BIG CONFERENCE DEC. THIRD

Two Delegates to Represent Penn State at Princeton Conference Next Week

Penn State is taking a prominent part in one of the foremost questions of the day and has the honor of being the originator of a college student movement that will have no small influence on the future history of the world...

Question of Recent Origin

The first time that this weighty matter was considered from a college student viewpoint was at the international convention of the Y. M. C. A. held in New York City during the latter part of September...

The entire matter is admirably summed up in the words of the resolution which was passed at a student conference held in New York on October 20...

To supplement the meetings held in New York, the Penn State Student Council voted to send two delegates to the conference that is to be held at Princeton on October twenty-sixth...

Princeton first voiced its feeling on this matter on October second when President Hibben of that institution, in his welcoming address to the delegates...

An excellent program has been arranged for this date and the Penn State delegates will be expected to take a leading part in the conference...

The Penn State Plan

The plans as outlined by Penn State are wider in its scope and provides for more definite action over a longer period of time. As is contained in the message sent out to all colleges of the country from Dartmouth to Georgia Tech...

The Washington conference is the culminating point in the Penn State plan and deserves explanation. This conference is to consist of representatives of the chief officials of our own country and of student delegates...

DR. H. P. ARMSBY

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES MARK FINAL TRIBUTE TO PROFESSOR ARMSBY

Dismissal of Classes For First Two Hours Will Permit Student Attendance

Dr Henry Prentiss Armsby, Director of the Institute of Animal Nutrition, a scientist of international repute, and a man who has been connected with the Pennsylvania State College for thirty-four years, died last Wednesday noon as a result of a renewed attack of cerebral hemorrhage...

Dr Armsby was connected with Penn State for thirty-four years. He first came here in January 1888 at which time he took charge of the Experimental Station. For many years he was director of the Institute of Animal Nutrition and he carried on the work of that department with such fidelity that only he could be found in a man highly interested in his work for the Agriculture of the Commonwealth and the Nation...

Services in Auditorium

Combined funeral and memorial services will take place in the auditorium at two o'clock today. The body will be moved to the Auditorium at twelve o'clock noon, where it may be viewed between the hours of twelve and two o'clock. The services will be held for the first time in the Auditorium.

COMPETITION STARTS FOR DEBATING SQUAD

Five Members of Last Year's Team Remain as Nucleus—Debates Being Scheduled

Competition is now starting for the vacant positions on the debating team and candidates are trying out every Wednesday evening so that the best five will be selected for the coming active season. The regular triangular debate with the University of Pittsburgh and Colgate will take place this year as in the past, although a definite date has not been set for this meet...

Five members of last year's debating squad are in college this semester and should form a strong nucleus for the team. The subject will make up the team and with only one vacant berth to fill and many promising candidates now competing, prospects for one of the most successful years in the field of debating is promised. These members of last year's team who are still at Penn State are: E. E. Overdorf '22, R. S. Adams '22, L. M. Runkle '22, R. C. Kramer '22 and W. B. Romig '23. Seven candidates are showing up well in the trials which are now being conducted. They are: J. C. Dolan '23, F. R. Smith '23, J. S. Wiant '24, W. C. Eastman '24, L. J. Hays '25, Clifford '25 and W. S. Gress. All of these men have been meeting every Wednesday evening to speak or debate on assigned subjects. A regular debate, with the first six men named taking part, is scheduled for next Wednesday evening. The subject is: Resolved: That the United States Government should establish a system of unemployment insurance for employees in American corporate industry. Mr. Gater is using this subject as a possibility that it may be selected for the regular intercollegiate debates and is testing his qualifications in this way. The coach announces that there is still opportunity for those who wish to try out for the team. Members of any class are eligible for the team and with more candidates, the coach will have a wider choice of material and debates for future teams may also be developed in this way. Any person interested may attend the trials which take place in room 25 Liberal Arts every Wednesday at seven o'clock.

FROSH PRIMED FOR STIFF GAME WITH MERCERSBURG TEAM

Academy Eleven Is First Foe to Be Met By the Freshmen On a Foreign Field

EIGHTEEN MEN MAKE TRIP

Line-up Will Be the Same As in the Game With Mansfield Normal

The hardest football test that the Freshmen have faced so far this season will come tomorrow when the yearlings tackle the Mercersburg Academy eleven at Mercersburg. This will mark the first game played by the Freshmen on a foreign field this year and the game promises to be a hard fought one for the Mercersburg team is one of the most formidable in eastern academy football circles. Last Saturday the Princeton freshman eleven met the Mercersburg team in the gridiron and it was only after a long and hard fight that the tiger cubs emerged from the fray a victor, having but one touch-down and a goal to its credit. This 7-0 defeat administered by the tigers has helped the Mercersburg eleven in that the entire team is rallying and will put up a desperate attempt to come through the rest of the season undefeated.

