RUSSIAN VIOLINIST DECLARED A GENIUS BY MUSIC CRITICS

Grisha Monasewitch Will Play A Difficult Program in the Auditorium Saturday

TO BE ABLY ASSISTED

Artist Caused Sensation in Philadelphia About One Year Ago

Grisha Monasewitch, the young Russian violinist, who will give a concert in the Auditorium next Saturday evening, is regarded throughout the musical world as probably the most promising of young violinists of the present generation. Ever since he appeared in the sensational recital which he gave in Philadelphia just about a year ago, this young artist has been asking a prominent place in the discussions of musicians and critics throughout the nation.

In that first appearance, before a Philadelphia audience, last January this youthful violinist played a very difficult program with such ease that he was immediately declared a virtuoso. He played with ease showing skill throughout the performance and his exquisite tone, lightness of touch and ease of fingering the most difficult passages showed clearly that he is an artist of remarkable ability. Monasewitch's second appearance before the Philadelphia music public was hailed with even more praise and compliment than the first. On that occasion the Philadelphia Record stated, "His playing is characterized by boldness of tone and freedom of technique, showing his unusual talent and ardent application. His interpretations are musically correct and interesting while at the same time he exhibits strong individuality."

Last January Monasewitch won a scholarship to the Itasca Conservatory of Music and ever since that time he has been devoting himself to constant study. Occasionally, however, he is able to give a recital and his appearance at Penn State next Saturday will mark one of the few occasions when he has been able to appear before the public during the present year.

PLAYERS WIN ANOTHER TRIUMPH IN COMEDIES

Three Unique One Act Sketches Presented by Well-Balanced Casts

Presenting three one act plays last Saturday evening in the Auditorium, the Penn State Players began a series of short plays which are to be given throughout the year. The three plays enacted Saturday evening were comedies of human nature type, each depicting some phases of daily life in a most humorous and exaggerated manner. No admission was charged, but in order to defray expenses a silver offering was taken. It is intended to put a part of this money to use in the purchase of much needed stage property.

The first presentation was entitled "Aren't They Wonderful," the scene of which was laid in an office. The usual complications arose between the clerk and the stenographer and the boss's wife. Mrs. Torry whose part was played by Miss Katherine Hamilton '23 was alienating the affections of Tom Furren, the clerk, for Miss Kaye played by Miss Sharpless. Miss Sharpless was the outstanding character, playing her part in a plucky manner. D. D. Mison and Daniel Creato '23 took the parts of Mr. Torry and Tom Furren respectively.

"The Dear Departed" was a comedy of the East Side. It shows the humorous situation arising from the premature dividing of the fortunes of a supposedly dead grandfather. However the Grandfather "came to" and upset all plans of the conspirators. The old man climaxed the play by announcing his intentions of marriage. D. E. Portfield enacted the part of the Grandfather and his performance was equal if not better than his characterization of the Hermit in "Seven Keys to Baldpate" which was given last year.

A Russian comedy entitled "The Proposal" was the last of the three plays presented. This was the most interesting of the entire group as it depicted to a great degree the emotions and action of the excited Russians. Daniel Creato '23, Miss Mary Mumford '23 and Mr. Cloetngh were the members of the cast and all three acted equally well in their exact if humorous characterization of Russian excitement.

DEBATERS MAY MAKE PACIFIC COAST TRIP

Nine Western Colleges and Universities Already Included on Tentative Schedule for Tour

A transcontinental tour for the debating team is becoming a brighter prospect daily and the increased interest which has been shown in the forensic art by the recent acts of Student Council and the two under classes in pledging their support in a financial way is giving a still greater impetus to debating at Penn State.

Nothing is being left undone in the endeavor to make arrangements with western colleges for debates and already nine institutions have made tentative plans for meets with the Penn State team. On this list of possible opponents are University of Kansas, University of Wyoming, University of Southern California, Oregon State Agricultural College, University of Washington, Montana State College, University of Montana, North Dakota Agricultural College, University of North Dakota.

