Notices

All men who are taking physical education are requested to sign up for their winter sport at once. Arrangements may be made at the office in the Armory.

A. C. Chittling, director of the Penn State Players, has announced that copies of "Loyalties," the match production, are at the library and should be obtained by those who wish to try out for the play. Try-outs will be held before the Christmas vacation.

"I PAGLIACCI" PLEASES PENN STATE STUDENTS

(Continued from first page) comes. The clown acting as guard, cries out that the husband P. Laecci has come and hides himself. Peppe escapes, as Silvio has done without being seen but the husband hears his wife recite the same "I Pagliacci" as she used in the afternoon to her real lover. This excites her husband so that he forgets the play and up-bids her in earnest for the name of her real lover. Silvio, Nedda smiles to her part and the villagers are delighted with the realism, but are soon mystified. Carlo insists that he be told the name of the lover, Nedda defies him. Suddenly he strikes her, she falling on Silvio for help. Silvio runs forward, dazed in hand, but is also stricken by Carlo, who turns to the audience and says, "La commedia finita." The comedy is ended.

The part of Nedda taken by Miss Marie Louise Stager was a remarkable one, featured by unswerving acting and a sweet soprano voice. Charles Erickson as Carlo, made a very deep impression with the life and enthusiasm of his fine tenor singing. The love ballads of Silvio, sung by Chester Tallin with his rich baritone voice, were a feature of the show that will be remembered. The ballet "An Hour Before the Cock Crows" which followed, was performed in a magnificent manner by twelve girls from Beth St. Dennis Ziegler, Polly and Gatenbach Villere, Palleys company. This part of the production was featured by the graceful execution of the most difficult of dances by the chorus of charming beauties.

STUDENT TRIBUNAL ACTS ON SIX FRESHMAN CASES

ty-one should henceforth be interpreted as stating that freshmen must speak to every student when passing on the streets in the buildings. In endorsing the measure the president made the following statement: "There is much attention about the campus in regard to this matter of the freshmen not speaking. 'Daz' has expressed in almost all of his talks at the mass meetings the thought that what he calls the 'cheery Penn State Hello' is one of the finest of the college traditions and one that should not be allowed to fall into disuse. In the past few months they seem to be what it is doing. In revising the rule we have tried to follow the general student sentiment about speaking and the boys think it will be more effective as it now stands. If the freshmen don't speak, and speak first to every student they meet we can handle them very nicely right here. 'Mike' can understand in as many as want to come up and 'Harry,' 'Andy,' 'Pipe' and the rest know what to do and will do it. Our hope is, though, that the fellows will back us up and there will be no need for such action."

Several members of the Tribunal spoke of the poor attendance at the freshman class meetings and it was agreed that if there is not a great increase in the number of the first year men at the next meeting, the absentees brought before the Tribunal.

PLAYERS PRESENT SHOW IN HARRISBURG THEATRE

the role of the lover all that might be expected of him in such a way as to make all the audience love the lover. Playing opposite to him was Miss Jones, who interpreted the part of Dinah with a noble pettiness. It is a charming role and was charmingly played. The part of Mr. Pim was played in an excellent fashion by H. G. Hoeft. Mr. Hoeft who has appeared in the other two performances of "Pim," has progressed in his interpretation of the forgetful old fellow and each time he plays it he grows more and more into the role. Lady Morden was played by Mary

Sanford went in for Pritchard and his end running looked good for another freshman score but good defensive work held the first year men on the eight-yard line. The game ended with the sophomores in possession of the ball at mid-field.

Freshman Team Coach Glenn Killinger is keeping a sharp eye on the candidates for the freshman squad and already he has made the first cut. From over fifty candidates who were applying for places on the varsity combination, he has selected twenty men.

DELEGATES TO ATTEND VOLUNTEER CONFERENCE

(Continued from first page) people will be treated by nationals. The convention will be opened with four addresses dealing with the four great themes which are being discussed in the colleges throughout the country this fall, "Modern Industrialism," "Racial Relations and Christian Brotherhood," "International Problems and the Christian Way of Life," and "Present Day Social and Intellectual Unrest." The second day will be devoted to group discussions of these subjects and to addresses showing the relations of the Christian missionary enterprise to them. The remainder of the convention will be given to a more detailed study of the conditions in various parts of the world, to a study of the full scope and ministry to the world.
