CONSTRUCTION WORK BEGUN ON NEW DORMITORY

Three Units of Building to be Under Roof by Winter and Completed by Next Summer

LOCATION TO BE ON WEST CAMPUS

Work was started this week on the erection of the first group of new dormitories at the Pennsylvania State College, by the F. D. Beyer Company, of Tyrone, who last week were awarded the general contract by the college Board of trustees. It is planned to have the three units of the building under roof before snow falls and completed in time for use during the next summer season.

The building will mean that at least 100 more students can be admitted to the college in the fall of 1923. It is a welcome structure in view of the fact that a thousand applicants have had to be refused admission each fall for the past three years. It is being erected with building funds appropriated to the college by the last State Legislature.

The three units are the first of about fifty that are planned to house 4,000 men and 1,000 women students at Penn State. Additional units will be erected within the next few years, or as quickly as funds become available for the purpose.

Located in an old orchard on the west campus, the dormitories for men will be the most attractive structures at the college. The Georgian style has been followed in the development plan by the architects, Day and Klauder, of Philadelphia. Dark red brick of "level" texture and varying shade, with white stone trim, will be used throughout.

This group will contain 55 rooms and will house a few more than 100 men. The central structure will have three rooms each. Of fireproof construction throughout, each unit is separated from the other with fire walls between the rooms for two men are ample in size, 11 by 20 feet, providing 1,100 cubic feet of air space per man.

The building will be modern and up-to-date in every respect. The comfort of the students was a chief consideration by the college trustees in the plans. There will be a shower bath for every five men, and wash basins for every three. General and local lighting will be provided throughout.

The entire dormitory plant will eventually cover an immense quadrangle with the Varsity Hall, or athletic training quarters, as the head-house of the group.

ATTRACTIVE LECTURES FOR CLOSING WEEK

Dr. Sparks to Speak on "American Scholarship" on Monday Evening

SUPERINTENDENTS WILL ATTEND THESE PROGRAMS

An attractive program of lectures for the next and last week of the summer session has been arranged. These will be given, not only to the students of the summer school but to the many school superintendents who are expected to arrive here on Monday for a five-days' conference. On account of the early twilight-evening program, all being held in the Auditorium, the hour of starting still being seven o'clock.

On Monday evening, Dr. Edwin Erle Sparks, former President of Penn State, will give his noted lecture, "American Scholarship." During the spring months, Dr. Sparks made a tour of the colleges and universities throughout the United States under the auspices of the honorary scholarship fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi, and delivered this lecture to thousands of students. It will be a real pleasure for the summer students to hear the former president of this college, and his lecture will be decidedly worth while.

The evening speaker on Tuesday of next week will be Dr. Albert Lindsay Rowland, Dr. Rowland's subject has

AUGUST 19TH IS CLOSING DAY OF SUMMER SESSION

Classes Will End at Five O'clock on Saturday Evening of Next Week

1922 SESSION MOST SUCCESSFUL YET HELD

The classes of the eight weeks' summer session will come to a close on Saturday afternoon of next week, August 19th, at five o'clock, instead of on Friday evening, August 18th, as erroneously stated in last week's issue of the "Summer Collegian."

The 1922 summer session has without doubt been the most successful in the history of the summer school at Penn State. Not only has the enrollment exceeded any number that has been heretofore in the summer time, but the faculty has been one of the strongest. In addition to the staff chosen from the regular faculty of the college, there have been over fifty representatives here from other institutions, and a number of specialists from the State Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg. About 250 different courses were open to the student body this summer.

The "closing" program of the last week has been carried out as planned. On Friday and Saturday evenings, Dr. James Herbert Kelley, the Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania State Education Association and Editor of the Pennsylvania School Journal, completed his series of three lectures, his subjects on these two evenings being, respectively, "Our Present Problems" and "A Program of Action."

The address on Sunday evening at the union religious services was made

23 COUNTIES ARE NOW 100 PER CENT FOR PENN STATE

Prospects Bright for Every Remaining County to Go "Over the Top"

RESULT OF CAMPAIGN IS UP TO EACH INDIVIDUAL

Twenty-two of the sixty-six counties represented at the Penn State Summer Session have completed their quotas in the summer session campaign for a Greater Penn State, and, on an average, the entire summer session has gone through 80 per cent—and there is still a week to go!

