PENN STATE HARRIERS REPORT FOR PRACTICE

good material this season Russell Malone did good work for the Mercersburg Academy team before coming to Penn State and should be available for an early start. H. Johnson, H. Stewart and H. W. Bushing, a lad from Lakeswood, Ohio, gives promise of being out in the fore when the men take to the field. R. Fouracre is another candidate for the freshman squad.

But four regular varsity men are back in school. J. W. Decker '25, H. F. Yeager '25, Captain Deek and M. L. Wendler '24, make up the quartette of Nitany harriers which will form the nucleus of a practically new squad. J. W. Fitzpatrick '25, K. B. Barclay, D. L. Arm and M. C. Chandler make up the personnel that will lead the men during the tryouts.

There is a possibility that five meets will be arranged for the varsity team this season. As yet no schedule has been drawn up but it is hoped that a date can be arranged with Harvard. The inter-collegiate cross country championships, that are held at New York will find Penn State among the entrants. Carnegie Tech is also being favorably viewed as a third opponent. Syracuse also holds an annual inter-collegiate meet, and the team may be taken to that event.

As a formal introduction to the season it is likely that an open meet will be held here, in which anyone is eligible to participate. Several considerations are being made in regard to a freshman schedule, no information as to the results of which could be learned other than that the freshmen would accompany the varsity team on its trip to the inter-collegiate at New York.

FACULTY RECEPTION WILL BE HELD AT U. CLUB FRIDAY NIGHT

The annual reception given by President and Mrs. Thomas and the University Club to the faculty, will be held at the University Club on Friday evening, September twenty-first at nine o'clock. The heads of departments are requested to notify next members of the faculty and to assist in introducing them at the reception.

MANY STUDENTS ATTEND SILVER BAY CONFERENCE

Penn State's Delegation Consist of Twenty Men—Several Alumni Also Attended

Seven hundred students, representing about thirty of the colleges and universities in the east, gathered at Silver Bay, New York, last June for the annual Y M C A conference. The conference opened Thursday, June fourth, immediately following the close of the college year, and ended on Thursday, June twenty-first.

Twenty students, led by N. S. Hishman '24, president of the Y M C A at Penn State, accompanied the delegation from Penn State. Accompanying the students were F. I. Olmstead, secretary of the Y M C A, and the Reverend D. W. Cuthbert, student pastor at the Presbyterian church, Dr. I. L. Foster and Professor A. L. Rhoads, of the faculty. In addition several Penn State alumni attended: "Bill" Watson '10, "Bill" Wood '16, head coach at Gettysburg College, "Bill" Jones '19, secretary of the Y M C A at the University of West Virginia, Sterling Harris, Y M C A secretary at Lehigh University, "Bill" Kitchin '21 and "Chevick" Downs '22.

The conference program was varied and at the same time crowded with events. In the mornings, bible classes, under the direction of Professor A. Duane Curtis, were held. Following this came the forum hour, the discussions being led by such men as Harry Emerson Fosdick, Raymond Robbins, David H. Foster, G. Reginald Wheeler, and others of national and international standing. Campus, social, racial, and international problems were discussed, emphasis was placed on the betterment of social and moral life on the average campus. The last meeting of the morning was the general assembly.

Following the noonday meal, the afternoon was devoted to sports and athletics. Events between the various colleges were frequently held and were very hotly contested. The evenings were occupied by delegation meetings in which the questions raised during the day were fully discussed and solutions offered. Special conferences of foreign students and of members of college and university faculties were held in which the particular problems pertaining to both groups were studied.

For years, the feature of the conference has been "Stunt Night", at which time each college presents a sketch or entertainment lasting about fifteen minutes. The Penn State delegation has always shown up well on this occasion and this year they were invited to be among the first to perform. A short sketch, entitled "The Lion and the Chocolate Drop", was prepared, in which the famous Nitany Lion took a prominent part. The effort was enthusiastically received.

The value of the Silver Bay conference cannot be over-estimated. From it the Penn State "Y" draws largely its inspiration and its personnel. The discussions touch every phase of college life and campus activity and are under the direction of men who have made a lifelong study of campus problems and their solution.

Started in 1895 by the late Dwight L. Moody, these conferences have grown until almost every college in the country is touched. From an insignificant beginning at Newfield twenty-eight years ago, four conferences have evolved: Silver Bay, Geneva, Estes Park and Seelack, held every spring immediately following the close of school.

E. E. SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING ON TUESDAY

The Electrical Engineering Society of Penn State held its first meeting on Tuesday evening. Professors Markle and Doggett gave interesting talks on the new combined engineering society. The electrical engineering students were urged to give their support to the coming campaign and they responded by heartily endorsing the new plan of combination.

The president, H. O. Alexander '21, appointed a campaign and finance committee. Other committees were appointed and plans were made for a dinner for the freshmen next week. Alexander urges the sophomores and freshman electrical engineers to attend the meetings. The idea that they are ineligible is incorrect.

touch will be had with all graduates. This feature may turn into a department rivalry to secure the best record. Several department heads have already taken steps along this line, particularly in the agricultural school. All but one of the poultry husbandry graduates are reported to have subscribed to the fund.

President Thomas will speak to the Rotary Club at Bradford, McKean county, on Monday. Hugo Bezek visited there last spring and laid a good campaign foundation, and the address of President Thomas will doubtless serve to renew activities in that section.

Campaign receipts last week are tabulated as follows:

ENGINEERS' SOCIETY MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

ticket perforated into four parts. All of these parts are filled out with the member's name, and one of them is returned to him as a receipt. Of the other three, one goes to the Penn State Engineer for its circulation file, one goes to the man's departmental society, and the other forms the record in the office of the Combined Engineering Society.

Much of the drive for membership is carried on in the various class rooms where the students are together in natural divisions by departments. This is proving to be much more successful than trying to get the men together by advertised meetings.

It is not expected that any of the money collected during any one year will go into a permanent fund. The amount of dues for the Combined Engineering Society will not be a fixed amount, but will vary according to the program to be carried out. All of the money is to be spent in the year that it is collected, except perhaps for those bills incurred in collecting the money in the succeeding year.

COACHES PUT GRID MEN THROUGH STIFF DRILL

"Bez" put all four teams through a stiff scrimmage on Wednesday. "Bez" put the linemen through a stiff drill while Killinger was putting the backfield men through their paces. Scrimmage followed, with the first and third and second and fourth teams pitted against each other.

The punting has been improving. Light and Faulkner were kicking the ball to the first and second team backfield men on Wednesday and both men were getting off some nice punts. Palm's punting has also been showing improvement.
