BASKETEERS TRIM PRESIDENT QUINTET AND REAP REVENGE

Score Overwhelming Victory Over W. & J. in Second Encounter—Score is 32 to 15

BOTH TEAMS PLAY POOR GAME IN FIRST PERIOD

Lion's Swift Come-Back in Last Half Wins Contest—Koehler in Lime-Light Again

After displaying a slow and uninteresting half for almost the entire half of the game, Coach Hermann's varsity tossers finally struck their stride on last Saturday evening and succeeded in downing W. & J. by the decisive score of 32 to 15. It was a great victory for the Blue and White quintet and closed the season for them in so far as games with other institutions are concerned. The 1921-1922 schedule will not close officially until this Saturday when a team, chosen from former Penn State floor stars, will invade the Army and oppose the varsity passers.

Minus the fine services of the Conn brothers last Saturday evening, the Presidents lacked the punch which they possessed in the first encounter with the Lions this year and, after the initial half, were entirely at the mercy of the latter aggregation. It was at least seventeen minutes, however, before Hermann's men broke through the Red and Black defense and landed a field goal. During all this time, both teams fought wildly in an effort to get near the basket but with their attempts proving futile, the battle consisted mainly of a foul shooting duel between Reed of Penn State and Eaton of W. & J. Reed dropped two through the hoop before Eaton scored but the latter gradually worked up to the level set by the Nittany foul shooter and, at the end of seventeen minutes of play, the count was tied at 4 to 4.

Koehler gives Penn State the lead. At this stage of the game, Acting-Captain Koehler of the Blue and White lived up to the scrap with a neat field goal from under the basket and, although "Lyle" of the visitors followed it with a long shot and thus knocked the score even, Koehler made another two-pointer by dribbling down the floor and then gave Penn State an undisputed lead by securing a third field goal in less than thirty seconds of play. Not long afterward, Reed tossed a successful foul which made the count 11 to 6 in favor of the Nittanyites. The period came to a close at this point.

Penn State's representatives showed greatly improved spirit in the second half. The Presidents first scored through a foul goal by Eaton but Reed was on the job with a field goal and then continued his good work by negotiating two fouls in rapid order. Blair, Penn State's raring center, got loose a minute later and shot a basket which brought the Nittany count up to 17. Reed made it 15 with another foul. W. & J. came back with a slight spurt at this stage, Kopf and Cavatt each finding the iron rim of the basket with a clean throw and Eaton making his fifth foul, but as the Blue and White defense tightened up again, the Presidents were compelled to confine their scoring to foul shots from the free-throw line.

Penn State Scores Freely

The Lions, on the other hand, had found their offensive strength and in the next few minutes, scored freely. Miller started the ball rolling with a difficult overhead shot. Koehler followed with an easy basket, and then Reed secured his second field goal of the evening, thus pushing Penn State's score up to 24. He scored his ninth foul shortly afterward. With four minutes left in the game, the score was 32 to 15.

Visiting Midshipmen Win Title to Meet by One Fall and Five Decisions

CAPTAIN WATSON SECURES LONE TALLY FOR COLLEGE

Is First Time Sailors Have Been Scored Upon This Season—Ready for Springfield

A Penn State wrestling team has been defeated on their home mat in the fact that was impressed upon the crowd of spectators who packed the armory to capacity last Saturday afternoon when the grappling team from the United States Naval Academy showed their supremacy in the mat at over the Blue and White contenders. It was only after a super-human struggle in each class except one that a midshipman could rightfully claim the laurels of the bout and it was only after the chief timekeeper had called the end of the bout that a Nittany matman ceased his struggles to down his sailor opponent. For the first time this season, a team has scored upon the Nittany mat artists and for the first time this year have they been forced to bow to defeat in any of the grappling divisions.

Although the midshipmen came to the college with an exceptionally imposing record for the season, Penn State hopes for a victory over bright opponents for the first time when Captain Watson threw his salt water opponent and added the first five points to the score but as each bout was ended, chances for a victory decreased and.

PROFESSOR MCFARLAND NEXT L. A. LECTURER

Speaks on Everyday Use of Metallurgy in Old Chapel Tonight at Seven O'clock

D. F. McFarland, Professor of Metallurgy, the next speaker on the Liberal Arts Lecture course, will talk this evening in Old Chapel at seven o'clock, on the subject, "Everyday Uses of Metallurgy." Of all the countries of the world, the United States produces the greatest quantity and variety of metallurgical products, and Pennsylvania is the most important metallurgical smelting and working state in the union. As a consequence Metallurgy occupies a large portion of the daily life in the Keystone State, and those who have resided for any length of time in Pennsylvania have had opportunity to see large plants where iron is smelted and steel is made and worked. It is probably because of this fact that a Pennsylvania thinks of this phase of the subject when he thinks of the term "Metallurgy," and although this is a very important part of the subject, there is a multitude of everyday uses of Metallurgy with which most people are not well acquainted. In one way or another, however, the products of metallurgical work touch the life of every person in the community—more or less every day, and this department of the subject will be the phase upon which Professor McFarland will dwell tonight.