To twenty-three counties have completed their quotas, many more will in the next few days. "Where is your county?" Don't let it be the one white spot on the Blue map in Old Main. There are still a few days in which you can bring in your quota, 100 per cent. The Summer Session Campaign work will be finished up and the books closed at the end of next week, and the final results shown. See that your county is a true Blue one!

The support so far has been very encouraging, according to those in charge of the campaign, and the prospects of better accommodations for students at the next summer session brighten. "Don't drop it the last minute! Bring the Summer School Campaign to a big, booming close next Friday and Saturday!"

Your county chairman is doing all that is possible—help him along! If he is working for a Blue county, help him. Don't come out just when you could be 100 per cent.

The entire state, as represented at the Summer Session, comes up to being 80 per cent pledged. A little more work and a lot more enthusiasm in the next few days, and the entire map in Old Main will be Blue!

In the end the summer folk will be the persons to reap the first harvest of the $2,000,000 campaign. The residence units that will go up this winter will be used for the first time next summer session, and the summer students will be the first to have the advantage of the modern equipment at a minimum cost. And when the plan for expansion—of which this campaign is but the first step—goes through, the summer session students will be afforded an even greater variety of training than they are now receiving.

Work will start on the first group of men's dormitories Wednesday by the F. D. Beyer Company, of Tyrone. The plan at present is to have these units

SUMMER SESSION PLAYERS' FINAL PLAY ON MONDAY

Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" Will be Presented in the Auditorium

ELABORATE SCENERY TO FEATURE PRODUCTION

As their final performance of the 1922 summer session, the Summer Session Players will present Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" next Monday evening in the Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. The play will be given under the direction of Mr. Arthur C. Chetling, who has been in charge of all the plays presented by the Summer Session Players this summer.

One of the outstanding features of Monday's presentation will be the elaborate scenery which is being prepared. The cast is especially strong and has been chosen from the best talent available in the summer session. Many of them have already had considerable experience in amateur dramatics, especially in the summer session plays which have been presented heretofore. The costumes for the play have been designed by the class in drama technique.

The character of Shylock, the Jew, will be portrayed by Mr. F. D. Stanley, and while the role is one of the most difficult in the whole dramatic field, Mr. Stanley's interpretation is such that it would credit to a professional actor. Portia will be played by Miss Mildred Davis, and superior excellence is an outstanding feature of her work. The other important roles that play, are being ably filled by Miss Mildred Callahan as Jessica, Miss Mildred Reynolds as Nerissa, Mrs. R. G. Adams as Antonio, Mr. Austin Blakeslee as Bassanio.

FREE "MOVIES" PLANNED NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

Free "movies" will be held in the Old Chapel next Tuesday evening, at 8:15 o'clock, under the auspices of the class in motion picture operation. There will be four reels, as follows: "The Land of the Ukulele," "Jules of the St. Lawrence," "The Only Way," and "The Making of a Motion Picture Machine." The course in motion picture operation is proving very successful, and there are about twenty students enrolled in the course. Three machines are being used in class room and in the work room. Professor W. R. White is in charge of the class which meets three times a week, once for recitation, and twice for practicum periods.

MASS SINGING PLANNED FOR FINAL WEEK

First to be Held in Auditorium Tomorrow Evening; Three Next Week

SPECIAL SOLOS TO FEATURE PROGRAM

A big "sing" and musical program will be held in the Auditorium tomorrow (Saturday) evening at seven o'clock, under the direction of Miss Laura B. Staley, of the Department of Music. Because of the omission of the morning chapel services this summer, there has been no opportunity for any mass singing, and in order to provide such an opportunity, this "sing" for tomorrow evening has been arranged, as well as a half-hour program on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, and an hour's sing on Thursday evening.

Tomorrow evening, in addition to the singing, there will be organ solos by Mr. Ernest Welles, tenor solos by Mr. Donald V. Bauder, and soprano solos by Miss Natalie T. Southard, who is a member of the faculty of the Department of Music. The songs to be sung by the audience will be taken from the book, "Twice 65 Songs," and every student possessing a copy is asked to bring it along. This "sing" will be over in plenty of time for the dances, so that no one need remain away on that account.

