "Daniel Druce" at State College. The Devereux players have already been made where this same troupe of artists will appear in "The Open Air" plays during the month of March. The sale of reserved seats for the play began on Saturday evening and was repeated again last evening. All those who are desirous of witnessing this production will be able to make reservations within the lobby of the Auditorium before the show commences.

BIG DELEGATION GOING TO STUDENT CONFERENCE

Co-eds are making and selling candy, men students are giving electrical work, and one student is donating the proceeds of a passenger trip to Tyrone so that Penn State may establish a loan fund to enable students to attend the Student Volunteer Conference to be held at Lafayette College over the week end. About fifty Penn State students have already registered for the affair and this school is sure of sending its full quota of delegates. A request has been sent to those in charge to allow more students from State College to attend. Altogether, it was originally planned to have three hundred representatives from sixty colleges of New Jersey, Maryland and Eastern Pennsylvania, but from all indications four hundred delegates are likely to be there. The student loan fund is being raised so that any person who desires to attend the gathering may borrow the money for the purpose and make a return for the loan any time before his graduation. This fund is to be made permanent so that students who wish to go to future Student Volunteer Conferences may make use of it. At a meeting last Monday evening of all those students who had signified their intention of attending the conference, arrangements for the trip were made. A business manager and delegation leader were also chosen at this time and a general outline of the plans were made and discussed. The Penn State delegation will leave State College at noon on Friday and will return on Monday. All attending the conference will receive an excuse for their absence from classes.

BARRON AND ROMIG WIN PLACES IN MAIN EVENTS AT GUARANTY CLUB MEET

In one of the biggest meets of the indoor track season, held at Madison Square Garden, New York City, last Saturday night under the auspices of the Guaranty Club, Barron and Romig representing Penn State, captured first and third places in their respective events, the former winning the seventy yard high hurdles and the latter receiving third honors in the feature three hundred meter run. The meet was held by the Guaranty Club, which is composed of officials and workers in one of the largest banking institutions in the country. Nine thousand people witnessed the meet with interest.

Harold Barron was easily the star in the seventy yard high hurdles. This race was a handicap event, with Barron at scratch. He won in the remarkable time of nine and one-fifth seconds, which is almost equal to the world's record. Hulman, the Yale star, who was given a five yard advantage over Barron, finished second, while Nenak, one of the brilliant hurdle performers at the Olympic Games last summer, finished third. He had a handicap advantage of six yards over Barron. Much disappointment was cast upon this event over the fact that Thompson, of Dartmouth, did not compete as had been expected. He would have been the keenest competition would have been between Barron and the Canadian, and the race had been looked forward to for weeks by followers of the sport. However, it is hoped that the two will meet again before the indoor season closes.

The biggest feature of the entire meet was the special three thousand metre race arranged by the officials to be competed in by Gutierrez, the five thousand meter Olympic champion, and three of America's premier distance men. Gutierrez, who is an officer in the French army, is now in this country on a special trip to compete in several of the big meets. His American opponents in the race last Saturday were John Ray, of Chicago, the national one mile champion; H. H. H. Umbra, star, and Romig, of this institution, who holds the intercollegiate cross country title. Gutierrez proved to be a match for his competitors, and finished well behind the leaders, but the race was an interesting one nevertheless. At the beginning of the race Ray surged to the front and held this position for the entire distance. For

DEAN KNIGHT IS ATTENDING EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCES

Dean Margaret Knight has left for New York City to attend an important conference on vocational activities for colleges. Dean Knight will participate actively in the conference by presenting a paper on student vocational activities. Noted representatives from Smith, Vassar, Mount Holyoke, Bryn Mawr, Carnegie Tech, and many other prominent colleges are numbered among the delegates. Miss Florence Jackson of Boston, and Miss Helen Bennett of Chicago are visiting vocational advisers of national reputation who will appear at the conference. Dean Knight will spend the latter part of the week in New York City attending a conference of the Deans of Women Associations, under the auspices of the National Educational Association. Miss Knight is scheduled for participation in a round table discussion on student government. It will be her privilege to report progress and organization of the Women's Student Government Association of Penn State under the present administration.

