ROAD MAPS
A road map covering the territory surrounding State College for a radius of eighty miles has been prepared by the college and will be of value to "Dads" who plan to motor here for the Father's Day this week end.

Students whose fathers plan to motor to the college for the observance can secure copies of this map tomorrow (Wednesday) morning at the office of the college Publicity Department, 175 Old Main. By mailing it immediately it will be of great aid as a road guide. Detours will be indicated as fully as possible.

With all plans virtually completed at the present time for Penn State's next gala affair, students are looking forward to the arrival of their "dads" to participate in the Father's Day events of the coming week end. Several speakers of note have consented to be present and indications are that the Fathers who come will have a most enjoyable week end.

MELLINGER FANS FOURTEEN BATTERS

Varsity Nine Takes Advantage of Loose Play of Lebanon Valley and Wins 3 to 0

Lebanon Valley proved to be the tenth straight victim of the varsity baseball team when she fell before the superior work of the Blue and White last Saturday afternoon on New Beaver field and went down to defeat by the score of 3 to 0. The practically airtight defense of the Nittany nine and the masterful hurling of Mellinger prevented the Annville collegians from becoming dangerous at any time during the game while the loose play of the visitors in the third inning enabled Penn State to annex two runs. Mellinger established a most notable record in the game, fanning fourteen batters and allowing only one base on balls and three scattered hits. W. Wolfe, twirling for Lebanon, struck out six batters in the next minute allowed extra base hits were secured by other team for the entire nine innings although "Beas" men rapped out six singles.

Mr. Wolfe, who pitched for Lebanon Valley against Juniata last Thursday and struck out sixteen men, started the game in fine shape Saturday and threatened to repeat his previous performance at the expense of the Blue and White representatives. In the first two innings he fanned three of the hottest sluggers but in the following frame was being caught in an attempt to steal second during the turn of his team at bat, he weakened and walked Korb, the first man up. Brumbaugh, following, reached the first sack on an error by the catch base man advancing Korb to second, and then a wild pitch by the pitcher, permitted Korb to reach third and Brumbaugh to pull up on second. A passed ball in the next minute allowed Korb to cross the plate with the first run and, after Mellinger had received a base on balls, Brumbaugh trotted in for the second run when the Nittany hurler was caught between first and second and tabbed out. Meadile struck out and Killinger made the third out on first base after polling a single to center field.

SONG CONTEST PLANNED BY MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Winner to Receive One Hundred Dollars as Prize—Contest Will Close on June First

The need for a typical Penn State song has long been known and felt by the students. Several times Dean C. Robinson, head of the Music Department of the College, has made a plea for students to submit songs for consideration, but no response has been forthcoming so the Department of Music has recently decided to run a song contest, the winner of which will receive one hundred dollars as prize. The conditions governing this contest are as follows:

1. Committee of five judges (personnel to be announced later) will pass upon the merits of the various manuscripts submitted.
2. The committee will reserve the right to make no award, if in their judgment a song of sufficient merit is not submitted. They may award fifty dollars for a text only if they may award fifty dollars for the music only.
3. The contest is open to all faculty members, alumni, and students of the college. Two people may collaborate and divide the prize.
4. The music must be original and scored for voice and piano accompaniment. Care should be exercised in keeping the range within the scope of normal voices. (Do not blow trouble clock staff) to B (fourth space of staff, treble clef). Adaptations of hymns, national airs, or other melodies are not encouraged.
5. The song should breathe the spirit of the dignity and of the high purpose of the college, its noblest traditions, and its place in our hearts and lives, and should be suitable for singing by a large chorus at the inaugural of the President of the college. The text should be limited to three stanzas, or three stanzas and a refrain.
6. The contest will close Wednesday, June first, at noon and no manuscripts will be accepted after that time.
7. All manuscripts should be clearly written, with the full name of the author and his address. All manuscripts should be addressed to Secretary of Song Contest, Department of Music, State College, Pa.

MONEY NEEDED TO ERECT MEMORIAL

Every Student Canvass Will Be Started for Soliciting Contributions

DEDICATED TO WAR HEROES
Tablet Will Be Placed in Auditorium until New Memorial Building is Provided

The realization of a true memorial for the sons of Penn State who sacrificed their lives in the interest of their country is the object of this college as the War Memorial Campaign starts tomorrow. At no time in the history of the institution have the students been given such an unusual opportunity to show their appreciation for the intense loyalty of Penn State men. During the war, many campaigns have been started at the college and always the students have demonstrated their willingness to support the various causes. But the results of these campaigns had no vital relation to the cause for the success of the undertaking did not rely wholly upon the generosity of the students. However, this week's campaign is entirely different for the size and quality of the bronze tablet depends directly upon the outcome of the campaign. The design for the memorial has been decided upon and all that now remains to be done is to raise a sufficient amount of money to insure a tablet of which every Penn State student can point to with pride when visitors and friends of the college view this visible mark of respect. As soon as the amount of the fund is set, the design of the engraving companies of the east will be asked to submit bids on the cost of this tablet. The final outcome of the campaign will have a direct bearing on the grandeur of the memorial for the larger the amount is, that is raised, the larger will be the tablet. When the contract has been awarded, work will immediately proceed on the engraving so that the memorial will be erected before June if the finances warrant speedy action. A committee, consisting of R. R. Barker '22 and E. H. Leuschner '21, toward the fund and will have given material assistance to the committee in charge.

