TWO PENN STATE MEN AID CAMPAIGN IN NOVEL MANNER

Unusual Instances of Cooperation Come to Headquarters from All Parts of State

MEMBERS OF FACULTY HELP COUNTY CHAIRMEN

With Fund Now at $734,000 Mark Officials Expect It Will Reach $1,000,000 by Thanksgiving

The story of how two Penn State men, while working for the campaign in Bucks county, helped a motorist get his car out of a mud hole and thereby unconsciously aided the emergency building fund, came to campaign headquarters yesterday.

R. E. Atkinson, the county agent in Bucks, with a co-worker, a former two-year agricultural student, were returning home from a campaign meeting in Doylestown when they stopped to help another autoist get his car out of the mud. He was so well pleased that he handed over a dollar to each man, and they at once sent the money to campaign headquarters with another dollar they had received from an "old lady friend" of Penn State.

It was also announced yesterday that a former Penn State athlete had resigned from his golf club that cost him one hundred dollars a year, in order that he might help pay off his campaign pledge.

The first of the faculty campaign assistants for field work left yesterday for the counties in which they will work directly with the chairmen and workers. This movement, which will be carried out generally in every county, is expected to inject a spirit of activity that will bring the campaign to a successful close in the least possible time.

The fund total was announced as being at the $734,000 mark yesterday, and it is expected that it will reach the million figure by Thanksgiving Day. Special activity is under way in Philadelphia this week to complete the alumni canvass there at the alumni smoker to be held Friday night at the Bellevue-Stratford.

NITTANY HARRIERS OUTRUN TARTANS

Skihos Receive 32 Points to 23 for Penn State—Capt. Dykeman Finishes First

Penn State runners decisively defeated the Carnegie Tech team here last Saturday 23-22 in the annual Pennsylvania State Day dual meet. The Nittany harriers are now preparing for the New York Intercollegiate to be staged in the metropolis on November twenty-seventh, when both the varsity and freshman teams will be entered. Trials for both the varsity and yearlings will be held next Thursday at four-thirty p. m.

Captain Dykeman First to Finish

Captain Dykeman of the Plaid team maintained his reputation in last Saturday's meet, by finishing first, in 28 minutes and 27 seconds, 35 seconds ahead of Horton '25 of Penn State, who crossed the line in second place. Captain Enck '24 of Penn State was a close third in 29:4. The remaining six to finish were as follows: Ferrall, Carnegie Tech; Decker '25, Penn State; Wendler, '24, Penn State; Kreiter '25, Penn State; Fitzpatrick '25, Penn State; Mendenhall, Carnegie Tech; and Tubbs, Carnegie Tech.

Captain Dykeman of the Pittsburgh team proved to be the outstanding performer in this as in all other meets in which he has entered this year, while Captain Enck, who has been steadily improving the quality of his cross country work all season, gave the best exhibit of distance work that he has displayed this fall. The race was close and intensely interesting, and although Dykeman took the lead from the start and maintained it throughout, the fact that the Penn State team is well balanced undoubtedly had much to do with the winning of the meet by the latter institution.

Prepare for Intercollegiate

With the approach of the Intercollegiate, Coach Martin is preparing to put the squad to hard, steady and progressive workouts. If the steady improvement thus far maintained by Enck, Wendler, Horton, Decker, and Kreiter continues, and if the remaining junior and sophomore members of the cross country squad continue to progress as they have during the past weeks, the Nittany Lion will stand in a fair way to pace high at New York. "Bill" Martin is also well pleased with the work of the yearling distance men, who will likewise enter the freshman intercollegiate at New York.

Frosh Win Altoona Meet

The frosh added one more victory to their list last Saturday, when they won the Intermountain meet at Altoona, even surpassing the varsity cross country runners of the University of

PENN STATE SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS NAVY

Nittany Booters Break String of Tie Games When Middie Aggregation Is Conquered, 3-2

The determination to fight to the bitter end, awakened in the minds of the Penn State soccer team, by the enthusiastic send-off given them at the mass meeting last week, won for the Nittany Lion the hardest battle yet entered this year when Navy went down to a 3-2 defeat, and prepared the team for the still harder struggle with Haverford here next Saturday.

