RADIO STATION TO TAKE PART IN DISTANCE TEST

Many Nations Will Participate in Transatlantic Transmission Next Week

The college radio station last month handled 236 messages, coming from all parts of the country, from Oregon to San Juan. This month the station plans to take part in the transatlantic tests which are to go on throughout the country from December twelfth to thirtieth.

To further the progress of the station, new towers and a new building are being erected at the present time behind the University Club. The present tower was found to be unsatisfactory, and the construction of the new one is completed.

This broadcasting set is a new piece of apparatus, as has been stated above, and is one of the best and newest types now used. The station has just recently received its license for broadcasting, its call letter being W. P. A. B.

ILLINOIS CO-EDS SIGN UP FOR BOXING INSTRUCTION The signing up of twenty women of the University of Illinois for instruction in boxing, has definitely established the fact that as one of the minor sports for co-eds of the institution.

The Innominate Bones

This is the name given to the two large bones which unite the sacrum to form the human pelvis. Resting on the femurs, or thigh bones, they form the foundation for the body.

When the Osteopaths announced the fact that these bones were often in a state of lesion (slipped) and that there by much bodily ill and discomfort was caused, a howl of derision went up from our medical brethren. They stoutly denied that such a thing could happen. This was all many years ago.

In late years numerous medical investigators have discovered that the innominate do slip and that many such ailments as sciatica, lumbago, pseudo-appendicitis, and many other pains arise therefrom. Anyhow, the fact of this innominate lesion is now pretty well agreed upon, by both osteopaths and medical physicians.

If you are troubled with recurrent attacks of sciatica, or if you have lumbar or lower back pains, or if you are the victim of some pelvic disorder, it is more than likely that you have a slipped innominate and will never be well until it is adjusted. The Osteopath is the only one to see about this, for he is the only physician whose training qualifies him to diagnose and remove such trouble by making an adjustment.

If you are ailing in any way, you had better see the Osteopath; you will have to do so eventually, you know. DR. E. L. CAPERS Office above Varsity Store Phone 74-M Office hours: Tues., Thurs., Sat. 10-5

RIFLE TEAM WILL BE AWARDED ATHLETIC "S"

Members of the Penn State rifle team will receive their "rS" as a result of a recent vote taken by the student body. By this new rating marksmanship will be classed as a minor sport and all men competing in a certain number of intercollegiate contests will be given their minor sports letter.

Preparations are now being made for the selection of a team to compete in the meets that will be staged with other colleges this winter. A Handicap Match will be held on Thursday and Friday evenings for the candidates for the team. Scores made during the first part of the week, will be averaged, subtracted from one hundred and three-fourths of this figure will give the handicap of the contestant for the final matches.

MUSIC DEPT. ANNOUNCES SUMMER SESSION ARTISTS

Director Grant of the Music Department announces that he has secured the following artists who will appear during the summer session of 1923.

John Corigliano, violinist. Mr. Corigliano is a brilliant young American violinist of Italian parentage and has secured a great success with the New York Philharmonic orchestra. Mr. Royal Dadmun, baritone. Mr. Dadmun for the last few years has been a familiar figure on the American concert stage. He has been soloist on concert tours with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

FORESTRY DEPARTMENT IMPROVES CURRICULUM

Will Offer Four Courses—Wood Utilization, Forestry, City Forestry and Lumbering

The Forestry Department of Penn State has inaugurated a new course that will make it possible for the college to offer a forestry course in the future that will be considerably more diversified and attractive than it has heretofore been. Up until the present time, Penn State has had virtually but one curriculum in forestry, although students could gain a special knowledge of lumbering by option in the selection of certain subjects.

The Department is now to be divided into four distinct divisions: forestry (for Government service); lumbering; wood utilization; city forestry. A two-year course for more mature students and those who have not had high or preparatory school training will also be offered.

ILLINOIS CO-EDS WANT TO BE RIFLEWOMEN

Students have to beware of University of Illinois co-eds who carry firearms because they shoot straight. Rifle shooting was recently adopted as a co-ed sport, and one hundred and fifty girls reported. They dress in bloomers and middie, and shoot in four positions, standing, sitting, prone, and kneeling. Last year, two of the top highest rifle scores were made by the women.

TOPIAN CLUB HAS DONE MUCH FOR PENN STATE

Landscape Architects Will Have Charge of Constructing Arboretum at Thompson's Spring

The Topians, an organization of landscape gardening students at Penn State, is gradually coming into its own and is one of the most active clubs on the campus this year. Although the club is but two years old, it is doing considerable work for the school. It has twenty active members, who meet twice a month, so that one of the meetings is strictly business, while one is a social affair. The Topians is probably the only organization on the campus which holds these monthly social events. They take place in a banquet room, and a luncheon is served and speakers are invited, to speak on subjects not pertaining to landscape work, thereby making the occasion a real social affair.

