Notices

All freshman candidates for the COLLEGIAN editorial staff are reminded to meet in Room 14 Liberal Arts tonight at six forty-five o'clock.

HARVARD AND YALE TRACKMEN WILL MEET ENGLISH ARTISTS

This is the sixth international track meet to be scheduled, of which Americans have won three.

TRIBUNAL TAKES STEP TO ENFORCE CUSTOMS

resenting the student governing body so he, too, is to appear at Co-op on the night of the twenty-fourth with a soap box and a speech. On Monday he will be seen with a sign reading: "I Think You're Kidding Me," which will be worn for two weeks.

In more than one instance freshmen have been guilty of lying when questioned by the Tribunal. The same system of honor prevails in the presence of that body as it does in every class room. There is still an honor system at Penn State and there may be a possibility of having it back in full force even before this semester is terminated.

Freshman customs will be declared off on the evenings of the Military Ball and the Sophomore Hop for those freshmen who may wish to attend. At the indoor athletic meets the freshmen will sit in the section which has been allotted to them, and not take seats designated for the three upperclassmen or letter men.

valley this year and will comprise two half miles, and two quarter mile runners. Helffrich and Erick in the half mile, Edgerton, Wloand and Moore, quarter milers, and Carter, Kratz and Kisseloff, are at present the main contenders for the trip, with Helffrich practically certain of doing the half-mile for Penn State.

Intercollegiate March Third

The Indoor Intercollegiate will be the next event for the Nittany runners, after the games on the twenty-fourth. The frosh will send a medley relay team to the annual intercollegiate freshman relay event, while a varsity two-mile relay contingent will accompany them.

Among the frosh, Shipley, Barclay, Arm and Chandre are supplying plenty of competition for the mile berth on the relay team, while Batocholor, Moore and Oldfield are strong contenders for the half-mile honor. In the quarter-mile trials, Trout, Biele, and Moore have shown ability, while Moore, Torrence, and Biele are competing for the 220-yard position. Conway, National 60-yard Indoor Champion, of Morningside A. C. who came to Penn State from Mercersburg last semester, has been compelled to leave school on account of scholastic difficulties but will in all probability return in the fall.

Euck, Helffrich, Carter, Kratz and Kisseloff are competing for the varsity two-mile relay aggregation, while Kauffman and Hile expect to enter the high hurdles.

Little has been said as yet concerning the make-up of the team that Penn State will send to the Meadowbrook A. C. games on March tenth, but as many of the Blue and White runners are members of the Club, it is probable entries from the Nittany valley will be numerous at the Philadelphia event.

WINNER OF LETTER CONTEST ANNOUNCED

student body two weeks ago and a score of letters were submitted for examination.

By the rules of the contest, each regularly enrolled student of the college could submit two letters one to each senator. The merits of the various letters were to be judged on the basis of neatness, thoroughness in covering the subject along all lines suggested, accuracy, and brevity. A limit of one hundred words to the letter was advised by Mr. Lederer. The judges appointed were: Dean A. R. Warnock, G. T. Graham, President of the Chamber of Commerce; and E. D. Schive, Editor-in-chief of the Penn State COLLEGIAN.

In the announcement of the results, honorable mention was awarded to J. E. Ryder '25, F. G. Kosel '25, and C. W. Kimball '26. "The general results of the contest were disappointing, both from the standpoint of quantity and quality. Many of the letters submitted showed a deplorable lack of knowledge and of appreciation of the elements of a good letter." This was the way one of the judges characterized the contest.

The winners of the prizes will receive their reward by applying at the office of the COLLEGIAN.

NITTANY BASKETEERS READY FOR PANTHER

evidence at times during the game, with Dickinson last Saturday, was noticeable to a much greater extent in practice this week, and, if the Lions hit their stride tomorrow, the spectators will be treated to some clever floor work. The Nittany mentor has laid great stress on the necessity of short, accurate passing and the cagers will resort to it almost entirely in tomorrow's game as the Pitt defense is one which will call for extra good passing.