The widespread and special uses of metals, and particularly of those that a few years ago were extremely rare is the result of very extensive costly research carried on by a variety of agencies, often with very little idea as to the ultimate practical uses to which these metals would be put. Thus the modern automobile is possible largely because of the alloys which have been studied alloy steels, while the almost indispensable incandescent lamp is possible because the metallurgists of the General Electric Company studied out the method of making ductile tungsten.

These are only two of the hundreds of everyday uses to which Metallurgy has been put, and not only will Professor McFarland endeavor to bring out the fact that "Reverend" has made this possible, but he will also show the possibilities of improving the conditions of daily life by further research along these lines.

BRYAN LECTURES ON THE POLITICAL GAME TOMORROW

"The Great Commoner" Comes Here From Washington To Speak On National And International Questions

NEBRASKAN SPEAKS AT PENN STATE ON EVE OF SIXTY-SECOND BIRTHDAY

William Jennings Bryan "The Great Commoner," three times candidate for President of the United States, and one of the most prominent figures in national politics will speak tomorrow night at eight o'clock in the Auditorium on the subject of "Diplomacy and Politics." This will mark Mr. Bryan's second visit to Penn State within two years. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Phi Kappa Phi Honorary Society as the fourth number in their winter program.

Mr. Bryan has been a conspicuous leader in national politics since 1890. Three times he was a candidate for the presidency, was once Secretary of State, was a dominant figure in the Democratic party for many years, and during the past winter was greatly interested in the work of the Disarmament Conference at Washington. Mr. Bryan is not definitely out of American politics. Recently he moved from Lincoln, Nebraska, to Florida, where he has permanently taken up his residence and has often been mentioned as a prospective candidate for United States Senator from that state. One week ago he attended a Democratic dinner at Washington and urged all Democrats to aid in securing a quick ratification of the treaties which resulted from the recent

VICTORIES SCORED BY BARRON AND SHIELDS AT N. Y.

Penn State Takes Fifth Place In Intercollegiate Championship Games—Score 14 Points

CORNELL RUNNERS EASILY WIN MEET

Shields Makes Fine Showing in Mile, Beating Douglass in Thrilling Race

Penn State with but eight entries in the Intercollegiate Indoor Track Meet which was held at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory last Saturday night, took fifth place in the contest and two of her representatives, Captain Barron and "Larry" Shields, won high honors by finishing first in the hurdles and mile respectively. The revival of the Intercollegiate brought together all of the leading track teams of the East. Cornell, as was expected, with over thirty entries, took first place, scoring 35 1/2 points, a total of over ten more than her nearest rival, Dartmouth. Representatives of the latter institution took second place with twenty-five points to her credit. Penn took third place with twenty-four points. Princeton came in fourth with sixteen points and Penn State took fifth place with fourteen points, beating out Yale and Harvard and many other teams that did not figure high in the scoring. Penn had twenty-eight men in the contest and Princeton had a representation of over thirty.

Shields Triumphs

Many of the leading newspaper reporters of the East, who covered the meet, wrote up the account of "Larry" Shields' victory in the mile as the big feature of the meet. Penn State's mile was running at his best on Saturday night. He covered the first half mile in 2:06 flat. His time was exceptionally fast for the half and the Coach as well as many others at the meet thought that "Larry" was stepping out too fast. On the seventh lap, Douglass of Yale and Kirby of Cornell overtook the Penn State runner Kirby will be remembered as the man who gave Shields such a good race at Ithaca, one week previously. Douglass opened up on the eighth lap and took a considerable lead, thinking the Penn State man had played out. Shields, however, kept on in making up the lost ground and on the last lap overtook Kirby on the back eight-hundred yards and caught up to Douglass on the upper straightaway. Here he had but thirty yards in which to beat the Yale mile to the tape. He did what seemed to be impossible, running a race such as has been made up in the past. He just out ahead of Douglass. His time was 4:20:10. Kirby finished third. The Georgetown star, was sick and could not enter the race. Check also ran in the mile but did not do so well as he had been expected.