It is interesting to note the work that the Topians have accomplished this year. The huge sign showing the plans for future changes on the campus after the two million dollar drive, which was on the front campus for several weeks, and which now hangs on the wall above the big map in Old Main, was made by the members of the club. The Topians have planted several trees about the campus in memory of the former landscape gardening students who gave up their lives in the service, and several other organizations are following them in this work.

The Topians have made extensive plans for the coming year, and the college officials are backing them in their enterprises. The construction of an arboretum and botanical gardens at Thompson's Spring has been entrusted to the landscape architects. It will be a beauty spot, and will be kept up by the club. The land is situated about a mile east of here, and is an ideal spot for such an undertaking, and the gardens, when completed will be a real credit to Penn State.

Last year the Topians made several fine floats, besides taking an active part in affairs on the campus, but their work this year bids fair to surpass any of last year's efforts. Several other plans have been made for the coming year, but will not be made public until the present enterprise is completed.

The officers who are leading the Topians during the present year are: president—W. Trainer; secretary—W. H. Reinsmith, '24; treasurer—G. C. Graham, '23.

OHIO STATE OBJECTS TO STOGIE ADVERTISEMENTS

The unauthorized use of photographs of Ohio State University athletes and officials was brought to a climax recently when a picture of Dr. John W. Wilce, head coach, appeared in a stogie advertisement.

Pictures of several football players had already been published without permission and Dr. Wilce objected on account of the air of professionalism it cast on the man. When the coach's own photograph was used he immediately notified the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and the further use of pictures was stopped.

SOPHOMORES TRANSACT IMPORTANT BUSINESS

The sophomore class transacted a great deal of business at a short meeting held last week in the Bull Pen. Class managers were elected for wrestling, lacrosse, and football, the date for the Sophomore Hop was set and a pennant was also selected at this time.

The selection of a pennant was the first item of business taken care of, and after the meeting orders for pennants were taken by R. S. Krutz and R. D. Kistler.

C. H. Gough was elected as class manager of football, J. D. McLean received the election for wrestling, and J. H. McCulloch was elected to the lacrosse managership.

President Kerr then announced that Friday, March sixteenth has been set as the date for the annual Sophomore Hop. This seemed to be the logical date for the affair because no other activities have been scheduled over that week-end. There will be a wrestling meet with Syracuse in the Armory on the seventeenth and a majority of the fraternities are planning dances for the night following the Hop. This will give the underclassmen who bring girls from out of town a good opportunity to entertain them.

D. A. Wieland was appointed chairman of the Hop committee with E. L. Keller, R. E. Kershaw, A. B. Helfrich, P. S. Sayers, and H. T. Johnson as his assistants.

GRADUATE SCHOOL IS PUT ON FIRM FOOTING

The Graduate School of Penn State has not been able to accomplish much during this term due to the fact that a number of its officials have been called away to speak in the interest of the campaign. Professor F. D. Kern, Dean of the Graduate School, has, however, announced the appointment of the following committees which will take up their duties in earnest as soon as the more important work of the Campaign is finished: Executive Committee—F. D. Kern, Chairman, A. J. Wood, D. F. McFarland, A. E. Martin, E. W. Runkle, W. R. Ham. Admissions Committee, J. Ben. Hill, Chairman, C. E. Marquardt, B. V. Moore. Courses of Study—D. A. Anderson, Chairman, R. A. Dutcher, C. L. Kinslow.

FRESH AT UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS HAVE SONG FEST

Members of the class of 1926 at the University of Texas assembled recently for the annual song fest, and were put through their vocal paces by attentive sophomores. Freshmen who competed successfully to the satisfaction of the second year men were given a white tag to wear on their caps, while those who failed were smeared with black shoe polish. In addition, when the accurate ear of a soph detected a slight ignorance of the campus melodies, the erring freshman was sent to a large box for a coat of red paint. The tags are to be worn till after the Thanksgiving vacation.

SOCCER TEAM FINISHES SUCCESSFUL SCHEDULE

Completes Fourth Season Defeated Under Adverse Training Conditions

The recent 4-0 defeat of Haverford by the Penn State soccer team marked the completion of four successful seasons weathered by the Nittany booters without a single defeat. Besides this, the contest with the Scarlet and Black was the climax of one of the hardest soccer schedules ever encountered by the Lion.