That the students demonstrated their faith in and support of the soccer team has been declared by many of the latter to have been the deciding factor in the winning of the Navy game. The contest was clean and hard, the Penn State booters playing almost a magic game. The first two goals won by the Nittany aggregation were made in the first five minutes of play, the Navy placing two inside the goal net during the latter twenty-five minutes of the first half, making the score at the end of that period, 2-2.

The Penn State team, showing absolutely no signs of fatigue, entered the second half with the determination to put forth every ounce of strength that was in them to prevent the shattering of the record maintained by the three undefeated aggregations that have gone before them. Navy was not permitted to score, while the Nittany Lion added one more tally to his own list. The surprised and desperate Navy booters attempted to stage a comeback and the battle that ensued was one of the hardest and most bitter that have been witnessed on any soccer field.

INITIAL ENGINEERING EXHIBIT SUCCESSFUL

Numerous Subjects of Interest in All Departments Show Work of Engineering School

The series of exhibits staged on the morning of Pennsylvania Day by the students and faculty of the engineering school far exceeded the expectations of a great number of the uninitiated. Practically every student took some part in the very complete exhibition of the facilities and products of the engineering school. Besides the special exhibits and humorous stunts, practically all the laboratories were open for inspection, and were not found wanting in any respect by the many visitors. A very large number of people visited the buildings, and even continued to stream through the buildings, after the exhibits were completed.

The industrial engineers took a leading place in the exhibit. All of the shops in units two and three were running, besides several stunts. Souvenirs were given away by both the wood and metal shops. An ingenious mechanical man opened the door to the metal shop, and closed the door after him. The visitor was compelled "to pass over a jarring platform in passing between the two units, which, however did not prove fatal to anyone. Another of the best of the industrial exhibits was in the form of a large clock with a gigantic pendulum, which brought to view a different motto or caption at each swing of the pendulum.

Passing on to the workshop of the electrical engineers, the visitor was treated with several novel stunts. Several of the machines were running and added to the spirit of the occasion. Student demonstrators "burked" their knowledge on things electrical, notably interesting being the demonstration of a modern telephone switchboard. A demonstration trolley car made good speed, the electrical furnace room belched forth smoke and heat, semaphores operated automatically, and in short everything graphically indicated the forwardness of the electricals. One of their interesting stunts was in the form of a paper lighthouse, with a small pilot light on top, which lighted only when over State College on a miniature map. Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Scranton mysteriously refused to light the lamp.

The foundry ran a charge of metal through the cupola for the benefit of its admirers, casting many different shapes and types of castings, notably spelling out the word INDUSTRIALS in a large open sand floor mold. The mechanical engineering laboratory next claimed the attention of the visitor. Several steam engines were running ranging in size from the largest in the building, to the small boy type heated with an alcohol lamp, and included a perfect working model of a fast modern locomotive. The principal mystic act of the mechanicals took the shape of a common bottle suspended by four wires from which flowed forth a never ending stream of magic fluid.

at inside right, made the first two goals for Penn State, within the first five minutes of play. No sooner had the ball been put in motion than the Nittany booters carried it down the field with almost magic swiftness, scoring the first goal before the surprised Navy soccerites realized what had happened. Although the entire team played better than at any time this year, Captain Harrah, at center half, McVaugh at right halfback, Kelly at outside right, Crooks outside left, and "Andy" Warner at inside left, shattered time and again the Navy's hopes of scoring, while all of them were instrumental in staging an aggressive attack that swept the Middies down the field.

Nor were the breaks of the game the cause of victory for the Lion, since Penn State was awarded six corner kicks, as against four for the Annapolis booters, one of the goals for the Blue and White being scored from a corner kick. During the first half the Penn State team was crippled by the almost complete uselessness of Grupp, on account of the result of an injury sustained by the latter in practice some time ago. It was thought that Grupp, who is one of the best players on the Blue and White soccer squad, had recovered sufficiently to enable him to enter Saturday's contest, but it was necessary to substitute Gaul in the second half. Edgerton was also substituted for Hagenbuch in the latter period.