If satisfactory terms can be agreed upon between Penn State and these institutions, the trip across the United States will be practically assured, for with funds which the debaters will receive as a result of the recent action of the Student Council and the students supporting them, the Nittany Forensic artists will have enough to send a team to the Pacific Coast.

One of the most recent letters from the west came from the University of Washington last week, accepting Penn State's offer. The post script that was appended to the letter shows the attitude of the Seattle institution toward Penn State. It reads thus: "We wish you all the luck in the world for the coming football game."

Squad of High Calibre That Penn State will have a debating squad of high calibre this season has been evidenced gaily by the work of the candidates who are trying for berths on the teams. Mr. Gates, who has charge of the debaters, states that although his proteges show no marvelous powers, they are by no means Continued on last page

DEAN CHAMBERS TO LECTURE TONIGHT

Speaker Well Fitted to Talk on His Subject "The Educational Crisis"

7:00 P. M. IN OLD CHAPEL

The twelfth annual series of Tuesday Evening Lectures under the auspices of the School of Liberal Arts will start tonight with a lecture by Dean Chambers on "The Educational Crisis."

Dean Chambers has come to take charge of the Summer Session School and Extension Division. Prior to his becoming connected with the faculty of Penn State he was a member of the instructor staff of the University of Pittsburgh, bringing him into association with many of the big educators of the country and with the educational situation. He is thoroughly informed on the educational question and is capable of presenting the facts on the present educational crisis.

These lecture series have always been of a popular nature, covering a wide variety of topics. The present series is more than ever concerned with up to the minute problems in education, literature and the arts and sciences as may be seen by an examination of the schedule. With one exception, all lectures will be held in the Old Chapel, and will begin promptly at seven o'clock not continuing over an hour in length, which will allow the audience plenty of time to attend any of the other evening entertainments given on the campus or any of the regular meetings of the Women's Club. All students and members of the faculty will of course be interested in these lectures, but there will also be presented much of real value and appeal for the residents of State College and every one is most cordially invited to attend the series.

The only lecture not held in Old Chapel will be that of February twenty first in celebration of the bicentenary of the death of Mollere. On this occasion in the Auditorium, Professor I. L. Foster will give a centenary address of Mollere which will be followed by the presentation in English of Mollere's Les Precieuses Ridicules (The Affected Young Ladies) by the Penn State Players Admission to this performance will be free.

SONGSTERS PLAN JOINT CONCERT IN QUAKER CITY

The Glee Club has accepted an invitation to combine with the Glee Club of Hahnemann Medical School of Philadelphia in staging a joint concert, the invitation including a guaranty of expenses and entertainment while in the city. The concert will be held in the ball room of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel and will be followed by a formal dance. The Philadelphia Alumni are cooperating with the Hahnemann Medical School in arranging for the concert, which will probably take place during the latter part of next March. Professor Robinson is endeavoring to arrange for concerts at Ardmore and Pottstown, with the possibility of Reading, these events to occur while the Club is on the Philadelphia trip.

OUTING CLUB PLANS PICTURE CONTEST AFTER CHRISTMAS

Pictures of Country Surrounding Penn State May Be Submitted in Competition

FOUR PRIZES OFFERED

Series of Winter Lectures Will Be Given by Club—Dr. Pattee First Speaker

A photographic contest and a winter lecture course are the features which the Outing Club has added to their already active program. The contest will be put in operation this winter and four prizes will be offered to the students who submit the best photographs picturing the activities of the club and the country about Penn State.

This contest, the Outing Club officials announce, is open to all members of the Outing Club, which should include every student since any under graduate may join this organization. The purpose of the contest, besides that of securing portfolios of Penn State out of doors, is to stimulate interest in the Outing Club and also to help the students to appreciate the surroundings of Penn State.