The Freshmen, in contemplation of a very difficult game, have been training more strenuously than ever during the past week. Early in the week a scrimmage took place between the first squad and the varsity team. Coach Delek's side was victorious and rushed them for several touchdowns. Last night the yearlings worked very hard and long, the first team ploughing through the third team for big gains. The greater part of the scrimmage game of the men who played on the regular line-up in the Mansfield game are continuing to show up well and their loyalty should warrant them the opportunity of entering in tomorrow's game. Coach Burdian, a hundred and ninety-five pounder who-halls from Lebanon High has been very conspicuous on the field this week. Burdian originally tried out for center but was later changed to a tackle and it is in that position on the second team that he had been doing such good work.

Couch Herman will invade Mercersburg with his regular line-up. Most of the line-up will be the same as in the game with Mansfield. Cooke will in all probability be replaced by Anderson at right end. Cooke has been out of the game the greater part of the season with a bad shoulder. The injury healed up sufficiently for him to take part in the Mansfield game where he was again injured. In addition to the regular line-up, the coach is taking seven extra men to the game. These are Wilson, who was mentioned before as doing good work at fullback on the second team, Yost, who played right guard in the scrimmage game, Webster who is being taken along as a substitute center, Main, who is an extra guard, Wirt, an extra end, Kratz, an extra halfback and Tays who originally held the position of quarterback on the first Freshman team.

PLAYERS TO PRESENT TWO ONE ACT COMEDIES

Announce Cast for "The Perfect Woman" and "The Dear Departed"

The Penn State Players recently announced the rehearsal of two more one act plays in their repertoire program. The first of these is "The Perfect Woman," by J. Gordon Amund, which is being directed by Mr. Arthur C. Clough, Director of the Players. The curtain rises on two men, friends these many years but estranged because of the rather impulsive wayward love of the Perfect Woman. The victor belongs to the spolia-but the man who first said that, had not taken into account women in general-Agatha in particular. The curtain falls, the life long friendship between the men has been unfettered and the fitful affection of the Perfect Woman has gone elsewhere. The other show is "The Dear Departed," by Stuart Carter. The victor belongs to the spolia-but the man who first said that, had not taken into account women in general-Agatha in particular. The curtain falls, the life long friendship between the men has been unfettered and the fitful affection of the Perfect Woman has gone elsewhere.

SOCCER SEASON OPENS TOMORROW WITH SYRACUSE

Orange Booters Rank With the Strongest in Intercollegiate Soccer League

Student Administrative Body Also Asks For Better Library System

The varsity soccer season at Penn State will be opened tomorrow afternoon when the Nittany booters entertain the representatives from Syracuse University on the Army field at one thirty o'clock. The contest will mark the first game of the 1922 program and will serve to usher in a new soccer regime at this institution. The New York aggregation that will meet the Penn State booters is practically veteran and has been ranked among the teams in intercollegiate circles at the present time. The game tomorrow will be the last of a series of contests that make up a Pennsylvania tour for the Orange team and will serve as a basis of comparison between the Nittany team and the leaders in the Intercollegiate Soccer League. The Syracuse eleven started on their trip Tuesday and are scheduled to meet the Swarthmore and Haverford teams on Wednesday and Thursday with Friday to use as a rest day before the game here at the college. Both Swarthmore and Haverford are reputed to have the best soccer teams this year in the east and it is predicted that only an unusually strong team will be able to score on their grounds. The first day will require the visitation of the Orange team so that Pakenham's men can expect the stiffest opposition from a powerful booting combination. Last year the Orange team was defeated by a score of 1-0. The team will be making a strenuous trip with no rest periods so the contest this year that will be similar that indications point to a much closer to the showing that the New Yorkers made on their home field.

Game Is Important

The results of Saturday's game will be many fold. Both teams will appear on the field with information to aid them in judging the relative strength of each other. Although the outcome of the preceding games played on the trip might seem to give some indication of the power of the booters, yet real strength will be unknown for these games will tend to show up their weaknesses and cloud their best points. The Syracuse eleven will be in a small margin after the game. The Nittany team will be in a small margin after the game. The Nittany team will be in a small margin after the game.

