JUNIOR PROMENADE IS BEST STAGED IN YEARS

Seventy-five Couples Fail To Receive Favors—Added Supply To Be Ordered

The dignified tone of formal dress and the mingling of well-colored evening gowns mingled together on Friday night at the Amory and added the charm of 1921 in putting across a successful Junior Prom. More than seven hundred couples attended the affair which was one of the most successful that has been held at Penn State for some time.

In a statement issued on Saturday morning, W. S. Foisman '23, chairman of the committee which handled the affair, said that the supply of more than six hundred favors was given out and that names were taken of more than seven-hundred guests who did not receive them. The favors were in appreciation of those of former years, consisting of an ornate leather book, one on which the college seal was embossed.

Fred Waring and his group of accomplished musicians lived up to their reputation in the way they supplied the music for the occasion. The Penn State band was forced time after time to forego more encores in order that they might complete the full program of dances for the evening.

The Japhet lantern lighting event was very effective and distributed the light indirectly to all portions of the Amory floor. The many colored wall panels with printed figures gave a decidedly blazie aspect to the room and the numerous niches along both sides of the floor containing various articles added much to the originality of the decorative scheme.

The novel method of seating, tried out for the first time at the Prom, might well be considered successful in that it added between four and five hundred square feet to the dancing space of the floor. The white draped benches arranged neatly on all sides of the room also made a decidedly pleasing appearance.

COACH CARTMELL OPENS OUTDOOR TRACK SEASON

The most promising candidates for Edgerton's berth.

Alvin Hofflich has been practicing regularly during the winter season and is set for the spring meets. "State" may use him in the distance medley race at the Relays, in addition to the two mile relay event. He and Dick will be a formidable pair in the half mile.

Frank Looks Good

Dick with an unusually successful winter season behind him has bright prospects for the coming spring meets. He will be used regularly in the mile run. "State" looked good on the lead track, this winter and should make a strong bid if he continues to improve.

In the two mile run at the Penn Relays on April twenty-sixth, Hofflich will be entered in a special two mile event. This will be one of the feature races of the event as "State" is expected to enter a distance runner in this event.

K. B. Parlay '26, R. R. Fomere '27 and W. Sidley '26 are the most promising newcomers in the two mile event. From this trio Cartmell expects to enter in the Penn Relays the man who is showing up the best.

Penn State has a first place bet in "Club" Meade who has been building a fine form this winter. In addition to the speedy sophomore, E. P. Sweeten '26 and R. Russell '25 are practicing for this event. Russell is showing better form than he has ever displayed before.

THESPIANS SCORE HIT WITH COMEDY

First Performance of "The Magazine Cover Girl" Attracts Capacity Crowd

DANCING AND SINGING IS OF PROFESSIONAL CALIBRE

In one of the most successful musical comedies ever presented at Penn State the Thespian Club presented "The Magazine Cover Girl" by R. D. York, May 23 last Saturday night before a capacity crowd in the Auditorium. "One of the best amateur shows we have ever directed," was the statement of the representative of the Varsity Studios after the performance.

From the rise of the curtain in the first act until the final drop at the end of the third the careful timing and talent of the cast was evidenced by dancing of almost professional calibre, deceiving impersonations and singing that was a credit to the musical skill of every member.

Leads Are Strong

In the role of Fern Morrison the heroine and chief girl figure in the show, R. W. Graham '26 carried one of the finest impersonations ever played by the club according to one of its frequentes. With graceful dancing and a well controlled voice he played the role in a manner which defied criticism almost throughout. J. H. Vance '26, as Jean Morrison's aunt, H. W. Pennington '26, as Colonel Hays, a wealthy bachelor, J. C. Huffman '25, playing opposite Jean as a prosperous young wife in the part of Billy Malloy and W. D. Hesse '21, as Gordon Bennett, the man of the world who finally wins the charming lead, all played flawless roles marked by careful characterization and interesting impersonations.

"Dutch" Ambauster and Jack McEwen '21, playing respectively the parts of Hyacinth, an old southern mammy, and Octavia her boyhood sweetheart, with a laugh on every appearance by multi-provoking dialogue. Ambauster's recreation in the school room scene and Myers' clever dancing were features of the show. E. H. Murray '24 as the maid, J. W. Eiler '24, as Gul-soppi Maletesta the opera singer who fights a one-sided duel with Billy Malloy, I. M. Kennedy '26 as a very lifelike and amusing drunk, L. Graff '26 with laughable dialogue in the role of Swedish Hula and D. H. Porterfield '21 in a characterization of the minister all displayed talent in their parts.

