JUDGE LINDSEY TALKS ON BOY CRIMINALS

petty thefts of children and the huge thefts of the grafters throughout the country; and urged the control of children by gaining their confidence and not making them afraid. In the thousands of cases that were brought before him in his court never has his confidence in the criminal been betrayed. Every year he sends boys and girls many miles across the state to reformatories unguarded and there has never been one escape, in some cases the boys and girls who had committed a wrong came voluntarily to the judge and gave themselves up.

A law in Judge Lindsey's court is "Thou shalt not snitch." Lying up to the rule Judge himself had to pay several thousands of dollars for contempt of court when he refused to betray the confidence the criminal had placed in him. All the discussion treated of his experience in the juvenile court in Denver with the children of the city and were elaborated with concrete illustrations and interesting incidents. An appeal was made to the parents to be honest with children and to train them not to lie, for children reflect on the parents. Noteworthy mention should be made that since all the time he has been judge of the juvenile court he has not accumulated any wealth, being enveloped in his work for the love of helping the children.

NITANY MITTMEN FACE SEASON OF HARD MEETS

inary work-outs for getting the men in condition. Immediately after vacation Coach Houck intends to commence cutting the squad and preparing the men for the meets.

Although no freshman schedule has been made up, the manager is working on it at the present time and it is probable that several meets will be held at home and at least one away.

PROFS. OF AGRICULTURE ARE ACTIVE WORKERS

Professor H. D. Anthony spoke before the Illinois State Horticulture Association at their annual meeting on Thursday, December the thirteenth. His subject of discussion was "Fertility and Culture Questions of Apple Orchardings."

Professor G. W. Cavanaugh, of the Agricultural Chemistry department of the University of Cornell spent Friday and Saturday of last week at the college conferring with Professor Dutcher on research work in chemistry.

At the seventy-fifth annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science which will be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, December the twenty-seventh to January the third, Professors Anthony, Waring, Fagan and Tapley will represent the Horticultural Science Society which is affiliated with the association. Papers will be read by Professors Fagan, Anthony and Tapley. Professor Fagan's paper will be of interest to most of the Horticulture students. His topic will be "Second Year, Summer Practicum." Professor Fletcher gave a talk on First Year Summer Practicum at the last meeting. This subject pertains to the work done by the students in their required summer practicum in their junior year.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR FROSH CAMPAIGN DRIVE

A board on the front campus will show the per cent of participation for each of the ten teams of canvassers at the end of each day's work. This information will be provided by a statistical committee which is making up the assignments for captains, and which will keep an accurate check on the progress of the drive which it is hoped can be completed within a few days. J. C. Weithaus is chairman of this committee. N. S. Hilschman and C. H. Gough are acting as first assistants to Chairman Baender and are helping with the many details necessary to set the organization started and kept going as a purely student project.

E. E. Helm is chairman of a "stimulus committee" and is arranging for publicity and special features, including the mass meeting. The ten captains who will serve as team leaders, are as follows, each man having ten lieutenants: W. H. Fortna, J. C. Frank, C. E. Finley, J. B. Park, H. J. Corswilt, M. C. Mitchell, R. E. Longacre, F. N. Patzinger, James Gray, R. S. Piteh and W. B. Flory, the latter being a member of the two-year agricultural group.

The Women's Student Government Association is looking after the campaign canvass among the new girl students and Miss Burdick will have the following assistants as "captains" for their drive: from the class of '26—Misses Jeannette Cook, Eleanor Leitch, Margaret Leitch and Anne Gajdics. From the class of '27—Misses Esther Frank, Edith Oehme, Gladys McIntyre, Mildred Maloy, Helen Carmody, Elizabeth Body and Helch Poster.

PROF. C. R. ORTON WILL GIVE ADDRESS IN CANADA

For the first time in recent years a Penn State man, Professor C. R. Orton, has been selected as the outsider to speak before the meeting of the Canadian Branch of the American Phytogeographical Society which holds its annual sessions at Kingston, Canada, this year on December twentieth and twenty-first.

It is the habit of the Canadian organization to invite one leading speaker, usually from the United States, to be the feature talker of the convention. Usually, these men have been selected from either one of the eastern universities or one of the far western institutions; so Professor Orton's invitation came somewhat as a surprise to him and his co-workers.

The subject that Professor Orton has chosen for his talk is "Seed-Born Parasites." As he has given considerable attention to this subject in the past few years, the Penn State botanist is well qualified to talk on the theme which is to his liking and he promises to give some real information to his Canadian audience.

PRE-HOLIDAY MEETINGS ARE HELD BY CLASSES

Many Items of Business Are Transacted at Class Meetings—Elections Are Held

SENIORS

Meeting in the Old Chapel at seven o'clock on last Monday evening, the senior class transacted a number of matters of interest to the fourth year students. E. N. Sullivan, the Alumni Secretary, was present and spoke on the alumni organization of the class, suggesting the election of an alumni secretary for 1924.

R. H. Willow was elected as Student Council representative from the School of Natural Science, and nominations were held for a representative from the School of the Liberal Arts. The following men were nominated: H. J. Corswilt, W. H. Fortna, J. R. Hilleman, K. Loeffler and B. W. Mertz.

The senior class went on record as favoring the erection of the new Recreation Building as the next building to be placed on the campus, and a letter containing this decision has been sent to President Thomas.