PANTHER QUINTET LOSES RETURN CONTEST WITH NITTANY FIVE 50-23

The Penn State basketball team defeated the Pitt Panthers 50 to 23 last Saturday evening in the best played game seen here this season. The game was witnessed by the largest holiday crowd that ever jammed the Armory to witness a basketball contest, every available seat being occupied and many spectators standing to watch the thrilling game between the Lion and the Panther. Penn State started like a whirlwind and piled up fifteen points in the first nine minutes of play while the Panthers were making three tallies. This lead was kept throughout the contest except in the second half when the Pitt tossers pulled up to within six points of the Nittany five. The game was fast from start to finish and only by top-speed playing was Coach Herman's aggregation able to overwhelm the Smoky City so decisively. Killinger was high scorer of the evening, garnering 24 points during the fracas. He sent a ball through the circle while Wolfe and Haines tied for second honors capturing four field goals apiece. On the Pitt side, Jordan proved indispensable, making four shots from the floor and shooting the foul with an eight out of thirteen percentage.

Penn State Takes Lead at Start

Penn State started to score at the outset of the game. After a brief scrimmage following the initial toss-up, Killinger captured the ball and dribbling through the Panther defense slipped the sphere through the basket for the first score of the game. The next tally also belonged to Penn State, Haines shooting the basket in a similar style. On the next toss-up, the ball again went to Killinger and he again made use of his opportunity and made a third score for the Nittany combine. It was now Pitt's turn to score and they sent the ball through the circle. On the next play, the ball came to Haines again, and he repeated his first performance and shot another basket and the wild applause of the excited fans. In this half of the Penn State (Continued on last page)

NEW TUESDAY LECTURE SERIES BEGINS TONIGHT

The first of the nine free lectures which are being offered by the School of Liberal Arts will be given in Old Chapel this evening at seven o'clock when Professor F. L. Pattee will take as his subject the life of Edgar Allan Poe. The School of Liberal Arts has been making its lecture course a yearly occurrence and the course this semester promises to be equally as interesting as all of the other courses have been. The first semester course will continue to lecturers on the "Wives of the Presidents" by Dr. Sparks and it was very much appreciated by all who have attended the lectures. The first lecture in the new course includes lectures by Dr. Pattee, Miss Ruth E. Jackson, Professor E. D. Kern, "Dick" Harlow, Dean Watis and Dr. Sparks. Dr. Sparks has consented to deliver four lectures on economic questions. The lecture tonight is intended to acquaint the audience with the real Edgar Allan Poe. Mr. Poe is the most misunderstood of American writers and the general conception of the man is that he was a drunken genius, possessing but little character. This is at least the opinion maintained in America. In England he is regarded differently. Dr. Pattee will present the latest findings on Edgar Allan Poe, the man the truth of his life and his remarkable works.

OPERATIC STAR SINGS TOMORROW

Reinald Werrenrath to Appear in Auditorium as Seventh Number on Entertainment Course

Heralded as one of the greatest baritones on the concert platform today, Reinald Werrenrath, who has appeared more than five hundred times during the last few seasons both in this country and abroad, will appear in the Auditorium tomorrow evening at eight o'clock. This is the seventh number of the combined Music and Entertainment Course being given jointly by the Department of Music and the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Werrenrath's program is one of exceptional merit and equals that of any other concert singer in America. Commencing with two classics, a recital and an aria, by Handel and closing with two of Kipling's famous Barrock Ballads "Fuzzy-Wuzzy" and "Danny Deever," which have been set to music, the great baritone intermixes operatic numbers with ones of a lighter nature. His accompanist, Mr. Harry

Reinald Werrenrath

Spier, will also render two piano solos (towards the end of the program).

In polished singing and musical understanding, in charm of manner and wholesome art, he has received great praise and every honor that can come as a reward of these. His annual New York recitals are events in that great city and he is always greeted by great hosts of admirers besides appearing on the platform as a concert singer, the baritone has also made a name for himself in the leading roles of the Metropolitan Opera, and as a soloist at important musical festivals. Last summer he was presented in a series of concerts in England. This was the first time that an American artist was presented abroad under American management. In London he was greeted as a star and his recital of rare ability by the newspaper critics.

Mr. Werrenrath's career was made in America. He is a native of Brooklyn and a graduate of New York University. He first studied with his father, who was a distinguished opera singer of a generation ago. At college he held a prominent position as a church soloist and after his graduation, he became widely known throughout the East. Ever since, he has steadily risen to the foremost rank and now is a brilliant light in the musical world of the best of his type ever represented here. The recital has made over fifty records for the Victor Company and many who have admired his voice thru the medium of the phonograph will have an opportunity to see and hear him in person. Wherever Mr. Werrenrath has gone, he has aroused much favorable comment from newspapers. London dailies have pronounced him as the best singer who crossed the ocean last season and as an artist whose equals are few.

