PROMINENT ALUMNI MEET AT BANQUET

Governor Pinchot, "Prexy" Thomas and "Bez" Present at Function Held in Harrisburg
PROGRAM FEATURED BY NOVEL SONG CONTEST

With Governor Pinchot and other prominent men as guests, a banquet was given by the Harrisburg division of the Penn State Alumni Association on January twenty-eighth in the Pennsylvania Hotel. The banquet was presided over by a business meeting in which many future actions of the Alumni Association were discussed. Men from all parts of Pennsylvania were in attendance to the number of one hundred and seventy-five. An outstanding feature of the occasion was the fact that eight out of the eleven men who compose the board of managers of the General Alumni Association were present.

An elaborate dinner was served in the afternoon following the business meeting. Lindsey H. Dehn's '12 acted as toastmaster. Governor Pinchot gave a brief talk on memories of his college days. Following the Governor's address, President John M. Thomas spoke on Penn State and education in which Penn State is struggling and how the college has assumed the responsibility of making itself a university.

George H. Deike '02, president of the Central Alumni Association, presided at the banquet on the splendid work of the association. C. C. Hildebrand '02, president of the Penn State Alumni Association at Philadelphia, came to Harrisburg especially to attend the meeting. He spoke of the work being accomplished by the Philadelphia Alumni Association and of the excellent cooperation among the other branches.

The Combined Engineers Society will hold its dances at the Center Hills Country Club on the evening of Saturday, February twenty-third. Music will be rendered by Brown's Troubadours, one of the student dance orchestras of Penn State.

NITTANY GRANGE WILL HOLD PUBLIC MEETING

Speakers Include Dean Watts and Professor Bressler—Short Play To Be Given

In order to enlist the support of the members of the faculty and the extension staff of the School of Agriculture and to show some of the work that it is doing, the Penn State Grange will hold an open house meeting in Room 100 Horticulture Building at eight o'clock this evening. Professor Bressler and Dean Watts will speak and a short play will be presented.

At its annual meeting in Pittsburgh last fall the State Grange voted to appropriate two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for a girls' dormitory at Penn State which would also include a hall for Grange meetings. The state organization expressed a desire that the members of the faculty and extension staff of the School of Agriculture of Penn State become members of the Grange in order to help support this project. Professor Bressler was included in the membership of the committee detailed to take care of the building plans.

The present meeting is for the purpose of obtaining new members by showing them what the organization is. Professor Bressler will give a short history and the purpose of the Grange and will show how the students and faculty can do the most for rural life by joining the largest and strongest rural organization.

DEAN WATTS TO SPEAK

Dean Watts will speak on the opportunity for "service" in the Grange since most of the student members of the Penn State Grange will become members of local Granges. Dean Watts believes that the faculty should cooperate with the undergraduate members of the Grange in making it a training school so that the students can become leaders of their local Granges when they graduate.

ALTON PACKARD GIVES ENTERTAINING LECTURE

Humorous Remarks Accompany Drawings of Cartoonist in "Y" Course Number

Before an audience that filled the Auditorium to capacity, Alton Packard, noted cartoonist, appeared in an interesting feature of the Y. M. C. A. entertainment course. His humorous remarks kept his audience in continual laughter. The very first words spoken by a richly-toned voice, were laughing. He began by sketching Uncle Sam and his people. While he drew, he talked continuously and by means of his cartoons illustrated his talk.

NOVEL LIGHTING EFFECTS

Packard has evolved a system of lighting effects equal to that of a motion picture, which he manipulates himself. After throwing the stage into total darkness the cartoonist sketched a representation of communism in Moscow. He then threw a spotlight upon his finished sketch and sang one of his original songs as accompaniment.

LILES, PENN STATE

In an interview, Packard stated that he was greatly pleased and favorably impressed with Penn State. His comment was, "Penn State has a great bunch of students. I have had the keenest audience tonight so far for this season. One of my sons I sent through Cornell but I have another son whom I think I shall send to Penn State. I am favorably impressed."

R. M. SINCOCK IS ELECTED TO GOLF MANAGERSHIP

At an election held on Friday by the Penn State golf team, R. M. Sincock '25, was elected manager to take the place of H. P. Wiggins '24 who did not return to college.

It is the plan of N. M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, to work up a golf schedule this year similar to the one of last spring. The schedule will include country clubs in the vicinity and colleges in this part of the state. Letters asking for matches have already been received from Pitt and from Carnegie Tech.

The golf squad for the coming season will include some excellent material but the varsity team has suffered a set-back in the loss of R. T. Stevenson '26, who has left school to take advanced military training at Fort Benning, Texas. Stevenson was captain of last year's freshman team and was runner-up to J. W. Kindt '24 in the college championship.

CAPT. FERBER RECEIVES WEST POINT EXAM DATA

A letter has been received by Captain G. L. Ferber, of the Military Department, from the Adjutant General of West Point, requesting that attention be called to the fact that examinations will be held on the first Tuesday of March, with view to admission to West Point. Successful applicants will be admitted on July first, 1924.

DANCE HELD BY SENIOR CLASS IS BIG SUCCESS

Striking Decorations and Music by College Inps Are Features of Annual Event

More than two hundred seniors attended the Senior Dance which was held on Friday night in the Armory. The success of the dance was evidenced by the frequent calls for entrées from the orchestra.

The hall was modestly decorated with green as the predominant color. The lower part of the windows were hung with orange and black draperies surrounded by green pine branches. Larger pines placed at various points along the wall gave a striking effect. Adding to the artistic effect were the red, white, and blue lights illuminating the floor.

The music, which met with applause was rendered by the "College Inps," a ten-piece orchestra from Carnegie Tech, which has the reputation of being the best student dance orchestra in western Pennsylvania. No favors were given to the ladies but the selection of souvenir programs met with general approval.

The committee in charge of the dance was composed of F. N. Young, Chairman, H. T. Conshitz, H. N. Fitzgerald, R. S. Fitch, W. E. Hess, S. W. Hamilton, H. W. Johnson and P. J. Morgan.

PENN STATE CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Penn State Club will hold a meeting on next Monday night for the purpose of electing officers. Every club member is requested to be present to select the men who will guide the organization through the coming year. The session is scheduled to take place in Old Chapel at seven-thirty o'clock.

The six officers to be elected include the president, three vice-presidents, the secretary and the treasurer. C. M. Osborne, prominent in the club's activities, said in regard to the coming elections: "To the incoming board of officers comes a great opportunity for activity on the campus as the work already outlined indicates the worth of the organization at Penn State. To all these duties active and resourceful men will be needed and it is up to every non-student man to see that the officers chosen are able and fitted for the positions."

While most of the officers conform to the conventional parliamentary plan, the second and third vice-presidents have special duties. On the first of these depends the success of inter-university athletics, as it is through him that the various sports are organized and directed. The third vice-president is given the responsibility of planning the social activities of the club and just as the athletic activities of the non-student man depends on the ability and energy of the second vice-president, so the social functions of the club hinge on the activity of the third.