Both of the choruses for the show were exceptionally strong, the dancing and singing bringing excellent results every appearance on the stage. At the first rehearsal before the appearance of the show on Saturday, Wayburn stated that the male chorus compared very favorably with the best choruses that he had produced this year on the professional stage.

Security Is Original

The work of Porterfield, the settings for the comedy, were novel and attractive. At the dress rehearsal on Thursday Ned Wayburn stated that they were "equalled by none in the amateur productions I have ever seen this year." The first act was set in the living room of Miss DeLong's Long Island home, the second at the art studio of Billy Malloy in Greenwich Village and the third act in the parlor of Miss DeLong's home. The costumes for the show, which were designed by Miss Helen Savari, also attracted favorable comment. Lighting for the stage was handled by R. Parkins '26.

The music of the comedy, catchy and tuneful, was the work of D. L. Auchincloss '24 and H. Fishburn '22. Auchincloss' Serenades, who appeared in the third act with a series of popular and college songs were received with enthusiastic applause. Of them Wayburn said, "I may state without any flattery that they need take second place to no orchestra that is playing on Broadway, they are superior to any other amateur organization that I have ever heard." He also complimented the saxophone sextet which appeared in the second act in regard to the show as a whole. Wayburn stated, "I think every one connected with the comedy deserves credit. It is one of the best college shows I have seen and should prove a hit at every performance."

Bookings for the show have already been completed for several out-of-town amateur shows, including one in Hingham, and it will be given twice by the club during Commencement Week.

DR. KENT SPEAKS AT BOTH SUNDAY CHAPEL SERVICES

Dr. Kent of the School of Religion at Yale University, was the speaker of the day at both chapel services last Sunday and his sermons dealt with topics of live interest to students. The New Haven man occupies the position of Professor of Biblical Literature at Yale and he is noted both for his preaching at that institution and for his writings on religious subjects.

At the morning chapel services, the sermon dealt with the relation of Christianity to recreation and Dr. Kent brought out this relationship in a striking manner. According to his way of thinking he said, among other things, that dining was one of the most wholesome means of recreation.

On his second appearance before the Penn State students, he spoke of the desire of everyone to have happiness. He showed the right attitudes of happiness, expanding on such of them. "Those people are happy who have a desire to acquire further knowledge and who are also quick to make friendships, according to the noted Yale instructor.

FIFTEEN CATTLE SOLD FROM PENN STATE HERD

For the first time in many years, the Penn State dairy herd reached the point where surplus animals could be sold. Last week fifteen head of cows, heifers and young bull were listed for sale and within four days practically all the animals found new owners. Several of these animals are from noted sires. The fact that practically all the animals were purchased by local farmers shows the high regard with which these pure blooded animals are held.

An interesting fact in connection with the College herd is that not a single animal has reached to the tuberculous test in the last six years.

WISCONSIN DEAN OPPOSES "ROUGH HOUSE" INITIATION

"There is no defense whatever in the 'roughhouse initiation' said Dr. H. Goodnight, dean of men at Wisconsin. "After being prodded and handled around without sleep and proper nourishment, the new members of the fraternity are in no condition to appreciate the formal ceremony and ritual which immediately follows the rough initiation. For that reason and others, he is made a worse fraternity man rather than a better."

"Grape-Nuts" and Psychology

An interesting letter from a student at the University of Pennsylvania

POSTUM CEREAL COMPANY, INC.
Battle Creek, Michigan

University of Pennsylvania
January 12, 1921

Gentlemen:

Today in psychology class we had an experiment known as the mental imagery experiment in which we were given the Galton Breakfast Table Blank to fill out.

The procedure of this interesting experiment was first to recall in the "mind's eye" the breakfast table as we sat down to it that morning and to call up its general appearance: the table, the food, dishes, and those present.

This is what happened to me: I tried to recall the appearance of the table, the dishes, those who sat at the table with me—the only thing that I could recall was my breakfast food—"Grape-Nuts." I could see plainly in my mental imagery the crisp and wonderfully delicious dish of my breakfast food and the well-known box of Grape-Nuts.

The cause for this mental imagery of "Grape-Nuts" was that we are "conscious of environment through sensations"—that we will recall in mental imagery those things that have made a favorable impression upon our minds.

I have eaten "Grape-Nuts" since the time I started to grade school and your famous slogan "There's a Reason" explains it all.

Yours for a well-balanced food,
(Signed) S. H. LEBENSBURGER