TRIALS FOR THESPIAN CAST THURSDAY NIGHT

After an interval of three years, the Thespian Club is to stage a musical comedy as its offering to the student body of Penn State. If the plans of the members of the organization materialize, the production will be one of the best of its type ever represented here. It will be a semi-original play, and the various parts of the manuscript that will be from the pens of persons at this institution rapidly were completed. The name of the comedy has not as yet been divulged by the Thespians, but the announcement is eagerly being awaited by the student body. The play will be for positions on the cast, which will comprise about fourteen people, and the chorus of some thirty persons, will be held in Old Chapel on Thursday evening of this week at eight o'clock. The cast has returned to the policy of open competition for all parts and there is a splendid opportunity offered at these trials for students with ability along this line, to make places on the list of characters for the coming production.

NITTANY GLOVE MEN VICTORIOUS IN SIX OUT OF SEVEN BOUTS

The Blue and White boxers showed their prowess for the third time this year last Friday night when they decisively defeated the University of Pennsylvania mittmen by winning six out of the seven bouts on the card. Every one of the bouts were fought in a spirited fashion and gave the largest crowd of spectators that has witnessed a fistie meet this year one thrill after another. Penn State won the bouts in the 115, 125, 135, 145, 175 pound and heavy-weight classes. The University lost as the result of one knockout in the heavy-weight class, two technical knockouts in the 135 and 175 pound divisions and three judges' decisions for the Nittany men who filled the berths in the 115, 125 and 145 pound classes. Penn's only tally was made in the 160 pound bout when Referee Rocap awarded the decision on a Beased after three rounds of hard fighting on both sides. One of the big attractions of the clash was the officiating of William H. Rocap of Lafayette. The referee was superior throughout the meet the veteran referee insisted on clean boxing and good sportsmanship and as a result won the admiration of the entire audience. Mr. Rocap was assisted by two judges both of whom have refereed meets here this season, Captain Hoffman of Mercersburg, and Mr. H. A. Bruce of Lafayette.

Kahley Wins First Bout The bout in the 115 pound class between Captain Kahley of Penn State and Benson of Penn was the curtain-raiser for the evening. The Nittany captain was under no superior to the Quaker lad but the latter took his punishment well and once or twice during the bout went on the aggressive.

When the two boxers were called to the middle of the arena they looked, from all appearances, to be well matched in physical proportions. With the exception of Benson's superior to the Quaker lad but the latter took his punishment well and once or twice during the bout went on the aggressive. (Continued on Page Four)

REHAB SHOW PLEASES TWO LARGE AUDIENCES

"Jollies of 1921" Staged by Capable Cast—War Memorial Fund Receives Big Boost

"The Jollies of 1921" as produced last Friday and Saturday evenings in the Auditorium by the Rehabilitation Club was a success in every possible way. Financially it resulted in the raising of a considerable sum of money for the purpose of erecting a War Memorial in commemoration of the seventy-three Penn State men who gave their all to the cause of righteousness in the late World War. A statement of the exact sum that will be raised by the club was a success in every possible way. Ahly led by Miss Florence King '23, the "Fenchie" chorus made the real hit of the evening. This solo and dance number, in which the Winter Garden success "Fenchie" was featured was full of clever dance movements executed to the catchy tune of this year's latest popular song. The girls in the chorus were pretty, their gowns were attractive and their dancing was cleverly accomplished.

Several features in the comedy stood out above all others. One of these was the way in which Miss Rena M. Dana '24; delighted the audience when she sang "Starlight," a beautiful melody written in waltz time, and another was the pleasing manner in which Miss Harriet Calvert '22 sang the song, "If They'll Only Play My Wedding March in Ragtime."

Credit is due Miss Ruby White and also H. Hays for their dancing. Miss White was very graceful and received an ovation from the audience when she finished her first number, "Boots." Mr. Hays with his remarkable and dancing won the admiration of everybody in attendance. The second act opened with a scene of the dining car of the Laughland Hotel. The brighter lights of this act were J. V. Dean, who acted the part of Sambo the waiter, Alcen Fell '23, who played the part of the movie actress Virginia Vandergold, and W. B. Shore who played the part of Has Ben West, a tourist. Others who acted very well in this sketch were L. H. Horns, Zena Goldstein, and William Caputo. The scenery and costuming was exceptional. To Mr. D. C. Moyer of the Joe Bren Company of Chicago, goes the credit of directing the show and putting it on the stage in a very pleasing and presentable form in the short time of two weeks.
