MANY SPEAKERS WILL BOOST PENN STATE NEXT WEEK

Whirlwind Campaign Planned To Present Needs of College To Citizens of State

DISTRICTS ARE IN SHAPE FOR FINAL CANVASSING

Flying Squadron Will Have Dr. Thomas As Chief Speaker In Drive for Funds

Next week, the last before the opening of the public and alumni campaign for two million dollars for Penn State, will be the busiest of the year for campaign workers and committees. It is the week toward which all efforts have been directed for the past month. It will mark the final preparations for the campaign for a Greater Penn State.

Announcement was made at campaign headquarters yesterday that the coming week is to be devoted to a whirlwind speaking campaign in the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania, where alumni and friends of Penn State will have the needs of Penn State presented to them and committees and canvassers will be given their final instructions for carrying on their work toward raising the county quotas, beginning October second.

1925 CONDUCTS FIRST STUNT NIGHT FOR FROSH

Paddles, Bonfire, Molasses Feed "Pig Rasse" and Class Scrap the Principal Features

The Stunt Night, held on Wednesday, proved to be a "safe and sane" substitute for the traditional Poster Night of former years. The Frosh were humbled and shown their place, the Sophomores given a chance to wield their paddles and the two upper classes afforded a good deal of amusement, all with a minimum of casualties to the Frosh, that have always marked Poster Night. As no proclamations were posted by the Sophomores, the usual clashes with the Juniors were averted, and at midnight a Sabbath peace prevailed on the usually troubled Co-op corner.

The excitement began when a long blast from the five whistles at the hollow room brought the paddle-armed Sophomores out into the streets. In a moment the familiar cry, "all Freshmen out," resounded throughout the streets and the first year men, heeding the expected summons, came tumbling from their rooms to be lined up by Sophomores and Juniors. The town had been divided into five sections with Ariett, Weiland, DeLaney, Shaner and Flock each responsible for the collection of the Freshmen in his section. Each street added its quota to the marching ranks until at 9:30 the first year men entered Holmes Field in five long columns.

Holmes Field, the scene of the festivities was lighted up by the leaping flames of a huge bonfire. All day Freshmen had been drafted by the Sophomores to gather wood, railroad ties, packing boxes, and even a telegraph pole had been added to the pile. Out on the field marched the Freshmen guided by the ready paddles, to be formed into a huge circle about the fire. One section was formed in a ring and then began a series of unique (Continued on last page)

INITIAL FOOTBALL CLASH WILL TEST NITTANY METTLE

Veteran Lineup of Brown and White Aggregation Is Strongest In Recent Years

With untested powers and weakened by the loss of six of the most valuable and experienced players who were so important to the success gained last year by the undefeated team and with the uncertainty of some of the most needed players being able to enter the contest on account of injuries, the Nittany gridiron squad opens the 1922 football season tomorrow afternoon when they meet the representatives of St. Bonaventure's College on New Beaver Field at two thirty o'clock. Having undergone three weeks of intensive training since the first of September under the direction of coaches Bezek, Martin and Hermann until he took the yearling candidates in hand, the varsity candidates have been whipped from a loose gathering to a workable combination. The added problem of building nearly an entire new backfield has given the coaching staff a difficult job to round the players into necessary condition and at this late day the gridiron machine is not what it should be to make the prospects for the season very bright. Although the first games of the season are unusually one-sided victories for the Nittany Lions, the outcome of tomorrow's contest should not be too rashly judged for, although victory for the Blue and White is not in any great danger, yet upsets in predictions of football games often defy the best authorities. Until the Penn State warriors have met and been tried by a foreign opponent of practically unknown strength, it is best that a conservative view be taken. The manner in which the Nittany football men play under a strange attack tomorrow will show (Continued on last page)

CROSS COUNTRY SQUAD BEGINS LIGHT PRACTICE

Nothing Further Announced Concerning Schedule—Probably Only One Home Meet

Penn State's squad of cross country runners and track men has been practicing on short distance running, around the golf course and the track.

Intensive training has not begun yet, as Coach Martin is staging these light work-outs in order that the men may get into running condition by easy stages. The freshmen whose names have been mentioned in an earlier issue of the COLLEGIAN are showing up well, as are also several others, and the varsity men and members of last year's freshman team are exhibiting good form.

