

GRAHAM & SONS
On the Corner.
Fine Confections & Smokers' Supplies
We will be glad to see all our old friends of 26 years standing, on the old corner.

LEHIGH ELEVEN PRIMED FOR PENN STATE GAME

(Continued from first page)
short time this fall, will probably play at one of the tackle positions. At center, the Brown and White will be represented by "Big Bill" Springsteen, a veteran who has started in every contest played by Lehigh this season. He was carried out of the Rutgers game but played in scrimmages on Tuesday and will undoubtedly appear at the post against Penn State. Hoffman, varsity guard, was also injured last Saturday but has recovered and will play by the side of Springsteen. The backfield will probably be made up of Hossenat at quarter, Bessmer and Storer at halves, and Greer at fullback.

The Beliehemites are coached by Frank Glick, who made an enviable record at Princeton a few years ago as a quarterback. This is his first year at Lehigh but he is expected to turn out a powerful eleven. He is especially determined to beat Penn State.

Penn State Out For Blood

With the tie score administered by Lehigh last year still ranking in their minds, the Nittany wearers of the mole skin will be out for revenge from the outset tomorrow. They have been duly warned by Coach Hendon of the possibility of underestimating the Brown and White team and will not throw away any chance of victory which may turn up. Night after night of two-hour scrimmage sessions at a killing pace have caused considerable improvement in the team as a whole. In practice on Wednesday "Bez" pitted both the second and fourth elevens against the first team while he also sent the third eleven against the Freshmen. Cold weather did not bring the best let-up in the work and the men were driven on, although they could hardly hold the ball because of benumbed fingers. The coaching staff is still somewhat unsatisfied with the work of the line. In the contest with North Carolina, the linemen showed flashes of great power but they were not consistent and the southern backs gained at times when they should have been thrown for losses. Lehigh is known to have a strong line and for this reason, the coaches stopped play after play during the week in order to point out mistakes made by the Nittany first defense. A little more experience for some of the linemen will greatly strengthen the line. Coach Bezdek is eagerly awaiting tomorrow's game in order to see how the green men will perform under heavy fire.

A shaking up occurred in the Nittany backfield the other day, and as a result, Lightner, who has not played regularly since he was injured in the Lebanon Valley game, was shifted to the first team while Cornwall was dropped to the second eleven. The latter played a fine game at right half against North Carolina but slackened up somewhat in practice and was accordingly replaced by Lightner. It may be that Cornwall will recover his position by hard work but, in all probability, Lightner will start on Saturday. Cornwall's fine kicking will undoubtedly be missed in the game. Although the playing of the other backs on the first eleven has not been perfect, they have been improving rapidly and should give Lehigh no little trouble. The interference rendered last week in last half of the contest was of high order while the backs ran with more speed and picked holes more readily than they had formerly. Their defensive work showed improvement also.

Several men of the scrubs have been putting up a great fight to secure varsity berths but the splendid efforts which the players on the first eleven have expended in attempting to keep their places have kept the line-up practically stable and, with the possible exception of Lightner appearing at right half, the line-up tomorrow will be the same as played against the Carolinians. It will probably be as follows: Hafford and McCollum, ends; Madera and McMahon, tackles; Baer and Bendon, guards; Bentz, center; Killinger, quarter; Redinger and Lightner, halves; and Snell, fullback.

SHIELDS AND ENCK WIN IN PRELIMINARY RACES

(Continued from first page)
a better idea of the ability of the men. "Larry" Shields did not take part in the meet and consequently the rivalry between the other members of the squad greatly increased to see who would finish in first place. Throughout the entire race the struggle for the lead rested between Enck and Snyder. The latter ran a wonderful race in the trials which were held last week but yesterday he was unable to keep up with the pace which was set by Enck and he finished eighteen seconds behind his teammate. The course covered a distance amounting to approximately five miles. The other men finished in the following order, Cooper, Carter, Simmons, Wendler, Tipper, and Sigworth. Enck's time was twenty-seven minutes and fifteen seconds.

In addition to the varsity trials, the Freshman trials were also held yesterday afternoon. Helfrick took part in these races, but not as a candidate for the cross country team. His idea in running was simply to aid in getting himself in condition for the big meets which will take place this winter. The first Frosh to cross the line was McClure. His time was twelve minutes and fifty-five seconds for a course which covered somewhat over two and a half miles. Helfrick finished second, and Fitzpatrick third. The latter is a lad who never ran much before and he has certainly proved to be a real find to the coach. Fitzpatrick won the trials which were held last week. The other Freshmen finished as follows: Russell, Kratz, Wleand, Gundrum, Yeager, Kisseloff, Loy, Siebert, Rlordan, and Pollock.

were held last Saturday afternoon, "Larry" Shields, living up to his old time form and reputation, romped home the winner of the race a considerable distance ahead of the rest of the varsity squad. The day was far from ideal for running as the men had to race through a cold, damp, intermittent, drizzly sort of a rain and at times had to face a strong west wind. The work of Snyder, who finished second, certainly is commendable. Snyder does not appear to run an easy race. He works hard, trains hard, and when in a race apparently has to extend himself to the limit in order to finish in one of the leading positions. This year Snyder looks better than ever and he will no doubt be one of the leading point getters for Penn State in the meets which will be held this fall. Enck, of last year's Freshman team, finished third and Captain Cooper came in fourth.

