INTERESTING SEASON IS ASSURED VARIOUS MUSICAL SOCIETIES

Glee Club Will Take Part In Inaugural Exercises On New Beaver

That the musical organizations of the college are getting into their stride to make this the biggest and best year in the musical history of Penn State is demonstrated by the degree of quality of the candidates for positions on the various clubs.

The Glee Club, whose members were picked last week, held its first regular rehearsal Wednesday evening. The twenty fortunate men who make up its personnel are all talented and every indication points to an intercollegiate championship aggregation when the intercollegiate trials come off next March in New York.

The Varsity Quartet has always been an important unit in Penn State's musical circles and the quartet for this year promises to be no exception. Hurdle has already been scheduled as soloist for the concert.

The Orphic Club, which corresponds to the Mandolin Club, had its first meeting last Wednesday evening. The plan is to work in conjunction with the Glee Club in much the same manner as the Banjo-Mandolin Club cooperates with the Men's Glee Club.

That the Department of Music at Penn State is rated among the highest in the state was shown this summer at the meeting of the Summer School teachers number of the courses in music which led to a teacher's certificate.
