GETTYSBURG ELEVEN WILL PROVIDE STIFF OPPOSITION

They have been running neck and neck for the job of first-string punter. The former is an excellent punter, handles forward passes well, and is particularly good in a broken field when carrying the ball, while Ritter is a better field general and is adaptable in forward passing. The work of Killinger in the Lebanon Valley game though earned him the job of running the first team in practice the majority of the week and it is very likely that he will start tomorrow.

Due to the injury of Lightner, Cornwall has been used at right halfback since Saturday, and if his stellar work in the opening game means anything, Lightner will have a difficult time winning back his position. Cornwall is a good line punter and a kicker of some ability. In addition to being strong on the defense, Redinger is still holding down the other halfback position and will undoubtedly play from the beginning against Gettysburg. His terrific line bucking in the first game was the most consistent ground grinder on the team. Captain Snell too must come in for a great deal of credit, because of his defensive work. He is also a very consistent ground grinder.

On the line, Penn State will probably be represented tomorrow by the same group which started the Lebanon game, with the exception of Hills, who will be supplanted by Mader. Mader's first frame is a big asset in the line and the coaches have been devoting much time toward his development. He is a little slow yet but experience and timing will make him a powerful lineman. McMahon's right tackle is rapidly developing and his increase in speed and playing ability will help him retain the job which he has won by hard work. Bedenk who should start at right guard has earned a good word from the coaches in practice by his ability to smash thru the opposing line and break up plays before they are under way. He was a continual worry to the Freshman team on Wednesday. Bentz is back at his old job of pivot man and is rapidly coming around into mid-season form, so much that he has been playing as first center for two weeks. Bentz's short experience of last season is standing him in good stead this year, although he can still improve considerably like several of the others. He will appear at left guard tomorrow. Hufford and McCollum will be Coach Bedenk's choice as ends and, although the latter is rather green, he is steadily improving under the watchful eye of Trainer Martin, and should make a strong end before the season is over. Summed up, the probable line-up for tomorrow is Killinger-quarterback, Captain Snell-fullback, Redinger and Cornwall-halfbacks, Hufford and McCollum-ends, Mader and McMahon-tackles, Bentz and Bedenk-guards, and Bentz-center.

FROSH AND VARSITY TEAMS IN SCRIMMAGE

slow as usual if not slower when facing such a bombardment as the varsity gave them. Anderson, who weighs 160 pounds and comes from Wilkesburg High, played the best game of the entire bunch of Freshman linemen. The team as a whole worked splendidly in considering the inexperience.

"Dutch" Herman has arranged a tentative line-up as more or less of an experiment. It was this line-up that started the scrimmage with the varsity on Wednesday. It does not necessarily mean that the team is picked. Some of the men who sat on the frosh bench during the workout with the varsity will be had men to keep down and a number who entered into the scrimmage will soon lose their positions if they do not make a better impression with the coach. The line-up was as follows:

McCoy, L. E., Parshall, L. T., Vost, L. G.; Shanes, C., Flock, R. G.; Alwin, R. T., Anderson, R. E., Tays, Q., Lowry, R. H. B., Hartman, L. H. B., Schmidtlin, F. B.

The Coach has a vast supply from which to pick his men. The list given above will hardly remain without change. McCoy and Anderson at ends are being pushed by five others who are anxious to get a place on the Freshman first team. Wert, who comes from Penobscot High, is light, but he is very aggressive. Cook a 170 pounder from Rochester High, hurt his shoulder in the first scrimmage and has been out of the game ever since. He is ready to start again, is speedy and will be a hard man to keep down. Phillips, another end, has been showing up well. He is light, but makes up for it by his aggressiveness. Kerr and Penet are also a pair of good ends. Kerr used the latter in the last half of the varsity scrimmage on Wednesday, and while he had not nothing exceptional, he played a good consistent game.

The guards and tackles mentioned in the line-up are also far from sure of holding their positions. Atlet, an inside line-man from Germantown Academy is a tuffie light, green and slow, but it that he has made a good impression on the coach and he may get a position on the first team if any thing. Vithin, the 172 pound tackle from Media High has also left a good impression on the coach. He is fast and at times plays brilliantly. Campbell, who hails from Jersey Shore High is a light rangy fellow, but speedy and since the Freshman first line-up is slow, he too may soon get a chance to tackle.

Burden, the husky center, who tips the scales at 195, may be shifted from that position to guard at any time. He is slow but will probably gain speed with experience. Kook is another man who is making a strong bid for a position as guard or tackle. He comes from South Hills High, weighs 180, and is exceptionally good in defensive line playing.

Auto Routes to Penn State
The Inauguration Committee has taken the best auto routes to be taken from the various sections of the State to State College.
Cars from west turn north from the Lehigh Highway at Bedford, then through Hollersburg, Water Street and Spruce Creek to State College.
From the east, cars follow the Williams Penn Highway through Harrisburg, Clark's Ferry, Lewisport and turn north at Reasbille to Centre Hall and Pleasant Gap to State College.
Cars coming from the northeast take the route through Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Danville and Lewisport to State College.
Busses leave Bellefonte for State College after the arrival of all trains. From Pottsville busses leave at eight p. m., eleven a. m., four p. m., and seven Every Alumnus is being invited to attend the big events. The Alumni Association is preparing for the big representation expected in every way possible.

Literature has been sent to every grad and former student describing the part they will play in the Alumni Homecoming day when there will be nothing to do but have a good time. Their day will be the climax to one of the most impressive and inspiring occasions held at Penn State.

The fraternities will devote their time exclusively to the entertainment of the alumni and will not be distracted by any other events. On Friday evening, every fraternity is having "open house" and together with the student celebration on New Beaver Field, they will have every moment of their time crowded.

Wales Accepts Invitation
Acceptance to invitations are pouring into State College every day. Many universities and colleges will be represented. Probably the long distance record will be held by the University of Wales, which will be represented by a graduate and faculty member, Professor Walter Thomas.
