MASS MEETING IN EVENING

One Hundred and Fifty Newspapermen Expected to Respond to Invitations

ROOMS DESIRED
Indications are that a number of editors will bring their wives to State College for the celebration this week end. The Faculty Department would appreciate a list of rooms in the town that can be rented for them on Friday and Saturday nights. Will the Freshmen rooming in private residences in the borough please find out if any rooms will be available this week end at their house and report immediately at 175 Old Main?

Acceptances of invitations to attend the Editors and Publishers' Holiday here next Friday are being received by the Faculty Department, and indicate that there will probably be an attendance of from one hundred to one hundred and fifty. This estimate is placed on returns from only sixty out of 700 editors invited, and is running at about a twenty-five per cent acceptance, exceeding expectations. Full returns are expected by Wednesday evening, cards for acceptance having been mailed from here last Saturday.

The success of the gathering depends greatly upon the manner in which the students assist with the entertainment of the week end guest. The editors will be entertained by the University Club at a get-together smoker on Friday night, and the college will have charge of a campus tour on Saturday morning. At all other times students will be called upon to entertain the visitors, take them to see the various attractions that will be offered, and in general show them a good time.

The editors will begin to arrive on Friday afternoon. Many will stop to visit Penn's Cave on the way here, by auto, and many evenings a large majority will be here. Those who will be registered upon arrival at 175 Old Main, the office of the news service, and be assigned there to be entertained in the various fraternities and houses. Those students who are personally acquainted with editors who they know are coming, and desire to entertain them over the week-end should advise the Faculty Department to this effect at once.

A good part of the editors who are coming have never attended a college, and one of the big attractions for them will be the general college life and its various phases. For this reason the Student Council decided to stage the annual Freshman-Sophomore tie-up scrap next Saturday afternoon. Editors have heard much about college scraps, but many have never seen one before so (Continued on last page)

FRESHMAN NINE WILL HAVE STRENUOUS WEEK

Yearlings Must Face Kiski and Pitt Freshmen-Change is Made in Former Line-up

After having been idle for almost three weeks since their game with Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, the Freshman baseball men will get into action once more this week when they meet the crack Kiski and Pitt Freshmen nines on Thursday and Saturday afternoons respectively. These two games will undoubtedly prove to be the hardest ones that the yearlings will have this season and coming as they do almost together will test the Nittany nine to the utmost. Bellefonte Academy will oppose the Freshmen on the twenty-third of last month and would have provided plenty of opposition, but rainy weather at the time prevented the contest and it was postponed to May twenty-eighth. Because of the postponement of the Bellefonte game, Coach Kleiser has not had much opportunity to see what the Freshman nine will do under fire, except in short encounters with the hard-core varsity men and thus has been considerably hampered. He has worked hard though to remedy the faults that appeared in the Baltimore game and as a result the yearlings should exhibit a much better brand of ball in the coming contests. Their hitting for one thing will be heavier while considerable improvement should be evident in their defensive work. Entertaining the pitching staff of the Freshman team is rather weak and this circumstance gives the opposing nines a good handicap. There are several hurlers who give promise of developing into fast twirlers before the season is over but they can still stand considerable grooming and only Fitzer, Kelly and Dambly are in shape to pitch now.

One or two new players will probably appear in the line-up in the Kiski and Pitt games. Russell will replace Weathers in center field, since he is a hard slugger and exceedingly fast, and Rupp will catch in area wall, while Runnetto may garden a place of Hynes. Runnetto is the heavier hitter of the two men but Hynes plays a steeper game and the contest may give him the call over Runnetto. The other men on the team will be Loeffler, first, Reed, (Continued on last page)

PLAYERS TO REPEAT SHOW FOR 'Y' BENEFIT

Dramatic Organization Will Produce "Seven Keys to Baldpate" Friday Evening

As a benefit for the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. the Penn State Players will re-appear this coming Friday night in the Auditorium at eight-fifteen o'clock in George M. Cohan's melodramatic farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Those who saw the first presentation of this play in February will well remember that the performance was the best that the Players have given since their organization. Those who did not see the first performance missed an opportunity of seeing Penn State dramatic work at its best and are fortunate in having this second opportunity on Friday evening.

