

FROSH OUTPLAY KISKI IN SCORELESS GAME

Frosh Make Five Long Marches to Shadow of Opponent's Goal Line

In the hardest fought game which the Freshmen have experienced this year, the powerful Kiski eleven held Coach Heimann's yearling squad to a scoreless tie in the game which was played at Salsburg last Sunday. Penn State clearly outplayed the academy team from the start to the finish of the game. Throughout the contest the Nittany Cubs played an offensive game with the exception of about five minutes of the play and during that time, when the Kiski team did have the ball, they were unable to break through the Penn State line for any substantial gains. Penn State should have won on five occasions the Frosh carried the ball over the Kiski five yard line and were unable to put the ball over. The Kiski line held like a stone wall when the Kiski team did have the ball, they were unable to break through the Penn State line almost at will and they were also able to make a great number of successful passes. However when it came to a pinch, the Kiski line clearly outplayed the Frosh.

Obviously the Kiski team gave the Frosh practically no trouble. The academy team never got beyond the Freshmen's forty yard line.

Probably the best individual stars of the game were Kratz and Lowry for Penn State and Pendigraat, the Kiski tackle. The latter played a wonderful defensive game. In fact, had it not been for his ability to get through the Frosh line and make tackle after tackle, it is certain that the Freshmen would have won the game by several touchdowns. Kratz was easily the star of the Freshman team. He is a bit light for the job of halfback, but he is a fast clever runner and seems to have won a permanent position on the Frosh team. Kratz and Lowry were the best ground gainers on the Freshman team.

Flock, Anderson and McCoy played the best game in the line. Flock stood out conspicuously in his defensive playing, throwing the Kiski backs several times for large losses. Anderson's work was a considerable improvement over anything that he has exhibited so far this year. Gregory, in the Freshman backfield, punted better than ever but he was very weak in showing interference.

Gray, the Kiski center played a very good defensive game. He also did some fine punting for the academy. Jones, who played left end for the Kiski team, also deserves credit for the manner in which he broke up most of the plays that came to his side of the line.

The line-up was as follows:

Kiski	Penn State
Gray ... center.	Shaner
Fenton ... right guard.	Alwine
McGe ... right tackle.	Artelt
Wild ... right end.	Anderson
West ... quarterback.	Kerstetter
Robenstein ... right halfback.	Lowry
McNally ... fullback.	Gregory

Substitutions—Penn State, Yost for Artelt, Hartman for Kerstetter, Wilson for Gregory.

HALLOWEEN PARTY STAGED BY "REHABS"

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Rehabilitation Club staged a Halloween party at the "Rehab" club rooms last Saturday evening. Fifty couples, all wearing masks, attended, and the costumes they wore were gratifyingly varied and original.

The entertainment for the guests consisted in singing, dancing, and playing of games, and the usual refreshments were served.

Mrs. L. Potts won the prize for the most originally costumed woman, while N. A. Hanson '24 was the most completely disguised man. Mrs. E. C. Akery and Mr. Frank Barley captured the awards for the funniest getups.

President Joseph F. Miller announced at the party that over one hundred places have already been reserved for the annual banquet of the Rehabilitation Club, which occurs next Saturday evening.

The Rehabs certainly will not lack prominent personages at the Pennsylvania Day festival, as Dr. Thomas, Dr. Shuman, all the deans, and Professors Bressler and E. K. Hibshman, along with several men prominently known throughout the state, have accepted invitations to attend.

Out-of-Doors

The Outing Club which was organized two years ago and had such a successful season last year, is being organized this fall for a much more successful and interesting time. As yet there is no permanent or definite form of government, that of last year being the form of an experiment. At a meeting held last week, however, an important step was taken in the selecting of a committee to draw up a constitution by which the club may be governed. Plans were also discussed concerning the manner of choosing an executive board. At the next meeting which will be held Wednesday, November ninth, it is certain that the organization of the Club will be well under way.

As it is the aim of the Club to stimulate interest in outdoor sports, especially hiking, a cabin was secured last year at Charter Oak. This was a place to which members of the club could hike and spend the week end. This is only a small part of the ambitions of the club. They intend to place a chain of cabins over the mountains besides having the trails which will be most used indicated by means of signs.

It is probable also that a column will be run once a week in the COLLEGIAN with the description of a certain hike with directions to reach the destination and a description of the several points of interest in the nearby mountains.

A year ago last spring a group of men in the college established the Penn State Outing Club, an organization modeled in general purpose and nature after the well-known Dartmouth organization. They desired to organize and promote the interests and love of the out-of-doors. State College is surrounded by a country unusually favorable to such activities as are promoted by the club and the scheme has flourished. The play received the hearty support and co-operation of Berdek and the department of physical education was instrumental in securing the first cabin, located near Charter Oak. In the last year the club slowly got under way in its activities.

Facts on the Game

The Golden Tornado seemed to be only a refreshing gale to the Penn State players after its first sweep across the Polo Grounds. Penn State felt the full force of the tornado in the first few minutes of play but Killingers long run for a goal from the kickoff soon had a great soothing effect on the disturbing element.

A large Penn State pennant floating from the staff of an "L" station just outside of the grounds showed forth and work on the part of some State College supporters. Two nonster Blue and White banners were also conspicuously displayed on the field.

Fifteen minutes before the game started, only about ten or fifteen thousand spectators were seated. Then a steady stream continued to come even after the players were in action until thirty thousand people had found seats in the stands, some of which were especially built for the occasion.

When Killinger filtered through the entire Tech team for a touchdown from the kickoff he showed the spectators something they often read about but very rarely witness. "Killie" showed himself to be of All-American calibre on Saturday by his wonderful broken field running, by his handling of lovable punts on the run, by hurling long and short forward passes with the accuracy of a baseball, by kicking well and by running the team in the manner of a great field general.

The whole team played well and Yellow Jackets could not hold the varied attack of the Lions Lightner and Wilson were consistent ground gainers and they went through the Tech line for many advances. McCollum at left end caught forward passes in a manner that was amazing.

Penn State's cheering was aided greatly by many visitors and supporters in the section who received printed cards containing the yells of the Nittany School. These were distributed by the cheer leaders who worked hard in encouraging the team to victory. The Georgia Tech rooters introduced something new into college cheering by the constant use of the bass and snare drums as an accompaniment to the yells.

Friendly rivalry existed between the bands of the two schools, as they played numbers, one directly following the other before the game. Between halves the Penn State band paraded between the goal posts and made a "hit" by playing "Dixie" directly in front of the Georgia cheering section. After the game, the band also paraded on the field followed by the rooters from Penn State.

"You beat us and beat us fair and good. We knew you were a good team but didn't know you were that good," said Coach Alexander of Georgia Tech to Hugo Berdek after the contest. He also congratulated the officials in their impartial and efficient manner in handling the game.

"Andy" Lytle made the trip to New York and arrived on the Polo grounds early. Students immediately saw him and called on Penn State's oldest active supporter for a speech. "Andy" was just preparing to do so when the Georgia Tech band started to play and the rooters momentarily forgot about him.

"Red" Barron at right half played the most effective game for Tech and largely by his swift and hard plunges and end runs was the team from the South able to score a touchdown.

Great cheers greeted Captain George Snell when he commenced warming up on the side lines and lasted until he went into the game in the last quarter. Berdek sat back on the players' bench and smiled as his pupils swamped the Southerners. Georgia Tech, with a bag full of tricks, could not compete with the Penn State team with a list of fundamental plays every man had mastered. "Be" must be saving a lot for his encounter with the Navy in two weeks.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarette aftertaste, It's Camels for you.