Rules Governing Contest The photographic contest is open to all who become members of the Outing Club. A competitor may enter any number of photographs which he must submit to the club by the first of April when the contest closes. They will then be placed on exhibit and judged by competent men.

The photographs must be taken in the vicinity of State College, that is, in the surrounding mountains or country within a fifty-mile radius. They must be taken by the competitor himself, must have a title and mention the approximate location at which they were taken. The pictures entered will become the property of the Outing Club and will constitute the beginning of a permanent collection.

The subjects are divided into three groups which are called: (1) Wild life, (2) Snow scenes, and (3) Landscapes. They will be judged for composition, photographic effect, and subject matter. Substantial prizes will be offered which will be announced later. A Grand Prize will be given for the best picture of the collection and three first prizes, one in each of the three groups. The picture winning the Grand Prize cannot win any of the group prizes.

The collection, after its showing here, will be sent to the Dartmouth Outing Club for exhibition. This will be in return for a valuable group of lantern slides and pictures which they are lending to the Penn State Outing Club.

Dr. Pattee Starts Lecture Series Another feature which the club will inaugurate this winter is a series of lectures by prominent men in the college. The first of these will be given by Dr. Pattee soon after the Christmas vacation. As a graduate of Dartmouth College and a pioneer member of the Dartmouth Outing Club he is especially well fitted to speak on the beautiful White Mountain country that surrounds that college and on the work of the Dartmouth Outing Club. His lecture will be illustrated by the pictures from Dartmouth and promises to be a most interesting event.

Girls Glee Club Plans Concerts This Winter The Girls' Glee Club is practicing steadily for several programs which they will offer during the next few months. As yet but two of their appearances have been definitely decided upon, but others are in view, and Professor Robinson and Dean Knight are endeavoring to complete definite arrangements for them.

On December fifteenth, the Varsity Girls' Quartet together with the Varsity Male Quartet will render a combined program entitled "Christmas Revels" at the University Club. Beside selections by both of the quartets, Miss Fulton '23, will give several numbers. The principal feature of the evening will be the offering of a number of Christmas Carols by the combined quartets.

Both the Varsity Girls' Quartet and Freshman Girls' Quartet will appear on a program which the Girls' Glee Club will render January twentieth. Following is a list of the names of Continued on last page

FEROCIOUS ATTACK OF NITTANY LIONS PROVES TOO STRONG FOR WASHINGTON

Penn State Marches Length Of Field Many Times--Killinger Finishes Gridiron Career In Glory

Two Extra Periods Played In An Effort to Break Tie--Gaul Scores for Penn State

Penn State's 1921 football season ended in a blaze of glory last Saturday afternoon at Seattle when the ferocious Nittany Lions invaded the lair of the University of Washington Sun Dodgers and battered thru the west-erners for a 21-7 victory. It was a great intercollegiate battle, one which showed the mighty irresistible attack of the Bezedekian machine and one which will live in the minds of Washington gridiron fans for a long time to come. Despite the heroic efforts of the Seattle warriors, who exhibited the best form they have shown during the entire season, Penn State, led by its sensational quarterback, Killinger, pushed them back again and again and eventually registered three touchdowns.

Killinger, playing his last and greatest game for the Blue and White team, stood out head and shoulders above the stellar work of other players and displayed a brand of football which caused Western newspapers to stamp him as the greatest back ever seen on the Pacific Coast. His remarkable line plunging, open field running, punting, bullet like forward passes, and generalship undermined the westerners and were directly responsible for the Nittany scores, although "Killy" himself failed to cross the line. He carried the ball three fourths of the time and rarely failed to gain.

Nittany Drive Irresistible The drive of the Nittany eleven as a whole was a beautiful thing to watch and was really proved ample for an eastern victory. Penn State's scoring was accomplished in the first three quarters of the game, a touchdown being made in each period. Knabb scored first on a short line buck, McCollum tallied next after receiving a pass from Killinger, and finally Redinger crossed the goal line on a sweep- ing end run.