The cast in Friday night's performance will remain the same as the original, which, by the way, acted so admirably in the Auditorium last February and also did splendid work at York Penna. on the twenty-second of April. The leading figure of the cast, it will be remembered, is B. W. Knapp '21, who plays the part of William Halliwell Meigs, a "novelist" about him. The whole production seems to center Mr. Knapp plays the part like a professional. He makes most of the speeches of the show and does most of a thing. Four young ladies, co-ed, also add greatly to the success of the play. These are the Misses Mumford, Ruth, Marjorie and Sharplee. Miss Mumford takes the part of a female crook and certainly knows how to put a dramatic expression into her actions. Miss Ruth interprets the part of a charming merry widow, while Miss Sharplee takes the role of a cub reporter, and Miss Marjorie takes the part of the wife of the character. Then too, the work of W. C. Shultz, who takes the part of Peter the Hermit, should not be overlooked.

The success of all the players contributed greatly to the success of (Continued on last page)

FRATERNITIES READY FOR BIG TRACK MEET

Annual Clash Will Take Place This Saturday-Entries Must Be in Tonight

A large amount of interest has been aroused in fraternity circles about the college concerning the Interfraternity Track Meet which will be staged on New Beaver Field next Saturday afternoon, May seventh. Last year almost thirty fraternities entered the meet and this year interest seems to be even greater than last year, with the result that there will be some very keen competition between the various Greek letter societies next Saturday.

At a meeting of the managers of the various fraternity track teams, which was held last Thursday, the following rules were drawn up:

1. All men who at any time made one point in a varsity and a Freshman relay race at the Penn State are barred from participation.
2. There can be no more than two entries from each fraternity in each field and track events.
3. The scores will be counted as follows—(5, 3, 2, 1) for the first four places respectively.
4. At least five fraternities must be represented in an event, or that particular event will be called off.
5. All entries must be in the office of the Director of Athletics by tonight.

The various events which will take place are the 100 yard dash, the 200 yard dash, the quarter mile race, the 120 yard high hurdles, the 220 yard low hurdles, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, hammer throw, shot put, discus throw, javelin throw, and in addition to these events which promises to be one of the most interesting on the program namely, the interfraternity half mile relay, was added. It has been decided to list of events that usually take place in a track carnival in order to add a little more interest to the meet.

MANY FATHERS ATTEND HUGE MASS MEETING

Much Enthusiasm Exhibited at Gathering where "Prexy" welcomes Visiting Fathers

Every available inch of space in the Auditorium was in use when fathers and students crowded to the mass meeting Saturday evening held in honor of the visiting dads on the first Fathers Day at State College. Penn State split-run high and the guests received a real insight into college methods of installing pep into the students. Live and short speeches to the point by President John M. Thomas, Auditor General C. A. Snyder, Mr. Haines and Coach Hugo Bezdek gave those present something to think about while the variety quartet, college songs and cheers by all added to the success of the affair.

Following a selection by the cadet band which served well for a curtain raiser, E. M. Allen '21, president of the Student Council, took charge of the meeting and welcomed the fathers officially for the student body. He then introduced Dr. John M. Thomas, Penn State's now "Prexy" who greeted the dads for the college and then convinced them in a short time of the great position of the college.

VARSITY BATSMEN OVERWHELM PLAID

Heavy Slugging and Many Errors Cause 18 to 0 Defeat for Carnegie Tech Nine

The varsity diamond men won their eleventh straight game last Saturday afternoon by snowing Carnegie Tech under with an avalanche of runs and emerging on the long end of an 18 to 0 score. Errors, wild pitches, and poor defensive work on the part of the Plaid team contributed largely to the Blue and White scoring and coupled with the heavy slugging of the Nittany representatives provided a nice coating of whitewash for the visitors. Until the seventh inning, Penn State was held to zero runs but with the opening of the inning Tech reached first on a passed ball, and the smoke had cleared away after the third out, nine talks had been registered for the Blue and White "Hinky" Haines' home run with two on base was the feature of the inning. Thomas pitched a cool and steady game for the Nittany aggregation allowing only one man to reach the third cushion and yielding only two hits and one base on balls. He struck out seven men. Cappe, on the other hand, twirling for Tech, was yanked from the box in the seventh inning after giving nine hits and ten walks, who took his place, was in turn replaced by Lusby in the next frame. None of the Plaid hurlers appeared to be very effective against "Bez" men.