Barron Wins Hurdles

Captain Barron topped the hurdles in the first round on Saturday night, beating Kimball of Cornell, Thompson of Princeton, and Hillman of Yale. Penn State had three representatives, Barron, Hill and Kuffman in this event. All won their heats in the preliminaries, but in the semi-finals, Kuffman took third and was forced to drop out of running for the first four places in the event. In the finals, Hill finished fourth while Kuffman fought it out with a number of hurdlers for fifth place. Barron's time was 7:18:10 seconds. Cooper in Two Mile

Cooper, former cross country captain, finished in fourth place in the mile, while Snyder took sixth place. The two Brown brothers of Cornell took first and second place. Crawford of Lafayette, finished fifth. The time of the winner was 9:45. Cooper ran the two miles in 19:50.

The Coach is planning to hold another handicap meet next Saturday.

COACH JARDINE FORSEES WINNING LACROSSE TEAM

Coming English Tilt Arouses Much Interest—Varsity Against Scrubs on Saturday

Coach Jardine had the opportunity of seeing the Varsity stick-wielders in action against an opposing team for the first time on Saturday afternoon, when the first string men were pitted against the members of the second team in a hard fought battle on Holmes Field. Although not especially pleased with the showing made on Saturday, the coach has been greatly encouraged by the spirit of the men in their daily work-outs and is confident of turning out a team worthy to represent the athletic ability of Penn State. The lineup on Saturday was as follows:

Varsity	Goal	Reese
Strohm	Out	Home
Shorts	Putnam
Trout	Free
Heparty	Second Attack	Neivens
Briner	First Attack	Stewart
Martin	Center	Delly
Yocum	First Defense	Body
Gatchell	Second Defense	Jones
Bash	Third Defense	Yost
Blown	Cover Point	Bratton

(Capt.) (Capt.)

Coutler and Banks acted as substitutes on the Varsity team.

The first scheduled game of the season with the Oxford team, the champion aggregation of England, will be played at Penn State on April fourth. This is the second time an English lacrosse team has visited this country to compete with the stick-wielders of colleges in the United States and Canada. In 1913, a combined team, representing both Oxford and Cambridge Universities, came to this country and made an excellent showing against some of the most powerful combinations in the United States. This fact, together with the reputation which the present Oxford team has for speed and aggressiveness, is arousing considerable interest in the contest and there are numerous conjectures in athletic circles as to the probable outcome of the contest. Coach Jardine is doing everything in his power to turn out a winning team and the men are displaying great earnestness in an effort to help the coach turn out an aggregation which will give a good account of itself in the clash with the English twelve.

PLAYERS PERFECTING PARTS IN "CLARENCE"

P. E. Stanley Shows Ability in Title Role—Miss E. B. Holmes Acts Charmingly

Rehearsals have been going on regularly for "Clarence," the next feature to be presented by The Penn State Players, and already the show is beginning to shape up for the final presentation on April eighth and ninth. The cast is a very strong one and the Players promise a very brilliant performance. Arthur C. Cloetingh, Director of The Players, from a careful elimination selected the characters best suited to the roles and the applicants were so numerous that it was possible for him to place an extraordinary cast. The work of P. E. Stanley '22 in the title role is a rather difficult to interpret—he is a specialist on everything but those things an ordinary human being would naturally be interested in—and Stanley handles it very well. P. W. Amram '22 plays a very good character role. His portrayal of the busy New Yorker, too busy with his business to be bothered by his family who bother him to distraction. With the interpretation of Amram the role lends much to the production. Miss Esther B. Holmes '23 in the part of Violet, plays a delightful part. She is a charming bit of a girl and judiciously she finds herself very much sought after by the men of the Wheeler household—but Violet has a mind of her own and she shows it adorably.

The play is an interesting one that the play going public of State College can anticipate very pleasantly.

POULTRY CLUB FORMED BY THIRTY STUDENTS

Thirty poultry husbandry students met on Friday evening, March 23, and organized a poultry club. The purpose of this club is to be of instructional value to all the members. Some of the best poultry men of the state will give their practical experience at the club meetings. The members will be benefited by having a social time, getting acquainted, and open discussion on important poultry problems.

Every student of the two or four year course, who is interested in poultry is urged to take advantage of this opportunity by becoming a member of the club. Another meeting will be held on Thursday evening, March 16, in the Hort. Building. This club will be given the support of all the poultry professors and extension men.

The following officers were elected for this year, Leon Todd, '20-'22, President, Paul A. Seese, '22, Vice-President, Gerald E. Eastman, '22, Secretary, George C. Boone, '23, Treasurer.