STATE COLLEGE SHOULD BECOME STATE UNIVERSITY

(Continued from first page)
Penn State standard of service, which was borne so well by your predecessor, Edwin Erle Sparks."

"We (the faculty) are proud to claim you as our President, as our counselor, as our friend, as our leader," he continued. "And, knowing the high esteem in which you are held by my colleagues, I pledge to you our warmest sympathy, our heartiest support and cooperation and our most earnest efforts in helping you to realize all that should be accomplished by this great institution in the great State of Pennsylvania."

John Franklin Shields, a Penn State graduate of the class of 1892 then added to the words of confidence expressed by Dean Watts when he addressed the audience in behalf of the alumni. He stated that the alumni were heartily in favor of the new president and that they were willing to do all in their power for the advancement of Penn State.

Overdorf Speaks for Students
Elliot E. Overdorf, president of the Senior class and the student council, then spoke in behalf of the students of Penn State.

"President Thomas, the student body gladly joins with the faculty, and the Alumni, and all the friends of the college in welcoming you to Penn State," concluded Mr. Overdorf. "The student body is with you in every trial, in every battle, and we pledge you, unreservedly, our cooperation and our loyalty for the many trying years ahead." Dr. Thomas, the student body is exceedingly glad to welcome you to the Presidency of the Pennsylvania State College.

"Our new President has mixed with us as one of the boys." In our mass meetings he comes to us with a sense of fellowship and a spirit of enthusiasm that can nowhere be surpassed by any President in any College. We meet with him to decide many delicate and important student problems and invariably he takes a sympathetic attitude and deals with the problems in a fair courageous manner. We students know that Dr. Thomas is going to make Penn State the greatest institution of learning in Pennsylvania."

Next came the Induction of the President by Judge H. Walton Mitchell, President of the Board of Trustees, and following this, Ex-President Edwin Erle Sparks, made the presentation of the keys to the College to President

Thomas. The Oath of Office was then administered to the incoming president by Robert von Moschler, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Governor William C. Sprout officially introduced President John M. Thomas to those present, following the administration oath.

President Thomas Speaks

President Thomas then gave his inaugural address, the whole of which is printed in another column of the COLLEGIAN. Starting with the history of the college, Dr. Thomas traced it to its present position and then spoke at length of the future possibilities of the state institution and emphasized the fact that as a university it could be of an invaluable service to the people of Pennsylvania.

"The time has now come," said President Thomas, "after twelve years of notable advance under the leadership of Doctor Sparks, when the ambition of Doctor Atherton should be realized and the Pennsylvania State College should frankly assume the name and function which its present strength and service justify and become in name as it is now in fact 'The Pennsylvania State University.'"

"Not in ambition for numbers but in consideration of its obligation to the Commonwealth this institution should anticipate expansion to 10,000 resident students. But instead of asking whether Pennsylvania can afford a state university, we should ask rather, can the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania afford not to have one? Can we afford to say to the youth of this state, if you had been in Ohio or Wisconsin, you might have attended a magnificent university provided by the state. But you had the misfortune to be born in Pennsylvania, and Pennsylvania was too poor to follow the example of twenty-three other states and develop its land-grant college into a real state university."

"I have taken today," he said in conclusion, "the only position as the future of this institution which can be taken consistently with the spirit of its founders and the steady advance of the college to its present power and influence. The steady pushing of events, in other institutions not less than our own, have been toward the establishment of Pennsylvania's University. Humble before the opportunity, we tender all we have and our utmost effort in the future to the good people of this state, and loyally await their will."

Inaugural Banquet Follows
At the conclusion of the inaugural program, in the Auditorium the college guests will go to the Armory where the inaugural dinner will be held at twelve-thirty p. m.

President Thomas will be toastmaster at the dinner. Speeches will be given by Governor Sprout, President William O. Thompson of Ohio State University, President David Kinley of the University of Illinois, President Robert E. Vinson of the University of Texas and Thomas E. Finegan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

NEWS OF OTHER COLLEGES

CORNELL—The first eight-oared shell of the year appeared on the inlet at Cornell the other day and it is expected that three or four more will appear in the near future. Coach Hoyle intends to put the oarsmen thru some stiff work this fall.