Nine Inns Secured In the Seventh. The lucky seventh proved to be the inning for the Blue and White. Ullery, leading off, struck out but reached first when the catcher dropped the ball and took second on Haines' grounder to the Tech shortstop, who held the borschido too long to catch either runner. Lightner forced out Haines at second in the next play, and then a muff on Koehler's fly to center field scored Ullery, while a second error by the Plaid shortstop permitted another run to reach the field. Singles in rapid succession by Brumbaugh and Thomas added two runs to the total and Mearkle, securing a base on balls, went to second and advanced the eighth runner. The Carnegie team third baseman bungled Killinger's drive. Brumbaugh and Thomas scored in the meantime. Ullery, in his second time at bat in the inning, raised a sacrifice fly and after Captain Haines had swatted out a circuit clout, bringing in both Mearkle and "Killy", and Lightner had tapped out a single, Koehler, specifically, ended the scoring by hitting for the first time.

Not content with fourteen runs, the Nittany diamond men rolled up four more in the eighth frame, although Lusby was rushed in to relieve Weles, the Plaid pitcher. The Carnegie team made two additional errors in this inning, allowing one run to come in, while solid cracks by Brumbaugh, Mearkle, and Haines and a walk issued to Killinger had much to do with the extra runs scored. Brumbaugh, Thomas, Mearkle, and Killinger contributed the tallies.

SENIOR ENDOWMENT NEEDS SUPPORT

Swimming Pool May be Constructed as Result of Campaign by Graduating Class

A swimming pool for Penn State is a dream of many years which may become a reality through the means of the Senior endowment fund now being raised. This proposal is being considered by the college officers and new graduates their approval and also the result of the campaign which started last week and closes this Saturday. The seniors have been slow in subscribing to the fund up to this time, and this useful work to which their money may be put should greatly increase the number of endowers from the class.

The officials and students here have for some time realized that the Nittany school greatly needs a swimming pool. A tank for aquatic sports would be a great addition to the college and, for this reason, the Senior class endowment fund committee is considering this method of having a fitting memorial from the 1921 students to Penn State.

It has been estimated that the construction of a swimming pool to fill the requirements of the Blue and White students would cost from fifty to seventy thousand dollars. This pool would be built on a large scale to accommodate the present student body and would also be budgeted for expansion to care for the future growth of the college up to the present time no definite plans have been formed and its location and the details of construction have not been considered. Coach Hugo Bezdek is one of the main boosters of the idea and he should be greatly influential in making the swimming tank a reality.

Would Borrow Money
As the method the seniors are using in the event of a successful campaign, the State College officials would borrow the money, using the fund as a security should it be decided to construct the swimming pool. In this way, there would be no long delay and the senior class would not have to wait twenty years to see their money which they subscribe being put to some use for lack of it is definitely decided to endow the college in this manner, no time would be lost in the construction of the pool.

Thus far members of the 1921 class have been slow in subscribing to the endowment fund. Although the officials reports have been made by the sales committee up to the present time it is known that the campaign is running far behind the pace. It should be taking to reach the minimum goal which has been set at one hundred thousand dollars.

With the new idea of using the money for a fixed purpose which will undoubtedly meet with the approval of those being canvassed, it is expected that the fund will swell rapidly. The selling committee has been busy since the opening of the drive on Monday and the twenty-fifth meeting of members of the Senior class and urging them to insure themselves with either a three hundred or five hundred dollar policy. With the drive coming to a close this Saturday, the salesmen are renewing their efforts and are hoping for better results during the last few days of the campaign.

The committee in charge will get together with the selling force early this week to learn exactly how much has been accomplished and to make final plans for the closing drive. The territory will be redistributed and the committee will see that every Senior has had the opportunity to contribute to the endowment fund.