The date for the Senior Dance was confirmed as Friday, February first. The dance will be formal, and all senior men and women will be eligible for tickets.

JUNIORS

A short meeting of the Junior class was held last Friday evening, December seventh, at seven o'clock in the Hull Pen. Three managers were elected and several important committees were appointed by the class.

The meeting was called to order by C. H. Gough '25. After the reading and approval of the minutes, nominations and then elections were carried on for the positions of wrestling and basketball managers and also for class cheerleader. M. C. Kelsler was elected as basketball manager, F. V. Kovalansky as wrestling manager and Harry Rothrock as cheerleader. President Gough appointed a committee which will have charge of decorations for the Junior Prom. This committee consists of J. C. Fultz '25, J. Eisler '25, and V. D. Dunbar '25.

After these elections and appointments, N. J. Hilschman '24, a member of the student board, spoke to the class concerning the future Penn State recreation building as specified in the campaign, and asked for the opinion of the class as to whether they favored its erection as the next building on the campus. The class went on record as favoring this plan and passed a motion to that effect.

SOPHOMORES

President C. H. Light, relieved of his gridiron duties, made his initial appearance as presiding officer of the sophomore class at the meeting held a week from last Wednesday night in the Hull Pen at six-thirty o'clock.

E. E. Helm '24, a representative of the Student Council, gave a short talk emphasizing the necessity for the erection of a new recreation building in the immediate future. He also spoke on the importance of maintaining the traditional college spirit even though Penn State may soon assume the title and the responsibilities of a university. At the conclusion of Helm's speech, the class passed a resolution to the effect that they were heartily in favor of a new Recreation Hall as the next building to be constructed on the campus.

Acting in accord with the decision rendered by the Student Tribunal, which was that all freshmen must attend their class-meetings, a well-organized movement was planned in order to enforce this unobserved rule. The movement was carried out very successfully after the second year men immediately after the adjournment of their meeting, and the freshmen meeting which followed, will long be remembered by the yearlings.

FRESHMEN

A short meeting of the freshman class was held in the Hull Pen on Wednesday evening, R. R. Fournere, third trial president, conducted the meeting.

Class wrestling and boxing managers were elected. The first election resulted in the selection of J. B. Jacobs as manager of wrestling, and on the second vote, R. Rutherford was chosen as manager of the freshman boxing team.

C. H. Gough '25 spoke to the first year men with regard to the customs observed during indoor athletic events at Penn State. He told them that no razzing of any kind was permitted, although the seating arrangement made it possible, and explained the order in which the classes leave the Army at the end of the event.

FRENCH COMEDY PLAY PLANNED BY STUDENTS

instructed by the uncomprehending interpreter to search for a pair of thieves who he believes have stolen the Englishman's pocketbook. The gendarmes bring in two suspicious characters—the cloping couple. The outcome is easily imagined.

Mr. Albert Robin of the Romance Language Department, who is the director of the production, has chosen for the cast, Miss E. M. Kitchin '25, as the English girl; J. C. Stacks '25, as her father; G. L. Guy '26, as the Frenchman; Miss Mae Tempone '25, as a hotel clerk; J. M. Price, as the interpreter; L. J. Dalley, as the inspector; and W. M. Hollis, as the policeman. The cast has held several rehearsals, and according to Mr. Robin the work is progressing smoothly in the manner of the pronunciation of the difficult French text and in the acting itself.

With a membership which has grown to the number of one hundred and fifty and well-attended meetings which have been held this season, the leaders of the club feel that it has met with remarkable success. In an effort to make the January program even more enjoyable it is planned to include with the production of the play, several musical numbers.

CHRISTMAS DANCES ARE SET BY COUNTY CLUBS

from Delaware County has its informal social event of the year at the Twentieth Century Club in Lansdowne.

On the last day of the year, the thirty-first, there will be two more dances those held by the Chester Club and the Pottstown Club. The former organization will hold its dance at Coatesville and the other club will hold its affair at the Odd Fellows' Hall in Pottstown. These dances are the only ones that were announced up to the time this paper went to press.

DRAMATISTS PLAN SERIES OF PLAYS

critics it is "an exotic glimpse of old Egypt done in poetic prose." The setting of this play will be a special feature of the program, as the costumes of the various characters were designed especially for the production by Ethel Sparks and George Horner. Several of these costumes were brought from Egypt by Miss Sparks herself. Mr. Amend has taken great care in selecting the cast and feels that the production should be one of the most successful of the season. Taking the part of Queen Naphtii is Lydia Griest. According to the director her interpretation of the potted monarch is remarkable for its realism. The role of her lover Bel-Narah, the engineering wizard of Egypt, is carried by J. V. Iah '26. Playing opposite him is Madelyn Wright as Dakhel, a dancing girl of the court. Completing the cast are G. A. Kraber '26, as Prah-Hatch, the old chamberlain and adviser of Naphtii, and Dorothy Mysser '27, as Suzah, the queen's favorite handmaiden. Slaves in the "Secret of the Nile"; J. N. Stewart '27, C. W. Kinball '26, C. S. Crawford '26, W. F. Sterling '27, H. D. Fritchman '26.

According to the publishers, "Three Wise Men—Going West," "The Susseptible Mr. Parsons" and "The Secret of the Nile," in conjunction with several more of Mr. Amend's one-act plays, will appear shortly in a collected volume. By the time of publication it is planned to have produced all ten of these plays in State College.
