The dancing plan to be used tonight will be similar to that in effect at the Junior Prom. By 10:15 p.m. all of the men's coats will be checked downstairs in the locker room, while the women's wraps will be placed in the two upstairs rooms. This plan was decided upon after much deliberation on the part of the committee and it would prove most efficient.

Pittsburgh losers, was lost in the ninth inning when Harding Pitt shortstop, broke up a pitchers' duel between Tim and Sawtonk by slugging out a lousy blow. The other game played by the Orange and Blue also resulted in a defeat, Juniata turning the trick by a score of 5 to 6.

Coach Killinger announced yesterday afternoon that the Penn State line-up for tomorrow was not settled. The two positions causing him most trouble are left field and first base. In the garden Elizabeth, of last year's freshman nine, has been pushing Mas-honey for the left fielder's berth. Killinger or Maloney will be found second in the hitting order tomorrow.

At first, Slattery has been endeavoring to show Coach Killinger in the past week why he should be permitted to remain in the initial six and "Bill" Patton has also been putting up a fight for his old post. At a late date Killinger indicated that Slattery would probably be retained at first in the Bucknell struggle.

The remainder of the line-up is unchanged from that of last week. Killinger at third, and Reed and Loeffler completing the list of infielders. Kestetter will catch and either Longhurst or Harrelson will do the twirling. In the outfield, Captain Palm will hold down the center post and McVicker will take care of things in the right pasture.

"PINAFORE" IS PRESENTED BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

Showing of Comic Opera Is Featured by Skill and Training of Cast Members

The latest venture in the field of music at Penn State was a riel out with great success last night when "Pinafore" was presented before a large audience in the Auditorium by the Music Department. The famous comic opera, coached by the W. C. Grant with the musical effects supervised by Director R. W. Grant was staged in a professional manner and with a finish that received enthusiastic approval.

Standing out as an accomplished artist even in a cast which it once showed much natural talent and careful training, was Betty Call '25 in her superb impersonation of "Josephine." Playing her role with graceful stage presence and singing with brilliant well-modulated tone she contributed largely to the success of the show.

C. E. Pinsky '24 as "Rafe Peck" also displayed a true voice of the little quality while "Don" Brader as the sonorous and dramatic "Captain Corcoran" invested his role with singing and acting that was highly effective. Bruce Butler '26 in the role of the egotistical and pompous "First Lord of the Admiralty," "Sir Joseph Porter," also sang and played his important part in a manner that brought much applause.

Creating a marked impression on the audience and receiving many recalls was Dorothy Pinsky '25 playing the role of "Little Buttercup." She displayed an easy grace and an appealing voice which immediately won the hearts of her audience. W. B. Pischke '25, as the feckless "Dick Deadey" was another bit of the performance while Adrienne Harsh '25 skillfully rounded out a fine cast.

Always responsive to the vision of Director Grant, the orchestra added materially to the successful presentation of the opera, which was given with great spirit and cohesiveness throughout. The work of the chorus being especially effective.

Credits for the excellent staging and planning is due the W. C. Grant Studios the producers of the "Merry-go-round Club," while the scenic effects were handled by A. C. Cloetingh.

"Y" PLANS ERECTION OF MEMORIAL CABIN

outlines and meeting and will be given over to the upon application to the proper authorities. For those parties who may wish to stop but who do not have the key, a large roofed porch will be provided for shelter and a huge outdoor fire-place will be built. It is planned to use dead chestnut and other logs in the cabin which will be obtained through government foresters and hauled right down from the surrounding mountains.

FINANCIAL PLAN

As a part of the scheme to finance the project, an attempt will be made to calculate the price of a single log and then each fraternity will be asked to contribute some logs and the Penn State "S" men will be given an opportunity to purchase some of the big staks. The name of the man or organization furnishing the log will be placed in the wood after the log is in place.

The question of water supply will be carefully taken care of with a line tapped into the pipe which carries water to State College. Dr. E. L. Sparks and "Chief" Olmstead are much interested in the project and hope that sufficient money will be raised to start construction in June. Other shelters will likely result at points somewhat distant from the "Andy" Lytle cabin and this it may become one of a chain of things similar to that at Dartmouth College, which extends for one hundred miles.

FOUR STUDENTS INITIATED BY PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY

Alpha Pi Mu, honorary society for the promotion of scholarship among students in the pre-medical course at Penn State, held its annual initiation last night, and four new members were added to the organization.

The men who were elected to membership were A. B. Dixon, P. J. Kline, D. H. McKinley, and F. H. Miller of the sophomore class. Candidates were initiated into Alpha Pi Mu in their second year because of the fact that the pre-medical course covers three years.

So far as is known at present the Penn State organization is only the second of its kind in the country and students are fortunate in being chosen for its membership. The general aim of the society is to promote and recognize scholarship especially among the students in the pre-medical courses.