Haverford Formidable The Blue and White booters meet the strongest opponent of the season, when Haverford comes here for the final game of the year next Saturday. Haverford has several times been intercollegiate.

PLAYERS WILL PRESENT "ALICE-SIT-BY-THE-FIRE"

Ruthanna Sharpless and Austin Blakelee Have Leading Roles in Barrie Production

The Penn State Players will present "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire" by J. M. Barrie, November twenty-ninth in the Auditorium. This play is considered to be one of Barrie's best productions and it has been successfully produced both professionally and in amateur circles. It is under the personal direction of A. C. Cloetingh, whose able direction has created such a high standard for the Players. This is a play that no one who is up to the times on the campus can afford to miss seeing.

Miss Ruthanna Sharpless plays the role of Rollo. They are two of the most pleasing characters in the play and, interpreted by two such talented people, the roles are made much of.

This will be the last appearance of Miss Sharpless in State College, as she is being graduated in February. The Players will feel a real loss in her absence not readily to be filled. Miss Sharpless will be remembered by State College audiences for her very splendid performance in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "Nothing but the Truth," "Pomander Walk," "Phippe," "The Perfect Woman," and "The Maker of Dreams." In "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire" she will again display that lightness of touch and that depth of expression that are envied by all who see her.

ALUMNI PLAN FOR DANCE AFTER GAME WITH PENN

Smoker Will Also Be Held at the Bellevue-Stratford-Students Urged to Be There

A smoker before the game and a dance afterwards have been arranged by the Penn State alumni in connection with the coming football battle with the University of Pennsylvania next Saturday. As has been the custom in former years, the Nittany rooters will have their headquarters at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel and Penn State students are especially urged by the alumni to attend these affairs.

The smoker will be held in the Gray Room of the Bellevue at eight o'clock on Friday night. Cider and pretzels will be the chief features of the evening. Speeches from old alumni and selections by the Penn State Band will arouse the enthusiasm and pep that will be needed at the Penn State stadium on Saturday. The dance on Saturday night will give the Nittany supporters an opportunity to dance to Al Meyer's Orchestra. The dance will be held in the ball room from nine to twelve and the tax has been set at three dollars and a half. The team will be present at the dance as the guests of the Alumni Association.

PRINCESS TSIANINA IS WELL KNOWN SOLOIST

Singer Who Will Appear With Cadman Has Been Praised by Noted Musicians

Princess Tsianina, who will assist Charles Wakefield Cadman in the soloist's role in his concert which is to be given in the Auditorium a week from next Friday evening, has appeared jointly with the well-known American composer in his All American concerts for the last four years, and her interpretations of the folk music of the American Redman have been received with flattering success by many of the most distinguished music critics.

In addition to her work in Cadman's All American concert, the Indian Princess has appeared as soloist for most of the largest musical festivals and leading symphony orchestras and clubs in the United States, such as the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Minneapolis Symphony, the Russian Symphony, and many others. In all of these programs, Princess Tsianina has performed with unqualified success and has been received with the highest honors both in this country and abroad.

She has been highly praised by such artists in the musical world as Melba, Shumann-Heink, Alma Gluck, Lucy Gates, Sophie Braslau, Alice Nelsom, Maud Powell, Marie Tiffany, Caruso, McCormack, Althouse, Kreisler, and many others. One of these musicians, Melba, has said of Tsianina, "She puts more soul feeling into her songs than any other singer." And Shumann-Heink, the well-known concert soloist, recently said of her, "She is indeed wonderful, both personally and in her songs."

Through Tsianina's artistry alone and for her charming personality as a singer and actress she has been chosen by the American Grand Opera Company of New York for a trans-continental tour Cadman's "Shanewis" and will create the title role of this work. The sketch for "Shanewis" was written by Tsianina and is, in part, the story of her life. In her native costumes she makes a picture in the All American program and the interpretation of the opera "Shanewis" is never forgotten by those who hear her.

