

DR. ARMSBY'S PORTRAIT PRESENTED IN CHICAGO

Memory of Penn State Scientist Is Honored by Friends of Saddle and Sirlion Club

The memory of the late Dr. H. P. Armsby, former director of the Institute of Animal Nutrition, was highly honored on Saturday afternoon, November twenty sixth when over two hundred members of the American Society of Animal Production gathered in the banquet hall of the Saddle and Sirlion Club at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago. The gathering had originally been planned as a testimonial meeting for Dr. Armsby and Professor J. H. Shoppard of the Dakota Agricultural College for their long service in scientific study. Dr. Armsby's death in the meantime caused a change in the nature of the gathering. Two large portraits, one of each man mentioned, were presented to the club and they now hang in the gallery with those of other men famous for their work in animal studies.

E. S. Bayard, one of the college trustees, and Editor of the National Stockman and Farmer, presented the Armsby picture and fittingly referred to the life of this great scientist. Professor J. A. Fries, of the School of Agriculture, who was an associate of Dr. Armsby spoke on the high character of his former chief and the value of his work. Other Penn State men who attended the meeting were H. H. Eavner, M. F. Grimes, W. W. Brauman and E. M. Christen.

ORCHARD YIELDS WELL DESPITE SPRING FROSTS

Twenty-five hundred bushels of apples in the Horticultural Department orchard survived the early frosts of the last apple season, due to the intelligent and constant attention given them this year by the workers of the Department. This is a very good yield for the season just past, since the apple crop throughout the state is small. Indeed, the Horticultural Department considers itself fortunate to have had any crop at all. Last year the orchard produced four thousand bushels, and a still larger crop is anticipated for 1922, since a young orchard which has not yet borne apples will come into bearing next season.

It is interesting to note that in the orchard controlled by the Horticultural Department there are seventy varieties of apples. This year the Yorks constituted the main bulk of the crop, with a yield of sixteen hundred bushels. Baldwins came next with four hundred bushels, while two hundred and fifty bushels of Stammers and fifty bushels of Jonans were picked. All the other varieties gave smaller amounts than fifty bushels.

The Horticultural Department has two main objects in view for cultivating so many varieties of apples in the college orchard. In the first place, one of the phases of experimental work in fruit is the testing of all varieties with an eye to learning their merits for Pennsylvania conditions. Also, a phase of the teaching of Pomology is to acquaint the students with a large number of kinds of apples.

RIFLE CLUB WILL MEET GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

A meeting of the Penn State Rifle Club will be held in 314 Old Main tomorrow evening at seven o'clock to complete the present organization and to discuss the matches planned for this winter.

A contest with Georgetown University has been arranged and will be held some time next semester probably early in February if the present plans materialize. The University of Pittsburgh wanted a match with the Penn State Rifle Club last year and is one of the possible opponents on this winter's program. A contest under the auspices of the War Department as a part of the R. O. T. C. work will also be held some time this winter. The members of the Rifle Club are using the Armory gallery every day now and many accurate shots are being developed. The Club has about thirty five rifles for the use of its members, all being 22 calibre Stevens target rifles. The use of this rifle is becoming as prominent in national contests as the .30 high power rifle. The club is looking forward to the spring when it hopes to be on its new outdoor range which is to be built on the College farm near the disposal plant. The new range will provide for both one and two hundred yard practice for 22 calibre rifles.

HEALTH SERVICE REPORTS FOR MONTH OF NOVEMBER

The Department of Student Health Service reports a slight decrease in the number of visits to the office for the month of November. Coughs, colds, and sore throats have been the prevailing ailments, which could be prevented to a certain extent, if more care was taken by the students. Two serious cases of scarlet fever have been reported for this month also. The monthly report is as follows:
485 Office Calls
361 New Patients
282 New Conditions
80 Applications for Exemptions
14 In bed in infirmary
25 Referred to other doctors, dentists, and eye specialists.

MEMBER OF POULTRY HUSB. STAFF SUFFERS BAD FALL

Mr. L. W. Steelman, Extension Specialist in the Poultry Husbandry Department, accidentally fell down an elevator shaft at one of the local garages recently, the fall causing him to lose consciousness for a time. Although the accident necessitates Mr. Steelman's remaining in bed for some time, his injuries are not thought to be serious.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS MANAGERS AT MEETING

At a meeting of the Freshman class which was held last Thursday night in the Bull Pen a number of class athletic managers were elected and the Fresh won on record as being in favor of the small increase in semester fees which will be used to boost debating at Penn State.

Calhoun '24, one of the six trial presidents elected by the class opened the meeting. E. W. Fell '25 was elected football manager and L. W. Tuck '25 was elected lacrosse manager. After the election of managers, the proposition advanced by E. E. Overdorf '22 that twenty five cents be placed on the semester fees as incidentals for debating was placed in the form of a motion and passed unanimously.

This will increase the class revenue ten cents per man per semester, since fifteen cents has been taken out of the class dues for this purpose each semester up to this time.

Candidates for class cheer leader were also nominated at the meeting. The final election will be held sometime before the annual freshman sophomore football scrap, which is to take place this coming Saturday. It was also decided to give Rags Madera a letter shower at the suggestion of Muchitz '22 head cheer leader.

MORE WHITE RATS FOR VITAMINE EXPERIMENTS

A colony of specially-bred white rats has recently been obtained by the Department of Agricultural Chemistry to replace those destroyed in the recent fire on Ag Hill. These rats will be used for breeding a new colony of rodents for vitamin experiments.

New apparatus is also being secured from time to time in preparation for beginning anew this very important work.

Those in charge of the experiments state that the outlook for continuance of the work is very favorable, and that the new laboratory promises to be one of the most complete animal laboratories in the country. Miss Emma Francis, and Miss Julia Aulthouse will have charge of the work, under Professor R. A. Dutcher, as before.

YALE WILL USE FIFTEEN MILLIONS FOR BUILDINGS

Plans for immense constructions have been laid at the University of Yale. The sum of $16,000,000 is already on hand to carry out the project. Buildings to be constructed are: New dormitories, a new University Library; chemical laboratory; and a new Peabody Museum. John G. Rogers of New York is the architect now engaged by the university officials to take charge. The plans have all been completed.

FORESTRY GRADUATE WILL LECTURE TO ENGINEERS

The engineering lecture this Friday will be by H. R. Condon '23, a graduate of the Department of Forestry, on the subject of "Wood and its Preservation." Mr. Condon is Assistant Forester for the Pennsylvania Railroad and is thoroughly familiar with cross-cutting and other treatments of bridge timber, ties and other products. The lecture will be held at 4:30 this Friday in room 200 Engineering D.

The last Friday lecture by J. P. Jordan, Industrial Engineer of New York, was one of the best of the year, consisting as it did of personal management problems. The room was crowded and emphasized the importance of having the new Engineering Buildings and a larger lecture room.