Washington pushed over its only counter in the third period as the result of great work by the Sun Dodgers star halfback, Eckman. The westerners secured the ball on downs on Penn State's thirty-five yard line, and with Eckman as the center of attack, gradually worked their way toward the Nittany goal. Eckman finally plunged the ball over in this drive, the brilliant half was a veritable whirlwind and carried the pigskin for three consecutive plays. His playing during the afternoon was surpassed only by Killinger.

FROSH HOLD FIRST HARD PRACTICE FOR SOPH GAME

Sophomores Handicapped by Absence of Men Who Made the Trip to Seattle

After having a rest of over three weeks, the Freshman football squad reported for practice yesterday afternoon in order to get in shape for the Freshman-Sophomore scrap which will be held next Saturday. About twenty five of Coach Hermann's men reported and went through a general workout, tackling the dummy, punting, passing and going through signal drill. The Frosh will spend the rest of the week in developing their endurance and in getting the stiffness out of their limbs after so long a rest. It is quite likely that the Freshmen will use almost the same line-up in the game next Saturday as they used four weeks previous to that time in the game against the Dartmouth Freshmen.

Coach Herman, who is also grooming for their varsity basketball candidates for their initial game with the Juniata quintet has such a difficult task before him in developing a cage team that he will be unable to carry on the work of coaching the Frosh for the coming interclass contest and in his absence the work will be in charge of Frank Hess '23.

In view of the fact that the Frosh have been playing together all fall, very little remains for them to do other than get their team in smooth running order. The Sophomores are still busy under the leadership of Coach "Dick" '22. The latter is handicapped in his work because several members of the Sophomore class, who will undoubtedly make their class team, are at the present time in the squad which went to Seattle. Some of the men who are on this trip will probably make the team as Frank, end, Crowthers, tackle; Johnson, guard, Hamilton, center, and Cornwall, fullback. There is a possibility of Cornwall and Frank receiving letters for playing varsity football and if they do, they will not be able to participate in Saturday's interclass scrap. Sixteen men have been reporting to Coach Rauch every day and they are all making a strong bid for the various positions. Those men are going through general workouts similar to those in which the Freshmen are engaged in.

FRESHMAN COEDS HOLD ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The 1925 girls have elected as their officers for the coming year: Miriam Herr, president; Miss Dorothy George, vice-president; and Miss Susan Foster, secretary.

HAVERFORD SOCCER GAME RESULTS IN A ONE POINT DEADLOCK

Two Extra Periods Played In An Effort to Break Tie--Gaul Scores for Penn State

Three successive seasons without a defeat! This is the record of the Penn State soccer team as it closed its 1921 card last Saturday in Philadelphia with a tie score with the Haverford eleven. This is the result obtained by balancing the accounts of the games included in three hard seasons for the Nittany booters with such teams as Syracuse, Toronto, Cornell, Lehigh, and Haverford. And the same last week was a fitting climax to these contests for it was the hardest fought and the most bitterly contested clash that has been staged in soccer circles for many a year in the East.

Haverford Scores First Early indications seemed to point to a wet field for an exceptionally heavy downpour of rain fell throughout the preceding afternoon and the early part of the night. But during the night, a wind from the north dried out the field before the morning workout of the Blue and White squad so that by noon, only a small part of the field was in bad condition and that was near the southern goal. By the time that the game was called, the wind had become considerably stronger and blew from the north over the length of the field.

Certainly the Haverford team and the Haverfordians chose to defend the north goal, which gave them the advantage of the wind. The first ten minutes of the game were a struggle.

After having a rest of over three weeks, the Freshman football squad reported for practice yesterday afternoon in order to get in shape for the Freshman-Sophomore scrap which will be held next Saturday. About twenty five of Coach Hermann's men reported and went through a general workout, tackling the dummy, punting, passing and going through signal drill.
