men are again using their Good Judgment

A short time back, men thought there was a way of paying less and getting more-but experience taught them otherwise.

Men are again using their good judgment-realizing that they get what they pay for-seldom more, seldom less.

They've learned, for instance, that $40.00 is a good price to pay---that when they do, they get more than durability---that they like their clothes and the way they look.

Our tailors at Fashion Park have sent us some fine clothes at $40.00---they're what you should have.
