SMITHS AT PENN STATE LEAD JONES

Members of Former Family Far Outnumber Latter at 1922 Summer Session

The age-old controversy between the Smiths and Jones, as to which family is the more numerous, has been decided for the summer session at least, overwhelmingly in favor of the former. Among the 1922 summer students at Penn State, there are 20 who bear the name of Smith. The Williams come next with 19, and the Miller family is just one behind with 18. The Jones are away down the list with only 7 to their credit. Other families with representatives in the running are Davis's, 13, Thomas's, Martins, Wilson's and Johnsons, 11 each, Fishers and Moores, 10 each, Browns, 9, Evans's 8, Hughes's, Lewis's and Youngs, 7 each, and the Adams's, Baker's, Clarks, Kelly's, Johnsons, Scotts, Taylors, Whites, and Zimmermans, 6 apiece.

Among the summer students, there are 77 whose names begin with Mc, and only 3 whose names begin with Mac. And strange to say, there are only three representing automobiles here, 2 Fords, and 1 Studebaker. There are 5 Kings, but not a single Queen. Colors are blue, in Black, Blue, Gray, Green, and White. An Ace is here, 4 Bells, a Cannon, 4 Carpenters, 4 Cooks, a Curtin, a Fife, a Foote, a Hand, 5 Hills, 4 Gills, 2 Holmes, a Hood, 4 Hunters, 3 Levis, 5 Bulls, a Bridge, a Bush, Coffey and Cole, a Derrick, a Dye, one Egge, and Hay.

In addition to 3 Birds, there is one Crow, and in the animal kingdom there are 2 Bulls, a Bear, 5 Fox's, a Lamb and 2 Wolf's. Despite the supposed eight weeks of the summer school, there is really only one Day, and contrary to all statistics, there is only one French student, and Holland is the only country represented.

sario, and Miss Pauline Anger as Launcelot Gobbe.
"The Merchant of Venice" is one of the most widely read of Shakespeare's plays, and it comes in the so-called second period of the great master-dramatist's writings. It is a tragedy-comedy, and in it is seen the presiding presence of the moral sense, together with a fundamental seriousness, betraying itself even in the deeper and more religious harmonies of the verse. Portia is one of Shakespeare's great portraits of women.

The ticket sale for the play will be held at Metzger's store tonight and tomorrow night, from six to seven o'clock. Admission will be seventy-five cents.

SENIOR DAVENPORT ENDS SERIES TONIGHT

The series of lectures begun on Tuesday evening of this week by the Hon. Frederick Morgan Davenport, member of the New York State Senate and Professor of Law and Politics in Hamilton College, at Clinton, N. Y., will be concluded this evening when the lecturer will speak on the subject, "The Mar-Roosevelt."

As nominee of the progressive party for lieutenant-governor of New York in 1912, and nominee of the same party for governor of New York in 1914, Senator Davenport had the opportunity of seeing much of Theodore Roosevelt, then the leader of the party in the height of its power. His lecture this evening will, therefore, be particularly illuminating, revealing as it will the intimate characteristics of one of America's greatest men.

Senator Davenport's series of lectures opened on Tuesday evening, when the subject was "Civilization in the Balance," and the following evening he spoke on "Human Nature in Politics." Last night the subject discussed was "The Human Side of Industry."

Several other councils are between 80 and 90 per cent of filling their quotas, and many more will have come through 100 per cent before tomorrow night.

The reaction of the work done by the Summer Session toward the big teams in the different counties is very stimulating. Reports from alumni in some of the 100 per cent counties are to the effect that they are very proud of the work of the Summer Session, and that the incentive to work at home is now greater than it has been at any previous time.
