NITANY TEAM FACES SUPREME TEST IN NAVY

Nitany Line-ups Uncertain

The eve of the big game finds the Penn State line-up decidedly uncertain, because of numerous injuries to players in the past two or three weeks. Captain Snell, whose throat became infected a few days before the Harvard game and who was back in practice last week, suffered a relapse and may be out for the remainder of the season. He was operated on at the beginning of the week and is recovering rapidly, but it is doubtful if he will even be in shape for the Pitt game. His incapability will be a serious loss to the team. Coach Bezdak has been making the best of the situation, though, and has been grooming Knabb and Cornwall for the fullback position. Knabb has played in the last three games and is working well but Cornwall has shown such improvement that it is almost a foregone conclusion that he will start tomorrow. The assignment will probably go to Knabb, with Cornwall getting into the fray at some later stage of the game.

In the line, Baer, the left guard, who injured his knee last week, appeared at his old position on Tuesday and remained there during the week. Logue, though, who played in Baer's position against Carnegie Tech, is putting up a great fight for the place and will probably get a chance in the Navy game, although Baer will start. Baer's main advantage over Logue lies in his superior weight, and weight will count against the Middle. The left wing is also somewhat in doubt. McCollum strained his right shoulder in the Georgia Tech contest and has not been able to get into practice all week, "Bezz" not wishing to take any chances of further crippling his star end. In all probability, McCollum's place will be filled by Frank, who played such a fine game last Saturday. Frank is rapidly assuming the role of varsity left end and, under the steady coaching of Martin and Bezdak, is developing into a first-class wingman. The other positions, both in the backfield and in the line, will be held by the same individuals who started in the Carnegie Tech game.

Despite the unsavory weather conditions which existed this week, the Penn State coaching staff had the players out bright and early each day and drove them until long after midnight. Nothing was overlooked. Players, as well as coaches, realize that tomorrow will bring perhaps the hardest test of the year for Penn State and they are determined to take the measure of Navy. The rivalry between Navy and this institution has always been friendly and quiet, but the climax will be attained when the two eleven clash tomorrow. "Eez" is exceedingly anxious to win the Middle for numerous reasons and he is banking considerably on a victory. Many new plays have been evolved particularly for this game, the Nitany team practicing on them diligently in order to put them across with success, and if Coach Bezdak's bag of tricks do not contain one or two foibles for the Navy, it will be a miracle. Penn State followers may look for a real game at any rate.

DARTMOUTH GAME ENDS FROSH GRID SEASON

beat them decisively. In one of the more recent games they defeated Goddard Seminary in a contest which was very much one-sided. Coach Heselton used three teams in this game and the substitutes performed almost as well as the regulars. Like the Penn State-Dartmouth game which was played the same day, the last quarter of the Dartmouth-Goddard contest was played in darkness.

On the defense, the Big Green Freshmen are apparently very strong as few teams have been able to gain consistently against them. In almost every game played this fall, their opponents have had to resort to the forward passing game in order to gain any ground at all. Offensively, the Dartmouth team has a reputation for its smashing line plunging and handling of forward passes. Their game with Penn State Freshmen will be their first real test of the season however, and their appearance may be quite different when they hit a team that has a reputation such as Coach Hermann's. Among the best of Dartmouth's players are Captain Bjorkman, who plays right end and also kicks the goals, Brown, a substitute halfback, Stevens, the quarterback, and Yarnell the other halfback. Stevens is noted for his ability to run in the open field. Yarnell is a consistent ground gainer and may be counted upon to get a few yards when it is needed.

The Penn State Frosh line-up will be changed considerably from that which played against Pitt last week. Keastetter will go back at quarter in place of Captain Hartman who ran the team last Saturday. Gregory will replace Wilson at fullback, Captain Hartman will go back to his old position at left halfback and Cooke will replace Anderson at right end. The team that will represent the Frosh on the field tomorrow will line up practically the same as they did before the shake up which preceded the Pitt game. All week they have been working hard to get the team work down a little smoother. They looked especially good when playing one of the varsity teams last Wednesday evening.

The line-up will be as follows:
Penn State Frosh Dartmouth Frosh
McCoy L. E. Coykendall

Parshall	L. T.	Horshey
Flock	L. G.	Martin
Shaner	C.	Montgomery
Yost	R. G.	Sweetser

DRAMATIC CLUB CONCEALS CHARACTER OF NEW PLAY

With the manuscript all but completed, the preparation of the stage is already under way, and the actual rehearsals to start in a week or two, the next presentation of the Thespians, which Professor Harris refuses to say anything other than that it is "spectacular," which is to be given on the twenty-ninth of January will undoubtedly uphold the Thespian's reputation for unsurpassable musical comedy. For this play, the Thespians plan to use not only the members of the Thespian society, but to enlist the best talent in the college in order to insure the success of the play.

This latest purely Penn State production of this dramatic organization is cloaked in the same sort of mystery in which "King Pompompus" was concealed until a few weeks before its presentation. The managers and directors refuse to tell anything about the play—not even the name. All that is known at the present time is that the play is the result of the joint work of Byron Knapp, who graduated last Spring, and Professor Harris of the English Department, and indications seem to point that, until the Thespians choose to talk, that is all that can be published.

REASONABLE RATE FOR SEATTLE TRIP OFFERED TO PENN STATE FRESHMEN

A solution to the problem of transporting tourists to the Pacific Coast is offered to Penn State by students of the University of California. At least they have solved this problem for their game with Washington State in Portland, Oregon. Arrangements have been made with officials of the Southern Pacific Railway to make the trip in freight cars and a price of $1 a head has been established. The officials feel that the railroads will be of tough enough material so that the extra rate for "Perishable" goods need not be charged.