ANNUAL TIE-UP SCRAP WILL OCCUR SATURDAY

Underclassmen Will Strive for Class Honors-Visiting Newspapermen to Attend Scrap

The visiting editors to Penn State on May seventh will have an opportunity to witness a class scrap, which in all probability is new to most of them, the Freshman-Sophomore class scrap. This will be a lively exhibition of old class rivalry, since the Sophomores are anxious to punish the Fresh for the defeat which they suffered at the Freshman's hands in the tug-of-war. The Fresh are just as anxious however to retain their supremacy next Saturday.

The tie-up scrap will be held next Saturday on Old Beaver Field. Previous to this tie-up, the Sophomores will gather in Old Chapel as usual, the Freshmen in the Stock Pavilion. All Freshmen and Sophomores are expected to report and take part in the scrap unless prevented by participation in some sport at that time. The scrap will be regulated strictly according to the rules adopted for the same, and which may be referred to in the Freshman Blue.

The committee assisting in the carrying out of the plan will consist of the following men: Beck, Rauch, DeTar, Hess, Williams, Baer, Hills, McCollum, Mowrer, Leuschner, Brown, Kahley, Denis, Elmer, Houston, Burnett, Cooper, Stark, Myers, Swedler, Smith, Ritten, Romig, Demming and Way.

- Rules of the Scrap
1. There shall be six periods of five minutes each.
 2. Each class shall be represented by fifty members in each period.
 3. Rubber soled shoes shall be worn by all members.
 4. Any man detected in slugging shall forfeit two points from the score of his respective class.
 5. Sophomores to meet in Old Chapel, Freshmen in the Stock Pavilion.

LACROSSE MEN READY FOR SOUTHERN JAUNT

Games With University of Maryland and Navy To Be Played This Week end.

The annual southern trip for the Nittany Blue and White will begin next Thursday when the varsity squad, Manager Jennings, and Coach "Doc" Lewis leave for the college for the University of Maryland. The first game of the trip will be played on Friday with the University of Maryland lacrosse team as opponents. As this is also the first game of the 1921 season, the team will serve as a basis of comparison for the Navy game and will also show the mettle of "Doc" Lewis' proteges. On the following day, the Navy combination will attempt to duplicate the success of the previous season by conquering the Blue and White twelve with an overwhelming score.

The Navy has a wonderful aggregation of stars as the scores of the various games which they have played so far this year attest. They have been victorious in every one of their intercollegiate games by one-sided margins, and their scores have all been over eleven points and in no game their opponents have been able to make thirteen points while the Nittany team were unable to gain a single tally.

Coach "Doc" Lewis and Manager Jennings are of the opinion that the Middle will not have such an easy time this year for the Penn State line-up is of a formidable nature. Listed in the probable cast are a number of former varsity football men and lacrosse stars of former seasons. The men who will probably make the trip are: H. L. Leuchter '21, Michael, M. J. Miller '21, B. C. Jones '20, P. W. Griffiths '21, P. W. Gladding '21, E. S. Farley '21, A. H. Croup '21, L. F. Rothrock '21, L. G. Brown '22, D. S. Yocum '22, P. S. Wilson '21, D. Hoffman '22, and C. R. Dieler '23.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF CHESS CLUB WEDNESDAY

A meeting of the Chess Club will be held on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in 314 Old Main. It is urged that every one be present as the question of making application for membership in the Intercollegiate Chess League will be brought up. All men interested in the Chess Club Tournament, are requested to play off their games immediately so that the men who are to oppose New York University may be chosen.

STUDENT ARCHITECTS TO PLAN MEMORIAL SETTING

The competition committee of the Scarab, Architectural Fraternity proposes as subject of this competition, "A setting for a bronze memorial tablet." Students of all four classes in the Architectural School are eligible to compete for the money prize which will be awarded the winning design.

CLASS OF 1910 MEETS TO PLAN GET-TOGETHER

A meeting was held by the class of '10 in room 14, of Liberal Arts, in order to make plans for a dance or a smoker. A committee has been appointed to work this matter up. A dance will be held if it can be arranged and if it cannot, then a smoker will be staged. There are some fifty members of this class still in college, and the attendance at the meeting was rather small so all the members of the class were urged to come out and get behind this movement with some of the old class spirit.

