TRACK TEAM TO ENTER INTERCOLLEGIATE RACES

ored participants.

Authorities believe that the coming intercollegiate races, which are to be staged in the Twenty-Second Regiment Armory, New York, will bring together the greatest collection of track and field stars that has met since the outdoor intercollegiate at Harvard last spring. The list includes Olympic, intercollegiate, and Amateur Athletic Union title-holders hailing from twenty different institutions.

Individual Entries Strong

Some prophesy that Cornell will take first honors, while others look to Penn and Princeton to do the stellar work, but as far as individual titles are concerned, Lafayette, Rutgers, Penn State, Georgetown, Harvard, and Dartmouth can be counted upon to provide competition of the stiffest character.

In the 70-yard dash the outstanding figures are Leconey of Lafayette and Lovejoy of Cornell. Leconey won the title last year in 7 and 3-10 seconds. Lever of Penn is likewise a powerful contender in this event.

Hauers and Meyer of Rutgers will figure as winning prospects in the 60-yard high hurdles, at the coming games, while a galaxy of stars has entered the relays. Among those mentioned as dangerous rivals of the Nittany Lion in the two mile event are Tom Campbell and Douglass of Yale, and Connelly of Georgetown, Penn established a world's record of 7 minutes, 55 and 2-10 seconds in the two-mile relay a year ago. In the mile relay, Koppisch of Columbia, and Woodring of Syracuse are likely entries. Woodring is the Olympic champion who saved the day for Syracuse at the Penn relays last year by his excellent running in the one-mile, four-man event.

Besides Campbell and Douglass, Yale's two-mile relay team includes Hilles and Vandrey, both of whom have been turning in 880-yards under two minutes. Connelly of Georgetown will be supported by Masters, Brewster, and Brooks. Masters has done the half-mile in 1:55:4-5, while Brewster is capable of undercutting 1:53.

The Meadowbrook meet at Philadelphia next Saturday will finish the indoor track season.

Schedule Announced Soon

Although the spring track schedule has not yet been officially announced, it will be forthcoming soon. The Nittany cinder artists expect to train during Easter week for the Southern trip, which comes first on their schedule, and Coach Cartmell states that he will begin work on field events, as well as track, next week.

On the Southern trip, the Lion will encounter Maryland, V. P. I., and the Navy. Other events on the spring list are a dual meet with Carnegie Tech, the I. C. A. A. A. meet, the Pittsburgh Intercollegiate, the National Intercollegiate at Chicago and a dual meet with Pitt.

MITMEN TO MEET ARMY TEAM AT WEST POINT

is tall and lanky; but a markedly hard hitter.

Wells and Pierce are contending for the privilege of donning the mits in the middleweight berth, and Wells is perhaps the surer prospect. After his creditable showing against Captain Lucas of Penn last Saturday the Blue and White 160-pounder has gained the one thing he needed most—confidence, and should give Buckley, the Army scrapper, some worthy competition, should he meet him. Pierce, however, must be reckoned with first, and the latter has been displaying excellent form and condition lately, so that he is able to furnish stiff competition for the berth.

"Hap" Frank In 175

Although he is boxing about ten pounds under weight, "Hap" Frank will take Clark's place in the 175-pound battle. Since last Saturday he has undergone a rigorous schedule of training and practice. He will meet Fuqua fented 23 to 3, Princeton, Dartmouth who lost by a score of 33 to 0, and M. I. T., defeated 26 to 6.

The team which will probably meet the Blue and White matmen tomorrow will be composed of Captain Schwartzbach, 115 pound class; Warriner, 125 pound class; Gilson, 135 pound class; Rodgers, 145 pound class; Coxo, 158 pound class; Berk, 175 pound class, and Carlisle, in the heavyweight division.

Captain Schwartzbach, Warriner, Gilson, Coxo, and Carlisle are all veteran members of the squad from last season. In the meet with Navy, which Lehigh lost 20 to 10, Coxo and Carlisle were the only two who scored for the Brown and White.