The Penn State line-up will be identical to that which opened the last game, namely, Reed and Gerhardt, forwards, Shair, center, and Koehler and Loeffler, guards. This combination continues to go better than any of the others which Coach Hermann is trying out, although several second string men have been showing exceptional individual ability during the past week and will probably be given a chance to display their wares in tomorrow's encounter. One of these men, "Andy" Shaner, forward on last year's freshman team, has been shifted to guard on the second varsity combination and is showing such unusual ability in that position that he will probably be given a chance to break into some of the games before the season closes. Fixter, Stuckeman, Huber, Marshall and Wilson continue to do good work in the evening practice sessions and will, if possible, be given a chance to match their skill with the Panthers.

PENN STATE MITMEN MEET NAVY TOMORROW

a medical advisor, and several trainers. The personnel of the team that will oppose the Blue and White men will be as follows: Hays will fight in the 115 pound class; Griffith at 125 pounds; Kuriz will contend for the 135 pound title; Leach will enter at 145 pounds; Lyon will box at 160 pounds; Captain O'Regan will don the mitts at 175 pounds; and Mathews will be the middy contender in the heavyweight bout.

Review the record that some of these leather pushers have made for themselves! The squad has three letter men in the persons of O'Regan, Mathews, and Leach. O'Regan, the captain, made his first appearance in the ring as a sailor. This is the second season of battling for Mathews and Leach, both of whom starred in the meet held last year against the combined colleges of Canada. At that time, the University of Toronto and McGill University combined forces and invaded Annapolis for the avowed purpose of taking over the salt-water artists. Mathews and Leach finished their opponents in short style by the K. O. route. The remainder of the squad on the training table have earned their secondary letters in the sport and are making a strong bid for higher ratings.

Nittany Entries Undecided
Coach Houck fully realizes the portent of the coming battle and will wait until tonight before naming those who will enter the ring for the Lion. This is in order that he may choose boxers that are in the very best of condition. The Blue and White chances for victory in the 145-pound section received a severe blow when Captain Borden withdrew, for he was Houck's mainstay in that division. The Penn State captain will be forced to nurse his injured foot along for at least a month yet, and may not be able to enter the Army meet.

Competition Among 115-Pounders
The 115-pound class will fall to either Tait or Kaiser, depending on which one is in better condition. On account of the large number of contenders for the lightweight honor, the competition in that division has been exceedingly severe, and a number of excellent prospects have arisen. Among the 115-pounders, the Rothrock twins have reported for practice daily, displaying very good form, but lacking sufficient strength to win the honor of representing the Lion in the coming fistie struggle. Zimmerman, another 115-pound contender, must improve his form before he can win a varsity berth.

Wirt is practically sure of entering the ring as 125-pound representative for Penn State, as Zeig, his most persistent rival, has failed to report during the last few days.

The Nittany boxing mentor is blessed with four good boxers competing in 135-pounders. Of these it is probable that either Young or O'Donnell will face the Navy tomorrow afternoon. Hagenbuch has exhibited first rate boxing ability but has been hindered by illness, while Elster's studies have marred a record that his good form had established among the welterweights.

Zerbe is showing superior form over Irving in the 145-pound competition, and it is probable that he will be chosen to box Leach tomorrow.

In the 160-pound class, Weiss or Johnson will occupy the Blue and White corner at tomorrow's struggle. Perce is barred because of an injured foot. Both Weiss and Johnson have demonstrated ability in the ring, with Weiss having a possible lead. It is in this class more than in any other, probably, that condition will decide the contestant's name.

Clark will box in the 175-pound division for the Lion, facing the undefeated Captain O'Regan.

"Rags" in Pink of Condition
"Rags" Madeira is in the pink of condition. He tips the scales at 199 pounds, as compared with 208 when he returned this semester. He can handle his feet like a lightweight, and exhibits gratifying form when he dons the gloves, so that he will give Mathews a worthy tussle. Fritz has not reported for practice recently, while Black, veteran boxer and heavyweight contender this year is now out for baseball.