The soccer squad of Penn State has been hampered by frequent changes of coaches and coaching systems. Two of the last four squads were in charge of J. C. Crowell, 1919-20. Professor Park, who took charge of the booters in the fall of 1921 and brought them through the third successful season, notwithstanding the fact that the squad changed from one system to another in the change of coaches. At the beginning of school this year, the soccerites on account of Coach Parkenham's resignation from that position. For about two weeks the squad was self-coached, and then underwent a second change of coaching systems upon the advent of Keenleyside, who has brought the team through its fourth successful season.

Difficult Schedule

The task before the 1922 soccer squad was made still more difficult when Manager P. W. Miller '24 prepared a schedule comprising several of the strongest teams of the East, if not of the country. This list included Lehigh, Navy, Lafayette, and Haverford. Lafayette subsequently cancelled.

The change in coaching systems and ideas and the inexperience of many of the candidates was evident in the first game of the season, when the Lehigh soccerites tied Penn State on New Beaver Field, October fourteenth. Even in this game, however, the backfield, which comprised Captain Harral at left half, "Andy" Warner at center half, and Binns at right half, showed unmistakable signs of excellent defensive ability, which characteristic reached an almost perfect development in the last game of the season, with the formidable Haverford aggregation, when the Blue and White defense proved impregnable. But another characteristic of the team—a lack of aggressiveness and skill on the part of the forward line, likewise became evident in the initial game and showed but little improvement until the Navy contest.

On October twenty-eighth, the Lion journeyed to Syracuse and was held to a 0-0 tie by the Orange booters, although Penn State far outplayed the salt city aggregation. In this game it was the apathy and overconfidence of the entire team, but especially of the forward line, that forestalled a Penn State victory.

Navy Game

According to the schedule arranged by Manager Miller, the Blue and White was to have met Lafayette at Penn State on November fourth, but the latter institution cancelled, and no other game was arranged. However, the battle with the Navy, scheduled for November eleventh, gave just cause for anxiety on the part of the Lion concerning the preserving intact of his three-year record. In order to break the apathy into which the team seemed to have fallen and to determine the interest with which the students of Penn State regarded soccer, Coaches Hezekel and Keenleyside arranged to hold a soccer mass meeting in conjunction with the football gathering. It was at that meeting and out of the enthusiasm there shown by the students that a new spirit of determination to fight was born in the Blue and White soccer squad, and a timely change it was for, as they had expected, the Nittany booters encountered a team at Annapolis that played a hard, fast, and aggressive game, that called forth during every minute of the battle all the skill and aggressiveness that the team from the Nittany valley could muster. It was the hardest game they had played this season, and they were saved from defeat by sheer determination to put forth their utmost until the last whistle sounded, and Penn State emerged the winner of a 3-2 game.

Haverford Game Crucial Test

The fourth and hardest struggle of the season now drew near. The battle with Haverford was clearly the crucial test for the Lion and the outcome of it the factor that would decide whether Penn State should complete four soccer seasons without suffering defeat. The Scarlet and Black team was striving for the championship of the Intercollegiate Soccer League and would have stood in a fair way to win the honor had she whipped the Lion. But the Quakers invaded the Nittany valley only to return the losers of a 4-0 struggle. Again a desperate determination to fight the battle of their lives, caused the Penn State soccerites to charge with such aggressiveness and to defend with such alertness and skill that it is doubtful whether any team could have conquered them that day. The team stood at the pinnacle of success: the loss of that game meant the ruin of a cherished and honorable record and also a possible setback for soccer at Penn State. Penn State was watching the outcome of the game, and so was the world of soccer.

COACH KEENLEYSIDE IS KEEPING HIS PROMISES IN PRACTICE

Coach Keenleyside is keeping his promises in practice because of the possibility of a game with the champion of the Intercollegiate League this fall, Cornell is now out of the running on account of a defeat at the hands of Penn, and the main rivals for the title are Princeton and Penn.

GIRLS' RIFLE TEAM IS FEATURE AT CORNELL

Among the minor sports at Cornell which are arousing a great deal of interest this year is the girls' rifle team. This novelty was introduced last year with a very successful initial contest with Michigan, Syracuse, and Northwestern. Six challenges have already been received for this year's schedule, and a large number are candidates for the team since this is the only intercollegiate sport in which Cornell women are represented. Any student in good standing with the university may compete, satisfying the one eligibility rule requiring two practices a week.

HARVARD DRAMATIC CLUB TO GIVE MIRACLE PLAYS

Instead of the usual run of modern dramas, the Harvard Dramatic Club will present two ancient English Miracle Plays next month. These plays date from a period long before Shakespeare, and reflect with striking vividness the curious mixture of simple piety and homely humor that went to make up the mind of the peasant of that time.