MITTANY TRACKMEN OUTRIN AT RELAYS

Blue and White Runners Annex One Second, Three Thirds and a Fourth

SEVERAL RECORDS BROKEN

Freshman Relay Team Nosed out at Tape-Barron and Way Win Places

Despite unfavorable track conditions, Penn State's relay teams made a praise worthy showing in the premier track meet of the year, the University of Pennsylvania's relay carnival, which was held last Friday and Saturday on Franklin Field. In view of the fact that the Blue and White did not score any firsts, it may seem that the Nittany aggregation was not up to the standard which Penn State is accustomed to set in the relay races. Such, however, is not the case, for if records are compared it will be found that in some cases the time in which this year's Blue and White representatives finished was over better than in years when Penn State won the championship in those events.

The class of athletes which completed last year's Penn State won the Intercollegiate Distants, Middle, Championship of America. The team which represented the Blue and White this year ran even a faster race than last year's champions, bending the old record by eleven seconds and at that receiving only fifth place, which shows that the teams which represented Illinois, Ames (Iowa), Penn, and College, which finished in the order named, were exceptionally strong. The Blue and White started off in the distance medley by running the quarter in 51 1-5 seconds. Elgerston followed and ran the half mile in 1 minute, 50 seconds. Captain Demming then took the baton and stepped off three-quarters of a mile in the fast time of 3 minutes, 9 seconds. Romig then followed and ran the mile in 4 minutes, 27 3-5 seconds. The race was run on Friday afternoon before a crowd of 20,000 spectators who watched the athletes through a constant misty sprinkle of rain.

As far as the weather goes, Saturday proved to be even worse than Friday. However, "Charley" Way started off brilliantly in the broad jump, but was unable to catch up to Gordin of Harvard, who won the event by jumping 23 feet 3 inches. C. C. Cowley of Yale, who leaped 22 feet 10 inches, Way finished third with a jump of 22 feet 3 1-2 inches.

In the hurdles, Barron, the American Champion, again failed to stop Thompson of Dartmouth. In the pole vault, Knuffman came in second in his heat, while Barron finished first in his heat. Knuffman however did not come thru the semi-finals. In the finals, Thompson, the Olympic hurdler, champion was pressed to the tape by Wright of Nebraska and Davron of Penn State. The latter men finished in second and third places respectively in the Harvard meet, Barron did not run and Knuffman was high in fifteen seconds that the track at Franklin Field was very heavy and consequently held up the speed of the runners Thompson, who (Continued on last page)

CAST CHOSEN FOR PLAYERS JUNE SHOW

To Be Given in Open Air Theatre as Part of Commencement Activities

As the result of trials held in the past three weeks for parts in "A Thousand Years Ago," a musical by Percy Mackaye which the Penn State Players will produce in the outdoor theatre on Friday Evening, June tenth, the following persons were chosen for the cast:

- | | |

- The background of the play is fanciful, old China where "Romance still goes unquenching serenely with dragons, magicians, clowns, wizards, and heroes." It is a story of yesterday but Mackaye's cunning has caught the spirit and traditions of a thousand years ago and made them for us into a story of today.

Turandot, the lovely Princess of Pekin, falls in love with a beggar to her love secret and sacred for the choice of her heart. A withered rose, a ring, a feather, and a crown of lovelessness was all that he had of her, and she a wallet, a beggar's wallet, worn old and tattered but next to her heart, the glow of his smile had there kindled. But in China, even as it is in this age, Princesses were not for beggars, but then too, it was that Romance still went unquenching and lended its charm to Turandot. And so is the story—at Oriental extravagance, rollicking in all the charms and mystery east of the rising sun.

The cast is particularly well chosen and each character is indeed fitted into the role he will play. Romantics are in progress every night under the personal supervision of Mr. Arthur C. Clopp, Director of the Penn State Players, and there is no doubt that "A Thousand Years Ago" will be the most pretentious production yet offered by the Players.
