PENN STATE—AFTER NEXT WEEK

The 1922 Summer Session will close on Saturday afternoon of next week and the student body will return to their homes in the various sections of Pennsylvania. What will Penn State mean to you, then? Will it just be a place where you have spent eight weeks in study—a place which the State of Pennsylvania has provided for your benefit—not to be thought of in the least after you are no longer in actual contact with it?

Or will you think of the progress it is struggling to attain, of the goal to which it is seeking to arrive? We trust every summer session student will consider the latter question very seriously. For it is very important that you "carry on" for Penn State, especially after you have returned home. Be an active agent in telling what you know of this college, and what it is planning to do. Take your Summer Session Handbook (if you haven't got one, be sure to call at the Campaign Office in Old Main and get one), study it carefully, and be able to speak intelligently and authoritatively of the college at which you have spent eight weeks, of its program of service, of its proposed growth.

Carry the message of a greater Penn State with you. Stir up the people of your community to the necessity and benefits of the State College in becoming the State University. Get the residents of your home town back of the $2,000,000 campaign, the first step in the plan for expansion.

Talk Penn State, and get others talking it! Don't forget its needs after you have reaped its advantages! Spread the gospel of a greater Penn State—of the institution whose program is one of service to the people of Pennsylvania and through them one of service to all mankind.

GEOGRAPHY COURSE TO CLOSE NEXT FRIDAY

"The New World a Course in Human Geography" will come to a close next Friday, when the two weeks of intensive study will have been completed. This is the last intensive course being offered by the college this summer, and approximately fifty students have been enrolled in the work. The course has been under the direction of Dr. R. H. Whitbeck, Professor of Geography in the University of Wisconsin, who has been assisted by Miss Emma G. Gasmuck of the Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg, by Dr. James of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, and by Mr. C. W. Robinson of Penn State.

An intensely interesting series of lectures has been given in connection with this course, and the following have been topics presented in this manner: The United States, the Panama Canal, and the Caribbean Countries; A Language of the English-speaking Peoples; Elements of Strength and Weakness in the British Empire; Our Part in the Development of South America; France and Its Precarious Position; The Germany of 1914 and 1922; What of "Middle Europe"; Russia and the New States that have been carved from it; The New Japan and its Problems; The Situation in China; Summary of the "New World."

ARCHITECTS RECOMMEND PENN STATE COURSE

A special committee composed of leading architects in Pennsylvania, after completing a study of the departments of architecture and architectural engineering at the Pennsylvania State College, has recommended the courses to students desiring to enter such lines of work, according to its report which has just been made public.

"The intellectual, the artistic and the technical sides are well balanced," says the report of the committee, "and we are of the belief that the courses are not too highly specialized."

Recent announcement from the college states that 1000 Freshmen will be admitted next Fall—the largest number in history. This means that chances of successful application are better than ever, particularly in the architectural course which is one of the newest at Penn State. Admissions will be granted throughout the summer, based on scholastic ability and not on priority of application.

FORTY-FIVE ADMITTED IN PRE-MEDICAL COURSE

From time to time it is reported that the scarcity of physicians in certain sections of the country offers serious impediments. But Penn State is doing its share to train future M. D.'s in its pre-medical course. For the coming year a total of forty-five have been admitted to this course, which ranks among the best in the country. This number is by far the greatest ever admitted to this course at Penn State.

Dean Elwood S. Moore

Dr. Elwood S. Moore will begin his new duties at the University of Toronto on September 1st, where he will be in charge of research work in economic geology. He leaves Penn State, after having been here thirteen years, during the last five of which he has been Dean of the School of Mines. The students of the six weeks' course in practical coal mining recently presented to Dr. Moore a testimonial in the form of a handsome traveling bag.

SEVENTH SUMMER SESSION DANCE TOMORROW EVENING

The seventh dance of the summer session will be held in the Armory tomorrow evening from eight o'clock until midnight. Music will be furnished by the Blue Band, of eight pieces. This is a local organization which has been attracting considerable attention by the quality of music it has been producing. This is evidenced by its popularity in this immediate section. On Tuesday night it played at Hecla Park, and on Thursday night at Agassiz Park, Mill Hill. Next week it is scheduled to play at Grand's Park near Tyrone, and at Huntingdon.

The Armory dances have been very attractive this summer, and the one tomorrow night promises to prove no exception to the rule. As in previous cases, admission will be charged.

LAST EXCURSION TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Trip Arranged to Allegheny Mountain Will Leave at 12 O'clock Noon

The Allegheny Mountain excursion tomorrow (Saturday) will be a ride through many of the wildest and most beautiful places in the Allegheny Mountains. There are many interesting places along the way, a few of which are the following: Stormstown, Fort Matilda, Phillipsburg, Morrisdale, Drifting, Moshannon, Snow Shoe, and Bellefonte. Several short stops will be made along the way and a longer stop will be made at Snow Shoe where plans have been made to visit a coal mine.

This excursion will start from front of Auditorium at 12:00 noon, Saturday, August 12th. Plans have been made to care for the books of those who are in class up to that time. Those unable to get lunch starting can do so on the way. Lunch will be needed for the evening. The distance will be about eighty miles. Cost of transportation will be $1.50 payable at the time of registration. Those wishing to go should see W. R. White, Experiment Station Building. He will be at the Summer Session office today from 12:00 to 1:00 o'clock. Only a limited number can be taken and when that number is reached registration will close.

DR. WINTER IS SPEAKER AT LAST SUNDAY VESPER SERVICE

The last Sunday vesper service of the 1922 summer session will be held this Sunday evening at seven o'clock in the Auditorium. The program will consist of the usual song service and an address.

The address will be made by Dr. A. A. Winter, General Superintendent of the United Evangelical Church, Homes at Lewisburg. The subject upon which Dr. Winter will speak has been announced as "A Ready Man."

'CLARENCE' BY PLAYERS PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Another brilliant success was scored by the Summer Session Players on Monday evening, when they presented a highly satisfactory performance of Booth Tarkington's "Clarence" in the Auditorium.

The play is after the manner of many of Booth Tarkington's short stories and novels, showing certain phases of adolescent life. For this reason, the roles of Bobby Wheeler and Cora Wheeler are exceedingly difficult to interpret, and yet it may be said that Mr. Allen and Miss Holmes did the parts perfectly. Mr. Stanley ably interpreted the character of Clarence, the returned soldier who could drive mules without swearing, and much of the success of the play centered about him as the leading character. The work of the supporting cast, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler on down to the domestics, is also deserving of considerable favorable comment.

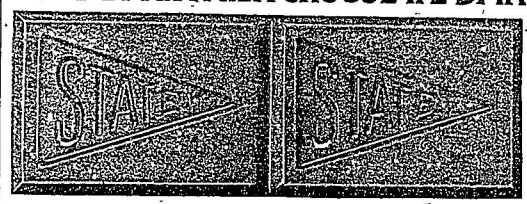

The Summer Session Players are to be congratulated upon the quality of work they have been doing this summer. In a place of this size, where one's contact with good plays is virtually limited to the reading of them, it is a real pleasure to find an organization putting on plays of a high standard, and what is equally or even more important, putting them on by casts which are virtually flawless in their presentations.

AG. STUDENTS FOLLOW TRAINING

Over seventy-seven per cent of the graduates in the School of Agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College actually follow the profession for which the college work prepared them. This excellent showing is brought out in the 514 responses to a questionnaire sent to the graduates by Dean R. L. Watts.
