SELF SACRIFICE IS THEME BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Self sacrifice was the keynote upon which Dr. Thomas constructed the baccalaureate sermon that was delivered last Sunday morning at chapel. Through all the ages this has been the mark of greatness and will ever remain so.

How can one individual do anything that will be worth while? Here at college, one graduate is but a small atom compared to the million or so of humanity who form the vast masses of the population of our eastern states or of the hundred millions that compose the population of this great nation.

But history gives some very interesting examples of men who have overcome the handicap of numbers. Amos, a prophet of the old testament and a timber of sycamore trees, arose from the obscurity of a sparsely settled mountainous country to deliver a message that has lived throughout many centuries.

Humor and Satire may, however, give "Ting" considerable trouble. He thinks for the Lehigh meet will continue tonight and tomorrow. They will be held at five thirty o'clock this evening and at two thirty o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Interclass meet has been postponed until the twenty-fifth of February, and on the evening of the month the Freshman team, which recently lost to the Sophomores by one point, will meet the Two Year "Angels" representatives.

No meet has been arranged for next Saturday and the Nittany boxers will have a period of two weeks in which to prepare for the next two strenuous fortnights when three contests, in foreign rings and a final meet in the Armory on four successive Saturdays will complete probably the most difficult boxing schedule undertaken by a Penn State team.

THE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Dr. Lewis took for his subject "The Call for Educational Leaders" and used the quotation "Whither goes thou?" for the keynote of his talk. Dr. Lewis said that the schools and colleges of the country had set for themselves the task of answering this question, and upon the products of these institutions rests the responsibility of the result. He spoke of the immense number of college students in the United States and asserted that to these we must look for the efficient leadership of our nation in the future.

Following Dr. Lewis' address, President John Martin Thomas conferred the Bachelor Degrees upon the members of the outgoing senior class, and the Master's Degrees upon the seven candidates. Major Elton D. Walker, of the School of Engineering spoke of the men who had given up their college courses when their country was menaced by war and awarded certificates expressing the appreciation of the College for the military service which prevented them from graduating with their respective classes.

Savoir faire Here is the first attribute of a citizen of the world. Few books can impart it, yet it comes naturally with college training. Such easy familiarity with the good things of life leads naturally to Melachrino, "the one cigarette sold the world over". Remember that Melachrino is a master blend of only the finest Turkish Tobaccos as originated by Miltades Melachrino. Egyptian cigarettes are simply those that originated in Egypt. But the tobacco is what you want to know about—and if it's Melachrino—it's right. Melachrino "The One Cigarette Sold the World Over"