As yet, nothing further is known concerning the schedule to be run by the Penn State speed men, except that they will enter the indoor inter-collegiate at New York this fall, and that there will be at least one home meet, probably with Penn, and one trip, the opponent for the latter contest not yet being announced.

YEARLINGS IMPROVE IN DAILY SCRIMMAGE

Freshman Gridiron Candidates Preparing for Contest With Bellefonte

After a week of intensive scrimmaging, the Freshman gridiron candidates appear to be rounding into shape and if the squad keeps developing in the next two weeks the way it has been going this week, the initial game with Bellefonte Academy which is to be played on October seventh, should result in a victory for the Blue and White team. The majority of the squad of nearly fifty men who are out for the team are in excellent condition, the hard knocks of the scrimmaging affecting them slightly.

The large number of candidates who report daily gives Coach Hermann the chance to form two teams of different combinations each afternoon. These teams are being put through scrimmaging which bring out the points of offensive and defensive work. At times the yearlings have the appearance of varsity material but again slump into rough, ragged movements which show that they have not entirely mastered the Nittany methods of football. Despite the fact that the men look husky and appear even at this early date as (Continued on third page)

MASS MEETING ON FRONT CAMPUS

There will be a mass meeting on the front campus, Monday evening at seven o'clock. "Prexy" Thomas, "Bez" and Dean Stoddart will speak concerning the student campaign. Band out.

STUDENT COUNCIL ADOPTS MEASURES

Stunt Night Substituted for Poster Night and Campaign Committee Organized

DISCOURAGES BETTING ON ATHLETIC CONTESTS

Stunt Night and the coming Student Campaign were the chief topics of business considered by Student Council at the meeting held last Tuesday night. The election of two sophomores to the Tribunal and the adoption of a set of resolutions discouraging the practice of gambling on the results of athletic contests concluded the business of the meeting.

Stunt Night Explained

At the meeting of the Council held last year, the organization went on record as abolishing the holding of Poster Night as had been done in recent years and authorized the President of the Council to appoint a committee, whose duty it would be to consider ways and means of strengthening the observance of customs here at the college and to find a satisfactory substitute for Poster Night.

As chairman of the committee, W. H. Payne '23 submitted the recommendations of this committee, which embodied the establishment of Stunt Night as a substitute for Poster Night and as an inaugural for a more strict observance of Penn State customs. The plans for the occasion called for an assembly of all freshmen at eight o'clock on the following evening at 9:00 in the town to be selected by the sophomore class which was delegated to escort the frosh to Holmes Field on the campus.

Upon the arrival of the different groups at the field, the person in charge would designate that part of the field to which they were assigned. A general program of original stunts, designed to provide thrills and to satisfy the usual action, should follow. At the close of the night, Coach Bezek would talk to those gathered on the field on some matters of importance, and then the sophomores would escort the freshmen to their respective rooms in the same manner as before.

No posters would be stuck around the town but they would be sold only to the freshmen. Any painting, defacing, or otherwise destroying property would be considered as a misdemeanor by Student Council and the Tribunal would act accordingly.

President Kerr of the Sophomore class then reported that he had appointed captains for different sections of the town and that they would be held responsible for the conduct of their classmates. Student Council then voted unanimously to adopt these recommendations. (Continued on third page)

RESOLUTIONS ENDORSED BY STUDENT COUNCIL

Whereas, public interest has been focused upon gambling in connection with football games through comments and discussions in the newspapers and magazines, and

Whereas, betting and gambling if not restrained will seriously injure the standing of intercollegiate football, and

Whereas, betting and gambling prevents the development of best type of college spirit (a) By substituting expectation of personal gain or loss (b) By making it less easy to appreciate and applaud the good work of the opposing team (c) By making it difficult for those who bet to lose with the good feeling of true sportsmanship, and

Whereas, gambling violates the spirit of true brotherhood which should characterize relationships between Christian institutions, therefore be it

Resolved, that the Student Council go on record as being opposed to gambling and betting in connection with football games, and be it further

Resolved, that these resolutions be referred through the COLLEGIAN to the various campus organizations and fraternities with the suggestion that similar action by them would prove a benefit to Penn State spirit and the game of football.