FROSH WIN LAST GAME OF SEASON

Syracuse Freshmen Defeated By Score of 16 to 14—Touchback Deciding Factor

Continuing their driving offensive work, the freshmen gridiron squad completed their season's schedule last Saturday morning when they scored two touchdowns against the Syracuse yearlings while holding them scoreless during the first half. A touchback on the part of the Nittany frosh and two touchdowns against the Syracuse yearlings two periods made the final score 16 to 14 in favor of the Blue and White aggregation.

The attacking power of the Penn State freshmen was as strong as in the past games, the backfield men making long gains through their opponents' defense, and during the first half, completely outplaying the visitors. Light was the outstanding ball runner for the Nittany frosh, while Helbig, Johnston and Baker played consistent football all through the game. Buckley started the game but was not able to stay in on account of his injury which is still hindering his playing. Baker, who did such sensational work last week as quarterback, did not show such excellent football last Saturday although his playing was above the average. Grey, the big center, and the ends, McCann and Onyx, also did good work on the line all through the contest.

The Syracuse team outweighed the Lion Cubs in nearly every position, which in a large measure resulted in a let up of freshman defense in the last half and the successful drives of the New York squad, which gave them their two touchdowns. The heavy backfield men could not be stopped in their attack on the Nittany line, which allowed them to make two drives down the field.

The initial score for the Nittany team came in the first period when the Syracuse representatives, being penalized, were on their own two yard line. A forward pass was attempted but hit the goal bar and bounced back, resulting in a touchdown for the Nittanyites. During the second quarter, the Penn State squad by means of straight line bucking and end runs, took the ball down to the four yard line. Syracuse held their attack for two downs, but on the following play Light carried the ball across for the first touchdown. Onyx kicked the extra point.

The second touchdown came in the second period for the Centre County frosh Helbig, who did not catch it but knocked it in such a manner that it was caught by Onyx who was close to Helbig at the time and ran for the touchdown. During the second half the Syracuse

SPRIT SHOWN AT BIG MASS MEETING

Record Crowd of Students and Visitors Puts Pep Into Blue and White Teams

"BEZ," KEENLEYSIDE, AND CAPT. ENCK GIVE TALKS

Many a mass meeting held on the campus of old Penn State, has been notable for the pep and spirit that has prevailed, but never in the memory of the most ancient and aged of the seniors have the predictions of the coaches been carried out so completely by their teams as were those made at the meeting on Friday night. To an audience of students and out of town visitors that packed the Auditorium, Coach Keenleyside, the new coach of the soccer team, then Schuyler Enck '24, fleet-footed captain of the cross country team and finally, "Bez," wizard and mentor of football, spoke to the audience without over-confidence but with a firm conviction that each of their teams would come through in the way that has made the Nittany teams famous. Their trust was not misplaced for not a single defeat was recorded to mar the perfect athletic record of Penn State on Pennsylvania Day.

The meeting was opened by "Phy" Koehler, president of the Athletic Association, who introduced Coach Keenleyside as the first speaker. Calling attention to the fact that Penn State has developed one of the strongest soccer teams in the East and that for the last three years it has not met with a single defeat, Keenleyside urged the students to support a team which has always been of championship calibre, in its difficult game with the strong Haverford eleven this coming Saturday. As for the Navy game at Annapolis, the soccer mentor predicted a hard struggle and such was the case for on the next day the Nittany booters took the measure of the Middies by the close score of 3 to 2 after a recent fought battle.

Schuyler Enck, captain and mainstay of the cross country team, then appeared on the platform. In a few words, Enck stated that the Nittany runners were determined to avenge the defeat suffered last year at the hands of Carnegie Tech. On the following day his men came through in the manner that he had predicted, running away from the Carnegie Tech harriers by a score of thirty-two to twenty-two points.