TENNIS CANDIDATES START TOURNAMENT ON THURSDAY

A tennis tournament to develop the available material for this spring's varsity tennis combination will start in the Armory this Thursday morning. Manager Shooker has urged all tennis candidates to sign up immediately on the placard in the locker room as the entries will be closed at noon on Wednesday. The candidates will be matched for the trials by lots, which will be drawn Wednesday afternoon and posted that evening. The men who are to take part in the tournament are urged to practice as much as possible on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings when the courts will be open. After March seventh, arrangements have been made so that the racket men may practice in the evening. In the meantime, sophomore second assistant tennis managers are urged to sign up in the athletic office for the sport.

SOPH-FROSH RING SCRAP THURSDAY

Boxers of Two Underclasses Now Competing in Eliminations For Fistic Encounter

INTERCOLLEGIATES THIS WEEK-END IMPROBABLE

Sophomore and Freshmen will probably complete the season of boxing at Penn State when they exchange blows for class honors in the ring this Thursday evening at seven-thirty p. m. Coach Harlow has called off varsity mat practice since there is hardly any possibility of holding the intercollegiate at Penn this Friday and Saturday.

Applicants for ring fame in the two lower classes started knocking each other yesterday in the eliminations which must take place before the Coach makes final selections for Thursday's battle. The merits which the contenders display in the preliminaries will determine who shall represent the Sophs and Frosh in their annual tilt.

It is impossible to predict at the present time who will represent the two classes, according to Coach Harlow, since a great number of candidates have been learning the boxing game during the past few months and they have developed into a mixture of fair ability. Freshmen, as well as Sophomores, have some likely material and the outcome Thursday evening promises real ring battles. Although the Sophomores would seem to hold an advantage over their first year rivals because of greater experience in the ring, the earlings have been practicing for some time and promise real fighting to uphold class honors.

The underclass meet will not be held on Friday as previously planned and announced in the last issue of the COLLEGIAN. Other events coming at that time interfered and the time of the meet was shifted to Thursday.

Intercollegiate Are Improbable

That no intercollegiate boxing meet will be held at Penn this Friday and Saturday as previously planned is almost a certainty. Nothing has been heard from the Penn authorities up until the time that the COLLEGIAN went to press and, as a result, Coach Harlow has called off varsity practice. A lack of interest in the meet and the failure of more than a few colleges to signify their willingness to enter the intercollegiate caused the idea, to be almost completely dropped some time ago.

GLEE CLUB WILL SING WITH W. & J.

Joint Concert to be Held at Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh, April Twenty-fourth

VARSITY QUARTET SINGS AT WASHINGTON APRIL 20

The members of the Penn State Glee Club are now rehearsing for a joint concert with the W. & J. Songsters, which will be held in Carnegie Hall at Pittsburgh on April twenty-fourth. After the concert the two clubs will hold a formal dance in the ballroom of the Shenley Hotel.

This event is receiving the hearty support of every Penn State alumnus in the vicinity of Pittsburgh and promises to be a huge success. The Glee Club will follow up the joint concert with a concert at Uniontown, Pa. on April twenty-fifth under the auspices of the Penn State Alumni of that district. This concert will end one of the most successful seasons that the Glee Club has ever had.

After the Glee Club has returned to Penn State they plan to give a complimentary concert for the student body. At this time everyone will be able to enjoy the benefit of the splendid work the Glee Club has been doing all year and will gain some idea of the capabilities of this organization.

The Penn State Varsity Quartet is now making arrangements for a trip to Washington, D. C., on April twentieth. The plus as they now stand call for a concert under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Societies, on April twenty-fourth. On the following day the members of the quartet will be the guests of the Penn State Alumni at a banquet. On April twenty-second the Quartet will go to Baltimore where they will give a concert for the Penn State Alumni of that vicinity.

VARIETY OF SKETCHES IN THESPIAN SHOW

Splendid Scenic Effects in "Luna Moth"—"Poor Old Jim" Scores Hit

Six acts of vaudeville and one comic movie made up the production given by the Thespians in the Auditorium on Friday evening, March tenth. Practically all of the show was the product of the organization, representing popular types of acts on the modern vaudeville circuit. The directing of this performance was in the hands of Mr. Albert Lang, who is a professional actor and director, and who has had much experience in producing successful productions.

The first act on the bill was a comic movie which the Thespians secured through the courtesy of Maurice Baum. Following this came "Sidewalk Chatter" by the "Boys" and the "Girl," in which E. J. Stern '21 and S. R. Gerber '22 portrayed the humorous side of the imp.