The
First National Bank
STATE COLLEGE, PA.
W. L. Foster, President
David F. Kapp, Cashier

The Duffany Theatre Co.
Photoplays of Quality
State College, Pa.

FRIDAY—Nittany
JOHNNY HINES
In "Burn 'Em Up Barnes"
CLYDE COOK COMEDY
"The Sailor"
Adults 30c, Children 15c and Tax

SATURDAY
BEBE DANIELS
In "The Speed Girl"
VANITY COMEDY

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—PASTIME
MIRIAM COOPER
In "Serenade"
NEWS WEEKLY
Adults 30c, Children 15c and Tax

MONDAY
CORINE GRIFFITH
In "Moral Fibre"
NEWSWEEKLY

TUESDAY
SPECIAL CAST
In "No Woman Knows"
LARRY SEMON
In "The Hick"

COMING
"The Amazing silk clad beauty
in a romance of the Harem."

ART EXHIBIT ATTRACTS FAVORABLE COMMENT

The works of popular American artists presented by the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia in the Fine Arts Museum in Old Main has attracted a great deal of favorable attention and comment since arriving last Monday. The exhibit contains thirty-two original designs of the best illustrations and cover designs appearing in the leading magazines for the last two years. The works of such well-known artists as Norman Rockwell and Noyes McMein, seen in the original by a large number of people for the first time, received untold praise.

Among the other famous contributors are Harold Lund, Orr, H. J. Soulen, Dean Cornwell, Arthur Fuller, Frank Steek, John Curry, James Crunk, Clark Fay and W. D. White.

The wonderfully life-like work of James Crunk was brought out by one of his paintings in which an aviator and his machine are represented. This machine is one of the first to meet the visitors eye, located as it is just to the left of the door.

HERMAN MAKES CHANGE IN FRESHMAN LINE-UP

(Continued from first page)
Herman will start the latter at fullback in the Mansfield contest.

take place is that Anderson, who has been playing a good brand of football at right end will be replaced at that position by Cooke, a lad from Rochester High School. Cooke has been making a strong bid for the position all season and his stellar work during the past week has earned him the opportunity of starting in tomorrow's fracas. It is quite likely that Anderson will also be given the chance to play against the Mansfield aggregation. The coach has not necessarily made a permanent change in this instance as he is trying to give all the men who are out for Freshman football an opportunity to play in one of the big games at some time or other.

At present the position of left end is being held down by McCoy. He is a big fellow and plays a hard game. The coach, however, is not entirely satisfied with his work but he will undoubtedly start him in the game. Wirt, who is another man who is making a strong bid for an end position has been out lately with an infected foot but he may be in condition to get into the game for a short time at least.

Two other changes may be made in the line-up. Yost who originally held a position on the tentative line-up has been out of the game for a while. He is now back and may have the opportunity of starting tomorrow. Should he go into the game he will replace Artlet. The latter has been doing exceptionally good defensive work. Yost however has been playing mighty well on the offensive department. The other possible change that may be made is that Kerstetter may start at quarterback instead of Tays. The latter has been playing good football and showed up rather well in some of the Bellefonte game when he got away on several long end runs. The coach has not been entirely pleased with Tays' work in practice this week. He has not been picking out the holes as well as usual and has been trying too many end runs in which he is not following the interference. Kerstetter lacks the experience of Tays, but on Wednesday might he run the Frosh with good generalship when they were playing the third varsity. Kerstetter is light but he picks the holes well. Kratz may also get the opportunity to play in the game.

Many of these changes are only temporary, and the work of the men in tomorrow's contest will be a great factor in determining whether the changes will be permanent.

Little is known of the Mansfield team with the exception that they have a good reputation and in one of the games this fall they ran up a score of over a hundred points against their opponent. White, the captain, is one of the best backfield men playing on an eastern normal team.

The Penn State line-up for the game will be as follows: McCoy, left end;

Parshall, left tackle; Artlet or Yost left guard; Shaner, center; Flock, right guard; Alwine, right tackle; Cooke, right end; Tays, quarterback; Hartman, left halfback; Lowry, right halfback, and Wilson at fullback.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS
E. W. Gerner
Merchant Tailor
Next to Post Office

The Classes of 1920 and 1921
are behind Penn State with large Endowment Funds
created by means of life insurance written by
The Equitable Life Assurance Society of United States

You don't need to "know the ropes" when you buy here

New men sometimes hesitate to go into a store the first time; feel they might not get their money's worth because they're not acquainted. We sell Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

They're guaranteed by us and by the makers, to be fairly priced, stylish, fine quality, correctly fitted. Just tell us any time these goods---or anything else you get here---fail to give you complete satisfaction and we'll give your money back.

Montgomery & Company
The Home of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes
State College, Pa. No exchange charge on checks. Bell te, Pa.