Last to appear of this trio was that master of the gridiron, Bezdek. He spoke only for a few moments but the audience hanging onto his every word, gathered the conviction that at last the Penn State team had found itself. Such was the case for the thousands assembled on New Beaver Saturday afternoon saw the Nittany backs slash and tear at the Tech line in the way that has raised the name of Penn State to the peak and pinnacle of football success.

The meeting was completed by a number of selections from the ever-popular Varsity Quartet.

HEAVYWEIGHTS NEEDED FOR WRESTLING SQUAD

Many Varsity Possibilities Among Lightweights—Regular Work after Thanksgiving

"Dave" Detar again faces the problem of developing a number of heavyweight wrestlers to round out a team that will be able to face the difficult schedule that has been arranged this year. Heavyweight wrestlers have been scarce at Penn State and the loss of "Buck" Runser to Colgate and "Tiny" McMahon, through an injury to his neck, has added to the difficulties of "Dave" Detar this season.

The first meeting of wrestling candidates last week gave promise of an abundance of material in the lighter classes and there should be keen competition among the "lightweights" for the varsity berths. The loss of F. L. Watson '22 leaves a place hard to fill in the one hundred fifteen pound class but R. S. Lehman, '25, with varsity experience, L. A. Cary, '25 and E. L. Boger, '24 have shown considerable promise. G. Bugnalia, '23 and G. B. Hunter '24 are evenly matched in the one hundred and twenty-five division and should be hard pressed by G. M. Richards '23. The one hundred thirty-five pound class has an abundance of strong material with B. D. Evans, '23, captain of the team and W. R. Black '25, and E. J. Boone, '23 both of whom are good wrestlers. Last year Boone pushed Evans hard, beating him in several trials but greater ex-

MASS MEETING TOMORROW

A mass meeting for the Penn State-Penn game will be held in the Auditorium tomorrow evening at eight-thirty o'clock. The soccer team will be honored for their victory over the Navy, last Saturday afternoon, at the same time.

WORK ON MEN'S DORM PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

Concrete for First Floor Has Been Poured—Lack of Labor Is Only Handicap

Work on the new dormitory for men is progressing nicely, according to R. T. Hafer, sub-contractor for the brick and the work. Twenty laborers and ten bricklayers and carpenters are at present employed with the expectation of several more masons soon. The concrete work for the first floor was poured Monday and by the end of the week sections A and C, the two four story ends, will be one story high.

One-fourth of the rough material is on the job now and the only thing that tends to hold up the work is lack of help. In spite of this serious handicap the building will be ready for occupancy next spring. By the use of tarpaulins and hot materials work can be continued through the winter without injury to the structure.

Electricians are busy placing inserts so as to facilitate their part of the construction later. Architect Bandwell, of the contracting firm Day and Clauser, recently inspected the work and pronounced everything entirely satisfactory.

RIFLE SHOOTING MADE MINOR COLLEGE SPORT

Many Institutions Give Letters to Members of College First-String Rifle Team

A recent movement on the part of Military Science and Tactics officials to make rifle shooting a minor sport at the Pennsylvania State College has resulted in the following additions being made to the constitution as announced at the mass meeting last Friday night:

Article 15, (Add)
17. Rifle.—The major sports "S" shall be awarded to any member of the varsity rifle squad who shall fire on a team which wins the official Intercollegiate Championship.

18. The minor sports "S"—RST—shall be awarded to any member of the varsity rifle squad who has participated in at least two-thirds of the matches fired as a principal. (By principal is meant one whose score counts for record or whose scores count in determining a tie).

Section 6, Add. Rifle RST Section F, Article 1 Section 2.
Change to read—The minor sports shall be wrestling, basketball, lacrosse, soccer, football, tennis, boxing, and rifle.

Various other colleges and institutions of learning throughout the country where military training is in vogue have introduced rifle shooting as a minor sport. Recently about one hundred and five inquiries were sent out to the institutions asking whether or not rifle shooting was classified as a minor sport. To date ninety-five replies have been received.

One school, Culver Military Academy, reported that rifle shooting was classified as a major sport. Thirty-two schools reported rifle shooting was classified as a minor sport. Two schools stated that membership on the rifle team counted as points toward an honor key. Five schools did not have facilities for rifle shooting. Four schools were opposed to the proposition.

