EDITORIAL

Let's spread the real truth about Penn State. Even in Pennsylvania, among the very people who should be deeply interested in the welfare and progress of the institution, we are known as a "copy college" a little school in the wilds of the Seven Mountains that does little but produce good football teams and turn out a bunch of roughnecks with an imitation college education.

That sounds a little far-fetched, but ask anyone of the present student body who comes from some distance away, what they expected to find here when they started. Comparatively few people really know of the size of the college, of its needs, or of the work it is doing. Many people even confuse it with the University of Pennsylvania. When they heard that Penn State was asking for an appropriation of six millions of dollars from the last Legislature, if they heard of it at all, there was an immediate protest to the local representatives.

The only way to remedy the present condition is to spread the facts about the college. Tell them of the size of it, the number of students that are being educated every year, the buildings that are absolutely necessary if the work is to continue, the number of faculty members that are being taken from us each year by offers of higher salaries, and last but not most important, of the number of our finest young men and women, some of whom have no other opportunity for obtaining a higher education, who are being turned away each year. The news that 1300 were refused admittance to last year's freshmen class, and that there will be only 800 in next years, should wake up almost anybody interested in the future of the state.

The present student body made up of teachers from all over the state have a wonderful opportunity to copy the college for the benefit they are reaping from the Penn State Summer Session. No one is in a better position to reach the people who should know about the school than the teachers. In Parent-Teacher Association meetings, school board meetings, and any other get-togethers that may arise

Remember what you owe Penn State

ALPHA ZETA NOTES

On Saturday evening, July 18th, a very pretty mock wedding took place at the Alpha Zeta fraternity house in which Miss Pearl Button and Mr. Eeon O'Neil were united in friendship. Miss Betty Andrews acted as bride and Miss Jessie McWilliams as the groom. Attending Miss Andrews were Miss Anne Meehan as maid of honor, Miss Marguerite Hassler as flower girl, Miss Anne Rittenour as ring bearer, and the Misses: Hana Nakayama, Catherine Ritter, Madeline Condit and Anne E. King as bridesmaids. The best man was Miss Florence Seaton and the ushers were the Misses: Blanche Steele, Emma Shaver, Mary Sullivan and May Noel.

The bride was given in marriage by her pretended father, May Raymond Culbertson and Miss Julie Strait, who officiating minister. The bridal party received the guests on the south veranda, where showers of blessings and happiness were bestowed on the bridal pair. Refreshments were served and dancing followed.

On Monday, July 18th, the Alpha Zeta was one of the three groups who competed in the Musical Contest conducted by the Department of Music, which took place at the Auditorium during the Assembly period. Representative, the Misses Jesse McWilliams, Elizabeth Fursel, Beatrice Bastian, Anne Myers, Ada Dietrich and May Noel, and Messrs Jim Connel, Ray Culbertson, Dick Schwartz, Clarence Davenport. They were accompanied by Miss Dorothy Reinhold.

Miss Clara Retter met with a very painful accident last Thursday afternoon while horseback riding. Owing to the breaking of the stirrup, she was thrown from the horse, receiving a badly sprained shoulder and wrist. She is much improved at the present writing.

Cecil Reads brother visited him over the week end. Miss Florence Wheeler's brother visited her over Sunday. They visited Penn's Cave with a party of friends.

Odds and Ends

The Borough Fathers insist upon the Collegian adopting simplified spelling. To wit: The "No Parkin'" sign in front of the Music Room.

Have you noticed the Dancing Class in the Army attracts the Regular Session Critics?

Likewise observe the number of "female steered" "empty-in-the-tonneau" vehicles which traverse our chief avenue.

By the way, who's your pennant choice?

It's a wild Summer Session that requires two State Policemen.

If I got paid for this stuff, it wouldn't be here.

Judging from the number of visits paid to Ye Ed, I would say that this office bids fair to outrival New Beaver on a cloudy night.

Hot? You should pay a visit to our Den of Duty.

Another mystery. Our star reporter has just heard of a girl's baseball league that Doc Lewis is running. Doc won't put out any information as he says the girls don't want any publicity but there are going to be two teams, one to be selected from each of his two gymnasium classes, Physical Education B and C, and they are already getting in shape for the contests to come. We're going to try to have full particulars for next week's issue as this is something that no one will want to miss.

We wish to call attention to the items by Mike and Ike in the Contributors column, and at the same time disclaim all responsibility for them. We had to censor it unmercifully as it were. Anyone who objects may have the names of the authors upon application at the office.

Bouncer Milliken wishes us to mention that he will be in town for the next few weeks.

A. D. S. NOTES

Much credit is due the Entertainment Committee at the house, for the party they threw Friday night was voted a big success. Games, dancing and progressive card playing were on the program and after that refreshments were served by the Entertainment Committee who had artistically decorated the dining room.

Miss Mary Bennett will return to her home in Williamsport to attend the wedding of Miss Mary Ginter. Mr. Herbert Guylly of Muncy, was the guest of Miss Kathryn Glass while her room-mate, Selma Nylar of Wilkes-Barre, is entertaining Mr. LeRoy Kemper, a student of Lafayette College. Miss Grace Jones of the A. D. S. house and Chairlady of the Refreshment Committee, entertained the girls of that house at the Spruce Creek Country Club. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess who is a Domestic Science teacher.

We missed the rattle and clatter of knitting needles when the Misses Hutchins and Jones dropped their stitches over the week end in order to entertain. The president of the A. O. S. sure selected a tip-top Entertainment Committee. We have heard rumors of a staway ide for Saturday. Regardless of three other dances in town, two of them with orchestras that are famous throughout the East, the A. D. S. dance last Saturday was a success. There were almost fifty couples there. Next Saturday night there will be another of them. The mere announcement is sufficient.