Whereas, The Men's Student Government requested the Girls Student Government to aid in the raising of funds to send the Penn State band to the Georgia Tech, Navy and Pitt returns.

Whereas, The work was conducted most efficiently, resulting in the collection of more than sufficient funds to meet the requirements.

Be it resolved, That the Men's Student Government go on record as expressing its appreciation to the Girls' Committee for their hearty cooperation.

GLEE CLUB WILL MAKE TRIP TO ELIZABETHTOWN

Next week end the Penn State Glee Club will journey to Elizabethtown where they are scheduled to give a concert at the Masonic Home under the auspices of the local Masonic Lodge. Twenty-eight men in the club will make the trip and will leave at ten-thirty Saturday morning. E. H. Robinson '23, is this year's leader and will have charge of all the exercises. The quartet is composed of Jack Myers '23, H. D. Schlosser '22 and John Eays '22 will entertain with eccentric dancing, planologues, and various other comedy stunts. J. L. Wilsbach '21 will go with the club as accompanist. The varsity quartet is also on the program as well as several tenor solos by D. V. Bauder '24. Besides the regular concert the men will sing at services to be held on Sunday at which President Thomas will speak. During their stay at Elizabethtown the members of the club will be entertained at the Masonic Home. It is thought that probably fifty or sixty local members will be present. The trip will make the trip over the week end.

TICKETS FOR PRE-MED DANCE ON SALE SOON

Tickets for the Pre-Med's dance to be given at the residence of November at the A. T. O. house will be placed on sale within the next few days. The committee in charge of the function have made very elaborate plans for the occasion and every indication points to its being ever more successful than last year. This dance is but one of the social functions to be given by the Pre-Med Society in the course of the term. An interesting story was taken by the Pre-Med's meeting when it was voted to adopt a membership pin to be worn by every member. The pin is a little gold skull with crisp bones set behind it.

DELEGATES SENT TO PRINCETON BY STUDENT COUNCIL

E. E. Overdorf and C. T. Douds Will Represent Penn State at Disarmament Meeting

SEEK BETTER MAIL SERVICE

Student Administrative Body Also Asks For Better Library System

Penn State is to be represented at the Princeton Conference on disarmament and more satisfactory library regulations are to be requested are the more important results of the Student Council meeting held last Tuesday night. It was also decided to request the postal authorities to give State College better service and to formally thank the girls students for their participation in the recent tag day.

As explained in another article of the Collegian, the disarmament question is assuming great prominence in college circles today and since Penn State was one of the leaders in this movement, the members of the Student Council decided that the institution should be represented at the conference to be held at Princeton University on October twenty-sixth and that E. E. Overdorf '22 and C. T. Douds '22 should be the Penn State delegates.

In regard to more satisfactory library regulations, R. S. Tannehill '23 was authorized to confer with Dr. Burdian on the possibility of securing the present regulations in force. At the same time, G. E. Lane '23, W. C. Rovy '23, and W. H. Payne '23 were appointed a committee to investigate the present conditions existing in the college postal services and to make efforts to better these conditions. For the size of the town and the amount of mail that passes through the post office every week, a more accommodating postal service and to make efforts to better these conditions.

The noteworthy success of the recent tag day that was staged for the purpose of securing funds with which to purchase the new Georgia Tech game at New York was due in a large measure to the efficient and willing efforts put forth on the part of the Girls' Student Government and in recognition of this service, it was voted to forward the following resolution to the girls student government:

Whereas, The Men's Student Government requested the Girls Student Government to aid in the raising of funds to send the Penn State band to the Georgia Tech, Navy and Pitt returns.

Whereas, The work was conducted most efficiently, resulting in the collection of more than sufficient funds to meet the requirements.

Be it resolved, That the Men's Student Government go on record as expressing its appreciation to the Girls' Committee for their hearty cooperation.