War Memorial to Cost Fifteen Hundred Dollars.
It is the opinion of the Student Council and of the committee that a tablet of this size and quality would be fifty hundred dollars. No tablet of small size and inferior quality should be considered as this is an issue that should not suffer belittlement in any manner. Penn State men did not consider the cost when they left for the battle front but considered it their duty to give aid in their power to give. It cannot be denied that it is the duty of each one in the college to help make the memorial what it should be and to this end they are asked by the committee to give aid in their power to give.

STRONG TEAMS TO GO TO PENN RELAYS

Penn State Enters Four Relay Teams and a Number of Individual Stars

Four relay teams and a number of individual stars have been chosen by Coach Martin in the Penn Relays which will take place this coming Friday and Saturday at Philadelphia. This spring the relays promise to be bigger and better than ever and although the competition will undoubtedly be more keen this year than in the past, Penn State's chances for winning quite a few honors are apparently favorable. The Blue and White has a number of real big men going into the meet and because of the strength of their competitors, they will have to be at their best to win. The Nittany team to come thru with quite a few championships.

The four mile relay team which Coach Martin is sending to Philadelphia consists of Romig, Capt. Demming, Newcomb and Cooper. These men are all good milers and should show their heels to quite a number of their opponents, the most formidable of which are Wisconsin, Yale, Princeton, and Cornell. The mile relay team is composed of Cooper, Demming, Hill, Graham, and Johnson, who will run the mile and the half, and will act as anchor man and run the quarter. Penn State's strongest rivals in this event appear to be Yale and Syracuse.

CO-EDS CONTRIBUTE TO CURIE RADIUM FUND

The girls of Penn State have recently voted to contribute to a five dollar fund to the Marie Curie Radium Fund which American women have undertaken to raise. Previous to the war, Mme Curie was the greatest of women scientists of this age and many famous experiments in her laboratories in France in an endeavor to discover a cure for cancer through the use of radium. During the war, she gave up her own health to supply the metal for the use of surgeons in the war hospitals and thus she has been forced to cease her experimental investigations. American women have undertaken to raise ninety thousand dollars which will be used to purchase one gram of this rarest of metals.

MASS MEETING CALLED TO DISCUSS HONOR SYSTEM

Ample Discussion Will Place Situation Before Student Body Tomorrow Night

HONOR COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS CHANGE

SENIOR CLASS TO ENDOW PENN STATE

Two Weeks Campaign to Make Every Graduate a Contributor Started Monday

To raise an endowment fund of at least one hundred thousand dollars for Penn State as a gift from the present senior class is the aim of the committee in charge, now conducting a thorough canvass of all 1921 students following a meeting of the selling committees of over forty men from the class last evening. The campaign for funds for the Nittany Institution was opened to last for two weeks, until Saturday, May the seventh. The committee in charge of the campaign, consisting of F. Hazelwood, chairman, E. J. Stevenson and C. J. Spangler, are expecting the hearty support of every senior to take this opportunity to show his appreciation of what the college has done for him. R. Williams has been selected as sales manager for the campaign, it being that no member of the class will be missed.

Every senior is being urged to insure himself on a twenty payment, twenty year endowment policy to either ten or twenty or five hundred dollars. At the end of twenty years, this money and the interest that has accumulated will automatically be turned over to the college as a gift from the class of 1921. The Equitable Life Insurance Co. of New York is the firm which has been selected to insure the students of this year's graduating class. The endowment fund idea is comparatively new at Penn State, as the members of the Senior Council have undertaken to endow the school in this way. It raised the creditable sum of sixty-five thousand dollars by the same method which has been adopted by the present Seniors. With about four hundred and thirty-five students in the 1921 class, the committee expects, by means of a thorough canvass, to raise at least one hundred thousand dollars. To do this it cast three hundred members of the class must pledge themselves to the fund.

WOMEN OF AMERICA TO RAISE NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS—MME CURIE ON WAY TO AMERICA

The girls of Penn State have recently voted to contribute to a five dollar fund to the Marie Curie Radium Fund which American women have undertaken to raise. Previous to the war, Mme Curie was the greatest of women scientists of this age and many famous experiments in her laboratories in France in an endeavor to discover a cure for cancer through the use of radium. During the war, she gave up her own health to supply the metal for the use of surgeons in the war hospitals and thus she has been forced to cease her experimental investigations. American women have undertaken to raise ninety thousand dollars which will be used to purchase one gram of this rarest of metals.

AGRI. EXTENSION DEPT. CONDUCTS MILK CAMPAIGN

The Home Economics Division of the Agriculture Extension Department has just terminated an extensive four day campaign in Altoona and vicinity on "Milk for Health," bringing before the people the utmost importance and value of milk as a food. A month previous to the opening of this campaign, contests in poster making and essays on "The Food Value of Milk," were conducted in the schools of the city, prizes being awarded. Ten Home Economics workers presented the problem of "Milk for Health" to the children, adults and to the civic and social organizations in Altoona and Juniata. In this summer campaign in Altoona and vicinity, one thousand adults were reached. Mr. Bruce Dunlap, County Agent, was instrumental in starting the successful campaign of which Miss MacDonald, head of the Home Economics Department, had charge.