X COUNTRY MEN PLAY HARE AND HOUND RACE AT CORNELL

A Hare and Hound Race has been instituted at Cornell by Coach Monksley for the training of men in distance running. One of these runs is to take place every Friday during November, and will be under the direction of the Physical Training Department. In this way the long distance men will get a little spice and variety in their usually monotonous work.

PENN QUINTEZ STARTING PRACTICE FOR 1922 SEASON

The University of Pennsylvania basketball quintet which will, in all probability, oppose the Blue and White team this coming season has already begun practice. Pennsylvania, intercollegiate champion last year, has the entire first team, with the exception of Captain McNeel, back from last year intact. With practically the whole personnel of the rest of the squad still together, little difficulty is anticipated in filling the vacancy left by last year's leader. Daily drills will be given the squad from now on and a cut will be made in the squad soon. Several workouts a week will be held in the evening as late classes have prevented many of the men from regular attendance at the practice sessions.

NEW FROSH CUSTOMS AT UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

The Student Council of the University of Georgia, shortly after the opening of the college year, passed two orders for the freshmen, as follows: General Order No. 1: No freshman shall enter the pool-rooms of the city. General Order No. 2: Freshmen are prohibited from attending dances except as follows:

Freshmen affiliated with a fraternity may attend only their respective annual fraternity dance. Non-fraternity Freshmen may attend only one annual dance to be designated by the Student Council. In addition all freshmen may attend the annual Freshmen Club Dance.

GET THE GIRL FOR THE PHILA. COUNTY CLUB DANCE

At a meeting of the Philadelphia County Club last Thursday evening elections were held and the following officers selected for the coming year: President, W. L. Lovden; Vice-President, G. H. King; Treasurer, R. Oxford; Secretary, G. C. Lemuth. Plans for the coming dance to be held November nineteenth at the Sigma Chi House were discussed and every member of the club was urged to be present.

MILITARY DRILL SUSPENDED FOR WINTER MONTHS

Due to the inclemency of the weather, all outdoor military drill has been discontinued until next spring. All instruction up until that time will be given in the classroom, and will deal with the rudiments of modern warfare. The Sergeants and Freshmen will not be required to wear their uniforms while attending these indoor classes.

PRESIDENT THOMAS GREAT BELIEVER IN FOOTBALL

"I believe in football because it is the college sport above all others," says President John M. Thomas of the Pennsylvania State College. Under the tutelage of Coach Hugo Bezdak, the Penn State eleven has this fall made a nation-wide name for itself, and President Thomas is one of its most enthusiastic boosters. He says further:

"I believe in football because it fixes in every student the spirit of fight and will to win. It is all a mistake that the men in the stands get no benefit. They receive incalculable benefit in the spirit that surges thru them in support of the team—the spirit of determination and irresistible attack."

PENN STATE RIFLE CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED FOR COMING YEAR

Major H. B. Johnson of the Military Department is at the present time reorganizing the Penn State rifle club, and will call a meeting in the near future for the purpose of bringing the club together once more. At this meeting there will be a discussion of the coming activities of the club in view of competing with similar teams in other colleges.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR YALE ATHLETIC GROUNDS

Plans have been drawn up for improvements in the facilities of Yale University, calling for an expenditure of approximately $300,000. The plans include a new track on the site of the old Freshmen football field, the erection of a concrete grandstand which will seat thousands of spectators, and a house containing twenty-four hundred lockers.

COLLEGE EXPENSES ADVANCE GREATLY IN ONE CENTURY

In these days of the high cost of living it would be far from possible to attend college at an annual expenditure of less than one hundred dollars per year, but in the ancient days grandfather, or even great, great grandfather was able to spend a year in college at a sum even less than that mentioned. According to information that has been received from the Dartmouth Northwestern Association of Minnesota, in 1832 a man was able to go thru Dartmouth College at an annual expenditure of ninety-four dollars, paying a dollar and a half per week for his board. This fact was brought out recently when members of the Minnesota Association were listening to a reading from one of the old college catalogues.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI PASSES FRATERNITY RULES

The latest ruling of the University of Missouri regarding fraternity activities provides that failure in any subject will make fraternity men inactive members of their chapters. The ruling was passed by the Interfraternity Council at the University, and will likewise deprive members of the privilege of rooming in their fraternity houses.

ATTEMPT TO RESTORE TREE STRUCK BY BOLT OF LIGHTNING

An interesting experiment is being performed by the students in Landscape Gardening near the Engineering Building. A recent storm apparently destroyed a large fine tree by breaking off nearly one half of it. This large section has been raised by block and tackle and bolted on to the main part of the tree in its original position. It is expected that it will renew its growth and that a fine tree will not be lost from the campus. Several other phases of tree surgery are being done by these students about the campus to prevent and cure several diseases that have infected some of the best trees.

CORNELL AND SWARTHMORE INAUGURATE NEW "PREXYs"
Penn State was not the only college to inaugurate a new president this fall, for not much later than two weeks after Dr. Thomas assumed his new title at Pennsylvania State, Dr. Frank Adyolotte became president of Swarthmore and Dr. Livingston Farrand became president of Cornell. Both of these inaugurations were similar to the one which was held at Penn State and were marked by large inaugural dinners, student parades, impressive inauguration ceremonies, visits from five hundred delegates from all the colleges in the world, and a football game.