Frosh Mittmen Good
Among the frosh mittmen, Coach Houck has under surveillance three who are at present showing excellent form. Two of these, Coll and McClerman, are 115-pounders, while Graff is a name that will probably stand high among 175-pound contenders next winter.

"SPIRIT WEEK" NAMED TO REVIVE OLD CUSTOMS
has been declining so fast within the last year.

A number of novel plans for presenting the movement to the student body have been worked out by the committee to stimulate interest including a series of attractive posters and a pamphlet that will be distributed among the students during the coming week. The Department of English has agreed to support the observance of "Spirit Week" by having each freshman write a theme on "Penn State Spirit" for class-room credit, and the sophomores will be asked to stage a "Spirit Stunt" during some noon hour that would be symbolic of Penn-State spirit so that the idea may be brought out more strongly.

Student Council does not expect a sudden outburst of spirit that will last for only a few weeks and then die out again as a result of this campaign. It merely wishes to get the cooperation of each student in restoring the friendly and democratic "Hello" that has been characteristic of Penn State for so long and in enforcing a stricter observance of the written and unwritten customs that have been instrumental in making Penn State what it is today.

THESPIANS REHEARSE "HIS LITTLE WIDOWS"

variety and most of it is of popular version, guaranteed to set the hearers feet in motion.

The cast which has been chosen for this production comprises a host of talented material. Many new men are out for respective parts and are showing exceptional ability. This promises to be a bigger and better show than ever before staged by the Thespians. Mr. Lang is a very enthusiastic director and has all the earmarks of professionalism. His enthusiasm is rapidly being caught by the characters and is portrayed in the spirit with which they take-off their roles.

The show carries three male leads which are being interpreted by Frank Young '24 as "Jack", J. C. Huffman, '25 in the part of "Biff" and H. E. Schlosser '23 as "Pete". In addition to these leading roles there are four major women parts which at present are being carried by W. J. O'Donnell '23 as "Blanche", E. L. Keller '25 as "Annabelle", W. C. Hesser '24 as "Marilla", and E. H. Murray '24 as "Lucinda".

The chorus is made up of approximately eighteen characters. There are also eight other widow parts and seven "elders." A hotel manager, bell boy, and one or two Mormon parts make a total of some forty personages in the entire cast.

H. E. Park and J. A. Parthemore are still striving for the 158 pound berth. Both are about equally matched and the choice cannot be made until the last minute. Parthemore is pushing Park to the limit for the position while Park by his experience is able to keep the edge on Parthemore.

Ellwood '25 will be maintained in the light heavyweight division, his excellent work in the Virginia meet showing his superiority over the other candidates in this position. Ellwood is one of the most aggressive members of the squad.
Emory, who threw his man in the last meet will wrestle tomorrow against Penn.

The entire squad is so evenly matched that it is difficult for the various candidates to secure falls in the trials, and also makes it difficult to make a choice of the man to wrestle. Two men will probably be weighed in in each position.

NITTANY MATMEN SET FOR PENN TOMORROW

'23 but he has kept improving in his style of mat work and is one of the strongest members of the team.

Whether or not Captain Evans will be able to enter the 145 pound class depends if his knee is in good condition tomorrow. If he is not able to meet his opponent, Black, who displaced J. L. Bohn '24 will take his place.

H. E. Park and J. A. Parthemore are still striving for the 158 pound berth. Both are about equally matched and team has several veterans who will gain their experience, makes it difficult to start training early, the Blue and White team has entered three contests, securing victories over Princeton and Virginia but losing to Lehigh.

Klep in the 115 pound class has not lost a bout, always securing the strongest men on the opponent team. So far during his career, Klep has not lost a bout, always securing a fall or decision. Herdig, the other veteran lost to his Lehigh opponent on a decision but secured a line allowance over the Virginia, making Maxman of the 145 pound class, his Lehigh opponent and secured a decision against Virginia.

Kaufman, in the heavyweight division, weighs more than two hundred pounds. In the Virginia meet he secured a decision.
