AMENDMENT TO HONOR SYSTEM REQUIRED NOW

Senior Believes Students Should Propose Changes for Betterment of Present System

State College, Pa. April 25, 1921
Editor COLLEGIAN
Dear Sir—

Now that it is all over, where are we? Just where we started and no farther. Are we going to pass upon the Honor System as it now stands and say it's all right? The Honor System can be all right, as it is in many institutions, a real spirit of honor among the students, if the students will actually feel a spirit of honor and quit stalling their work from other fellows or from sources not available to all. If the Honor System is to operate every student must get behind it and be honest.

The sentiment expressed in the vote shows that there are many men opposed to the present Honor System and also an equally large number opposed to the present Honor System but favoring some changes. The sentiment of the mass meeting last Wednesday evening was that the Honor System should be changed but that the amendments offered were either too radical or too inclusive. In short the amendments offered seemed not to please a certain element about the college. Now is the chance for that element to bring forth some constructive ideas whereby the Penn State Honor Spirit, as it might better be called, could be materially strengthened. Let those men who desired a different set of amendments now get together and draw up suggestions and present them to the Honor Committee. Suggestions in the form of a letter signed by a number of representative students is sure to be respected by the Honor Committee and given its serious consideration.

There are just about three alternatives faculty intervention, which is almost sure to come, student sentiment to rectify a genuine Penn State Honor Spirit, or some suggestions immediately from the student body to make the present system operative. The first alternative would be desirable in every respect an admission to the state and nation that Penn State men are incapable of good judgment. The second alternative would be ideal, but from past experience seems almost impossible. The last appears to be the one most likely to secure the desired results.

It's up to us as students to see that something is done. Which will it be? Time and tide wait for no man, neither will the Penn State Faculty in deciding this most important matter. Let's have some progressive constructive amendments at once and another mass meeting to discuss them.
Yours for a real Penn State Honor Spirit,
H. M. Sheffer '21

CARNEGIE TECH TO PLAY VARSITY NINE

Ten Veterans in Tech Squad
Carnegie Tech was fortunate this year in having a large number of veterans on hand from last season and they were able to start its schedule with a strong aggregation. McGaw, Wolfe, and Lushy are trailers of the first order who appeared in the Skibo line-up last year and will undoubtedly make a good record before June, while Camp is a recent addition to the pitching staff and may be used in the box against the Nittany nine. He has proved very effective in every game he has pitched this season. McGaw has been the Plaid's main gun for the last three years, but suffered a slump against West Virginia. Irwin served behind the bat all last season and R. Daugherty, J. Doughty, D. Shanks, Lynn, Dinkin, and Godden complete the list of veterans on the team. The probable line-up in tomorrow's contest will be: Irwin—catcher, R. Daugherty—first, J. Doughty—second, D. Shanks—third, Lynn or Dinkin—shortstop, Godden—left field, Dinkin or Robertson—center field, and Robertson, Camp, or McGaw right field.

But it has been pitting the varsity nine against both the seniors and the Freshman team in the past three weeks and consequently improvement has appeared in the offense and the defense of the team in recent games. Although the hitting of the men was not exactly as great as it might have been in the contest last Saturday, it was usually opposite and came when most needed. Wolfe, pitching for Lebanon Valley, had more control than the average college hurler, so that the Nittany representatives were not entirely to blame for their comparatively weak hitting. They have been bringing the ball on the nose in practice though, and should secure some good wallops Saturday. The same line-up will appear as in the last game with the exception of the pitcher. Thomas is due to hurl but his starting in the game is uncertain, since Coach Bezdok does not pick the pitcher until a few minutes before the game.

SENIOR ENDOWMENT FUND BEING RAISED

Co. of New York are being sold by the committee. To raise the minimum of one hundred thousand dollars, at least three hundred seniors must insure themselves in this way. The salesmen are confident that they will experience no difficulties in raising the desired sum and even in surpassing it. The endowment fund idea is familiar to and favored by most of the Seniors and they should not hesitate in subscribing to it. The graduating class of last year introduced this new form of presenting their tribute to Penn State. That group of students successfully raised sixty-five thousand graduate is earning a comparatively large salary. This method was thought to be the best that could be employed, as every member of the class can afford to give their money at a later date when many of them would be unable to do it now in such large quantities.

Senior Co-eds Included
Although no systematic campaign has been launched among the Senior women students to contribute to the endowment fund, the salesmen will not hesitate to receive subscriptions from them. Co-eds of the 1921 class will undoubtedly wish to be included in the gift which the class bearing their initials gives to the college and they may take one of the twenty payment insurance policies the same as the men students.

FRESH SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS JUNIORS

The Fresh soccer team defeated the Juniors by a score of 2-1 in the first of the interclass games which was played on the Armory field, Wednesday evening. The game was closely contested but finally ended with the Fresh as victors.

A great deal of interest in soccer has been evident this spring, and as a result the members of the class teams have been working hard for quite some time. In view of this fact, all of the games which have been scheduled promise to be interesting and full of class spirit.

NEWS FROM OTHER COLLEGES

MICHIGAN AG.—The Home Economics Department has recently revised its course to meet the demand for trained women in many lines of work.

The Finest White Shirt

WITHOUT doubt Cloud Cloth is the finest white shirt we ever sold. It is made of the smallest size, lightest weight yarns imaginable, woven so closely that even a boy scout's eye has trouble detecting the threads. It's the type of cloth that England used to send East Indies lovers of fine fabrics for their turbans. Now they send it to America for Eagle Shirts.

Of course, it looks "different." It's very smooth and very white—very distinguished looking. Had we realized how exceptional Eagle Shirts of Cloud Cloth would be, we would have tripled our order, already large.