MONEY TO CONVERT OLD MAIN INTO SOCIAL HALL

FIFTY-SIX STUDENTS PRESENT ENROLLMENT IN GRADUATE SCHOOL

Prof. F. D. Kern of Botany Department Is Dean—Faculty To Be Organized Later

Fifty-six members in the present enrollment of Penn State's newly organized Graduate School, and more registrations are continually being added to the list, which includes students from some of the largest and best-known colleges in the country.

Of the fifty-six students now registered, twenty-two are continuing advanced study at Penn State prior to the formal organization of the Graduate School, while thirty-four are new students. Seven are full time students, that is, they are devoting all their time to advanced study, while the rest have part-time positions on the faculty staffs of the schools with which they are concerned. Five of the graduate students are not candidates for degrees, and but one of them is an applicant for a technical degree.

Professor F. D. Kern, head of the Department of Botany, is Dean of the Graduate School, of which the faculty will be organized during the coming months. Since registrations are still coming in, all the details in regard to the school and its students have not yet been announced, and more information will be published in the COLLEGIAN concerning the department, as soon as it is available.

NITTANY SOCCERITES TO BEGIN DAILY SCRIMMAGE

Foot and Head Work and Other Elementary Instruction Constituted This Week's Work

A fair-sized squad of not unpromising aspirants to the soccer team has been practicing each evening this week on the Armory field, the coach devoting attention to the fundamental departments of the game. Although the turn-out of candidates for the varsity team is reasonably large, there are still several lockers in the gym for any who may still come out.

Six letter men have returned this fall, including Captain H. D. Herral, W. S. Miller, L. C. Longhurst, H. E. Warner, W. A. Kelly, C. H. Blinn, and they furnish valuable assistance to coach Pakenham in instructing the new men. Of the others who are trying out several have played on their class teams, and do not make a poor showing during practice, although nothing definite can be seen yet, since the work is too elementary, having included footwork, such as booting, kicking through the goal, and so forth, and also practice in headwork. Next week heavy practice will be in full swing, as the coach expects to begin daily scrimmaging.

No definite announcement in regard to the soccer team's northeastern trip can now be made, as arrangements with Harvard have not been effected yet. "Bez" and Coach Pakenham are particularly anxious to send the undefeated Nittany aggregation into New England, however, and it is probable that satisfactory arrangements with these institutions can be made.

ALUMNI ISSUE OF PENN STATE ENGINEER PLANNED

The second issue of the "Penn State Engineer" will be put on sale Alumni Day. This issue of the Engineer will be strictly an Alumni issue, the columns being given over almost entirely to former Penn State men. One of the main articles that will appear was written by J. G. White, one of Penn State's foremost alumni. Other leading graduates will write and this issue will be one of the best and most important that has ever been published. Included in the coming edition will be articles which will be of direct interest to miners.

The Penn State Engineer is now recognized as one of the leading technical magazines in collegiate circles and is now being published four times annually. This is a distinct achievement for Penn State Engineers, and it is hoped by the staff that they will be able to progress as favorably in the future.

LOCAL BANKS COMBINE WITH CAPITALIZATION OF $125,000.00
A consolidation of the two local banks resulted during the past week, when the stock of the Farmers Trust Company was bought by the National Bank. The building is being remodeled.

"Make the Nittany Lion Roar" Taken as Slogan of Student Council for 100 Per Cent Participation

THIS IS WHAT YOUR $100 WILL DO

The Penn State Students' Union, or social hall which has been set as the goal for the coming Student Drive, is to be Old Main remodeled. As the oldest building on the campus, it is felt that no other structure would be more suitable for this purpose and no other objective more worthy for the Student Campaign. Because of the weakened condition of the present building, almost complete reconstruction must be made and it is for this purpose that the $300,000 to be raised by Student Campaign will be used.

This is what the Union will mean to Penn State for the comfort, convenience, and welfare of students and alumni: Cafeteria and dining room, with large kitchens attached. Tea room, lunch room, and lobby on main floor. Reception and rest room. Offices and rooms for Alumni Association. Offices and rooms for the Young Men's Christian Association.