From the replies received from this questionnaire the following schools were shown to classify rifle shooting as a minor sport:
Pennsylvania College University of Michigan, Western Maryland College Mississippi A. & M. University of Delaware Rutgers College Georgetown University Indiana University Iowa A. & M. Columbia University Lafayette College University of Tennessee

More than 15,000 spectators, the greatest crowd in Penn State history, saw the Nittany Lions come back with a vengeance last Saturday afternoon on New Beaver field when they ran roughshod over "Wally" Steffen's powerful Carnegie Tech eleven for a 10 to 0 victory.

It was a reorganized and rejuvenated team that ploughed its way through the fighting Tartans. Both teams played brilliant football for every minute of the contest but Bezdek's warriors showed their strength to best advantage in the second period which was the big one of the game and witnessed all of the scoring of the afternoon. A few minutes after this quarter started, Penn State hammered over a touchdown with a baffling run attack and just before the first half ended "Mike" Palm kicked a beautiful field goal from the eighteen yard line.

Wilson Stars Harry Wilson, sensational halfback, was the individual star of the game. Time and again he broke through the Skibo defense for brilliant gains and did great work in knocking down forward passes. Wentz, who played his first varsity game at fullback for Penn State on Saturday, was a tower of strength both on offensive and defensive plays. He crashed his way through the Tartan line with apparent ease and was responsible for many first downs credited to the Nittany team.

Robertson, flashy Tech quarterback, performed in a brilliant manner for the visitors. He proved himself an able field general and a fast, dangerous man on the attack. The splendid forward passing of Lamb and the straight, hard bucks by Brumbaugh were features of the game.

The Action Starts The game started with Bentz kicking off for Penn State. Brumbaugh received the ball on the ten yard line and returned it to the thirty-five yard line. Robertson shot through right tackle for five yards and Brumbaugh cleared up two through center. A fake double pass failed to gain for the Tartans and Anderson punted to Palm on the sixteen yard line who advanced the ball ten yards.

Wilson broke through center for three yards and Wentz bucked the line for eight more at left tackle. Wilson made it a first down for Penn State and Palm shot around left end on the next play for a four yard gain. Wentz added another first down. Wilson hit the line for seven yards but Hufford fumbled on the next play and Brumbaugh recovered for Carnegie Tech on the forty-seven yard line.

Robertson broke loose for a sensational fifteen yard run through left tackle. A number of unsuccessful attempts at bucking the Nittany stone-wall forced the Tartans to resort to forward passes in an effort to make a first down. Three of these passes were unsuccessful and Penn State took the ball on downs.

Palm immediately kicked to Robertson on Tech's twenty yard line. "Hay" Frank threw Anderson for a five yard loss on an attempted end run. Lamb and Robertson failed to gain through center and right tackle. Anderson kicked to Palm on Tech's forty yard line. "Mike" ripped off four yards through left tackle and Wilson made it a first down by a beautiful seven yard

PENN STATE OBSERVES FIFTH ARMISTICE DAY

Fitting Memorial Exercises And Program By American Legion Given in the Morning

Armistice Day was observed at State College on Saturday in fitting manner when a crowd of more than 15,000 people swarmed over the campus and either took part or viewed with interest an impressive program arranged in connection with the annual observance of Pennsylvania Day.

"Sound thought must replace the insane thought of war" declared former President Edwin E. Sparks, the principal speaker at the student and American Legion exercises, who told "What it Means to be an American." He urged thorough principles of Americanization and stated that there is a general improvement in conditions but that it is as easy for the mental body to become diseased as it is for the physical body.

Prior to the American Legion exercises, the college cadet regiment, together with many ex-service men and members of the Rehabilitation Club paraded as a tribute to those who sacrificed their lives in the great war. A goodly amount of interest was centered in the football game with Carnegie Tech in the afternoon while the various school exhibits and a glee club concert attracted many visitors in the evening.