"At each of these sings, the one tomorrow evening and the three next week, the summer session song will be sung. The words of this song are by Dr. Sparks and the music by Professor Robinson, and it is desired that the summer session students become familiar with both the words and the music. The program for tomorrow evening is as follows:

- Star Spangled Banner
- Old Black Joe
- Sweet and Low
- Summer Session Song
- Tenor Solos—"Waters of Minnetonka" (and one to be announced)
- Believe Me If All These Endearing Young Charms
- Lovely Old Sweet Song
- Annie Laurie
- Little Brown Church
- Solos—Group of Children's Songs—Miss Natalie T. Southard
- Round Songs—Row, Row, Row Your Boat, and Lovely Evening
- Aloha Oe
- Perfect Day

The "sings" next week will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES BEGIN IN SEPTEMBER

Extension and Correspondence Work Will be Enlarged This Fall

NEW BULLETIN WILL BE AVAILABLE SOON

Dean Chambers has announced that extension and correspondence work will go forward this fall on a more extended scale than ever before. The staff of the extension department has been increased, both directly and indirectly, by getting a larger number of institutions to cooperate in the work. This is an important factor in the work of Penn State is shown when one realizes that 3,000 students participated in this extension work the past college year.

Most of the work that was done in Pennsylvania, but this year it is planned to expand, not only there, but in the eastern part of the state as well. Regarding correspondence courses, a number of departments are already at work outlining new correspondence courses, so that a larger number than ever before will be available to students. A bulletin is now in preparation and will be issued about September 1st. Any one desiring a copy can secure it by application to the Dean of the Summer Session, State College, Pa.

Regarding correspondence work, the following, re-printed from the summer session catalogue, will be of interest: "Work in correspondence courses is afforded only to those persons who have at some time attended the Summer Session for Teachers. The work is offered primarily for the purpose of completing work begun in the Summer Session, however, new courses may be taken up from the beginning, provided the student can satisfy the Dean and the instructor concerned that he is qualified to take up the proposed work. The lessons are prepared and the written exercises corrected by members of the faculty in the various departments. "More than seventy different courses are now offered and the lessons prepared in the following different departments:

NO EVENTS SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY EVENING

No evening program has been arranged for next Friday evening, inasmuch as it has been felt that every one will be busy that evening preparing to leave. It should be borne in mind, however, that classes do not end until ten minutes to five on Saturday afternoon, August 19th.

TWO WEEKS' I. E. SESSION TO BE HELD

Summer School in Industrial Organization to Begin on August 28th

FACTORY EXECUTIVES EXPECTED TO ATTEND

The seventh annual summer session in industrial organization and administration at Penn State will begin on Monday, August 28th, and end two weeks later, on Saturday, September 9th. About fifty factory executives are expected to attend this course.

This summer session is designed to meet the needs of manufacturers, superintendents, employment directors, foremen, accountants and all others who plot the daily affairs of industry and who are willing to devote two weeks to intensive study.

Its purpose is to assist men in the development of their jobs, to broaden the horizon of the possibilities of the science of management, and to illustrate to them by practical examples, the most effective methods of modern organizations. It is not a theoretical resume of a batch of reading material, rather, it is a careful consideration of the theory in its application.

The topics to be offered and studied are primarily planned to meet the needs of men in industry. The work is divided into discussions on Factory, Organization, Manufacturing Methods, Employment, Industrial Betterment, Planning and Production Control, Purchasing, Cost Accounting, and the kindred subjects. The greater portion of the time will be devoted to practical installation methods, using the equipment of the college, which is especially designed to handle this type of work.

The general route of the development first assigns the men to the class rooms for a discussion of the methods of management and then takes them to the millitary factories for the more practical elaboration of the classroom. The atmosphere of the work in the planning rooms and shops is in the nature of devising new methods, and the men are encouraged to develop their own initiative.

Special opportunities will be given for personal discussion with the men concerning problems peculiar to their own work. This will be accomplished by group conferences. It is suggested that the men bring their specific problems to the course.

Industrial executives whose businesses range from bridge building to manufacturing safety pins and from