ROCHESTER PREACHER TO ADDRESS BOTH CHAPELS

College Preacher Is President of Seminary—Has Spoken At Penn State Before

Reverend Clarence A. Barbour, a noted theologian who is President of Rochester Theological Seminary, will address both chapels on Sunday. Reverend Barbour is not a new man to Penn State students since he has spoken to them before, and has made a host of friends at this college. Reverend Doctor Barbour secured his A. B. degree at Brown University and later his D. D. Degree at Rochester Theological Seminary. In eighteen ninety one he was ordained in the Episcopal Ministry. For some time afterward he was pastor of the Laize Avenue Church in Rochester N. Y. In 1915 he became President of the Rochester Theological Seminary, and he is still filling this office. He is also acting professor of homiletics at this institution. Besides this work Reverend Dr. Barbour has written some well known articles. Among these will be found "Making Religion Real," which he wrote in nineteen seventeen, and the "Service Song Book." With his wide experience he is coming to Penn State bearing a message for the student body.

RAIL RATES REDUCED TO LEGION CONVENTION

Penn State men who are members of the American Legion will have the opportunity of attending the national convention of that organization, which will be held on the thirty-first of this month at Kansas City, at railroad rates that are considerably lower than any others that have existed in the United States for a long time. The new rate for the occasion is one cent a mile, making the round trip cost approximately only twenty-five dollars. Those who are not members of the Legion may take advantage of this opportunity by joining the organization immediately. Any person wishing information on the subject may obtain it by seeing J. S. Cobb, the adjutant of the Nittany Post. Phone 63-W.

BEZDEK AND WARRIORS LEAVE FOR BIG EASTERN CONTEST WITH HARVARD

Football World Anxiously Awaiting Outcome Of Battle--Captain Snell Will Be Out Of Line-up

R. K. KANE, HARVARD CAPTAIN

HARVARD RETURNS IN AUDITORIUM SATURDAY

Grid Contest Will Be Illustrated Play By Play as Telephone Returns Arrive

Penn State students will have their first opportunity of the year for hearing football returns, tomorrow afternoon at the Auditorium. Although many students may not be able to attend the Harvard game, they will be able to follow the Nittany eleven across the gridiron play by play. The returns for this game will come by telephone, and will contain as detailed a report as is possible on the progress of the game. The students will support this movement as they have in former years, and will be in back of the team at home at least, if they can not be present at the Harvard Stadium. Even though the returns are not as exciting as the actual witnessing of a game, still there is a certain fascination in watching the Blue and White peacocks travel toward the goal. The cheerleaders will be there, and will give the rooters a chance to relieve themselves of their pent up enthusiasm. The Athletic Department is planning this year to have the returns for every one of the games played away from home. As far as is known now, the admission fee will be fifty cents, the same as former years. The Harvard, Georgia Tech, Navy and Pitt returns will be received by telephone, since this method makes possible a more detailed report. Negotiations are now being made with the Western Union and the Bell Telephone Companies to secure the returns for the game with the University of Washington. It is expected that these returns will come by telephone since that is the more efficient method.

So far this season the Nittany warriors of the mellekiss have held a big margin of weight over their rivals but in Saturday's contest, their advantage will be shaded to about five pounds per man. The Harvard line averages one hundred eighty-eight pounds while the Nittany line averages one hundred and seventy-one pounds a man. The team average is thus about one hundred and seventy-nine pounds. That of Penn State's eleven is one hundred and eighty-four. Harvard has two giants weighing over two hundred, and around these two stalwarts is the main defense line. Harvard's best player is an unconstructed Penn State student, and his name is Ed Buehler. Buehler is a member of the Harvard team here last winter and again visited this institution with the Crimson trick outfit in the spring. Pitts, who will probably be at left end tomorrow, also came here last spring with the truck team. He is heavily built and, in addition to being fast, is good at handling forward passes. He is also Harvard's best punter and often carries the ball from a punt formation with Macomber, who will likely be the choice of Coach Fisher for the right wing. He should give the Blue and White a little trouble. Crocker, Field, and Lanin are excellent ends also, but the two men mentioned above will probably start tomorrow.

At the tackle positions, the Crimson will be represented by Captain Kane and Henney. Both players are strong on offensive work and will keep the Nittany tackles on their job continuously. The captain in particular bears watching. He made quite a name for himself in the Indiana game by his performance at recovering fumbles. He has played two field goals this year. Bradford, a member of last year's Freshman team, will hold down the pivot position. Although he is the lightest man on the eleven, he is very aggressive and jumped into the line in the Middleburg game by his performance.

Harvard will be represented by a great set of backs. At quarterback will appear Euel, who by his too has already secured two field goals this year. He weighs less than the other backs but makes an excellent quarter and is good in all departments of the game. (Continued on fourth page)