A theatre seating 800 people, with balcony. A large reading room, study halls, and committee room. Offices and rooms for the Student Publication Boards and similar student organizations. Meeting room for country clubs, campus organizations, Two small dance floors with kitchenettes adjoining.

Taking as their campaign slogan "Make the Lion Roar", the entire student body of Penn State will launch out on their drive for $100 from each man and woman now enrolled next Monday evening at the monster mass meeting to be held on the front campus at seven o'clock. And if the four classes now entered at Penn State succeed in putting across their share of the Health and Welfare Campaign in the coming drive, the entire sum will be used for the exclusive purpose of remodeling Old Main into the Penn State Students' Union that is to form the center of Penn State's social life in the coming years.

This latest objective of the student drive was announced yesterday by G. B. Lane '23, general chairman of the Student Campaign, after the sanction of President John M. Thomas had been obtained. According to the idea as it is now planned, if the present student body succeeds in raising their allotted share of the campaign's drive for $2,000,000, the new Students' Union will be dedicated to the four classes now enrolled at Penn State and the two-year Ags and the Rehabilitation men.

Following the pledge of the Pottery Haters' Association of Pennsylvania to raise the money needed for the second unit of the new men's dormitory, and the Potato Growers' Association of the state to consent to build the new student hospital, the idea of the students themselves contributing the money to remodeling Old Main into the Penn State Students' Union follows as a logical step. For it is the students who will realize the greatest benefits of such a Union that will occupy a prominent place on the new Penn State campus.

The Student Drive will be formally opened at the mass meeting to be held on the front campus Monday evening at seven o'clock, and the general plan of raising the money among the student body will be explained at that time by such men as President Thomas, "Bez," and Dean Stoddart. It is hoped to make this opening a regular old-time mass meeting with the Penn State Band and other "pep-raiser" present in full force.

PRELIMINARY TRIALS HELD FOR GLEE CLUB

New Director of Music Anticipates Successful Season—Girls To Have Tryouts Soon

Under the guidance of the new director of music, Richard W. Grant, the college glee clubs are planning and preparing for an active season. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested at the preliminary voice trials for the men's Glee Club, held this week. From a large field of basses and tenor try-outs candidates were selected to sing with the Varsity Glee Club for a probationary period of three weeks, at the end of which time final competitions will be held to determine the personnel of the organization for the coming year.

The officers of the club are making every effort to organize it efficiently, so that the most successful year of its history may be realized. No effort is being spared in the endeavor to perfect a combination that will return to Penn State a winner from the intercollegiate Glee Club Contest at New York next spring.

The Girls Glee Club will hold preliminary voice trials Thursday evening, September twenty-eighth. It is hoped that many of the co-eds will try out for the organization as the officers of the club are planning a state-wide intercollegiate competition of girls' glee clubs for next spring.

The two college choruses will be chosen soon. The first rehearsal for the college chorus will be held Thursday evening, September twenty-eighth at seven o'clock, while the freshman choir will rehearse directly after the college chorus, at eight o'clock.

GENEROUS PRAISE GIVEN MR. AND MRS. ONGAWA

Japanese Players Being Brought to State College by Woman's Club October Sixth

"I shall always remember the entertainment as one of the most artistic things that I have ever seen. I am adding it to my own choice 'art gallery.'" That is the way Lorado Taft, perhaps America's present foremost sculptor, characterizes the program of Mr. and Mrs. Michitaro Ongawa who are being brought to State College on October sixth, by the State College Woman's Club. Their presentation of Japanese legends, music and dances will be given in the college auditorium on that evening, and the entire proceeds will be given by the club as their quota in the two million dollar Emergency Building Fund campaign.

No less enthusiastic than Mr. Taft are the many other persons to whom a performance that is filled with such fanciful and truly artistic qualities as is the Ongawas', makes a distinct appeal. Frances Little, author of "The Lady of the Decoration", one of the better known romantic bits of Japan, says, "As a faithful picture of the picturesque and poetic side of Japanese life your program is charming and artistic."

That the entertainment makes a clear and vivid impression is evidenced by the critic of the New York Herald in his review. He says in part: "Something refreshingly novel was offered at the Town Hall last evening in the form of a program illustrative of some of the picturesque aspects of (Continued on last page)
